State Naval Militia.

This force consists of Divisions "A" and "B," with a battalion organization. It is quartered on the United States ship "Keystone State," moored at Queen Street Wharf, Philadelphia. The battalion has also the United States Ship "Shearwater," the property of the United States, and loaned by the Navy Department for the use of the Naval Militia. Both ships are unsatisfactory for the purposes of the Naval Militia, the "Keystone State" being old and unsuited to the service in every respect. The "Shearwater" is too small to accommodate properly one Division. Repeated efforts to secure better and more modern ships have been unsuccessful, and the battalion is therefore deprived of the stimulus and encouragement which proper equipment would give it.

Annual Return to the War Department.

Herewith is given the report compiled by the Adjutant General and forwarded by the Governor to the War Department, in accordance with the act of Congress approved January 21, 1903, and which shows the actual strength and the authorized strength of the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

The actual strength as shown in the report is the number and kind of organizations, and the number of officers and enlisted men in the service on December 31, 1905. The authorized strength is the number and kind of organizations authorized by the laws of the Commonwealth, as per the act of Assembly approved April 28th, 1899, and the amendment thereto as per act of Assembly approved March 27, 1903.

Annual Encampment.

The Annual Encampment was held by Brigades in the year 1905 as follows:

The First Brigade at Perkasio, Bucks county, July 8th to 15th inclusive.

The Second Brigade at Erie, Erie county, July 15th to 22d, inclusive.

The Third Brigade at Mount Gretna, Lebanon county, July 8th to 15th inclusive.

The encampments were very successful in every respect.

The following officers were detailed by the War Department to attend the encampments.

To the First Brigade, Major Thaddeus W. Jones, Thirteenth U. S. Cavalry.

To the Second Brigade, Major George Bell, Jr., First U. S. Infantry.

To the Third Brigade, Major H. H. Benham, Twenty-third U. S. Infantry.

The reports made by these officers to the War Department are published in General Orders No. 32, A. G. O., series 1905, and are very full and complete.

The Annual Inspections required by law were made during the Encampments and the Commander-in-Chief and officers of his staff, also the Major General Commanding the Division and officers of his staff, were present at the inspection in each Brigade.

Rifle Practice.

This important work has received the earnest attention and able supervision of the officers in charge during the year. Notwithstanding the many obstacles to be overcome in the way of insufficient range facilities, yet a decided improvement has been made over previous years. A detailed statement of the work done and results attained will be found in the very complete and carefully prepared report of the General Inspector of Rifle Practice published herewith.

A team representing the National Guard of Pennsylvania was selected during the Annual State Matches held at Mt. Gretna, and was sent to Sea Girt, New Jersey, to participate in the National Match. In this match there were thirty-seven teams entered, and the team from Pennsylvania finished in ninth place, a most creditable showing considering the fact that in some states as well as in the U. S. Army, the U. S. Navy and the U. S. Marine Corps, teams are selected early in the year and kept continually at practice for weeks and even months prior to the National Match. In Pennsylvania a marksman must earn his place on the team by his merit and in competition with others, and hence a team thus selected is more nearly representative of the marksmanship of the entire organization, than one selected from men who can afford to give the time for long and continued practice.

The names of the members of the team and scores made, will be found in the report of the General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

The "Bulletin of the National Match" held at Sea Girt, N. J., August 29th, to September 1st, 1905, will be found in General Orders No. 28, A. G. O., series 1905.

Armories.

The committee of the National Guard Association of the State, appointed to secure data and frame legislation to be presented to the General Assembly providing for the erection of armories, prepared and presented a bill having for its purpose the creation of a State Armory Board to supervise the erection of armories and asking an appropriation therefor of five hundred thousand dollars.

Great interest was manifested in this movement, particularly in localities where National Guard organizations existed, and the woe-ful lack of proper armory accommodations was known and understood by the people. The press of the State were very earnest in advocating the passage of the measure. The General Assembly passed the bill but reduced the amount of money asked for from $500,000.00 to $250,000.00.

The act was published in General Orders No. 29, dated Sept. 20, 1905.

The act provides:

"That there shall be appointed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania an Armory Board to consist of the Governor, the Adjutant General, and five persons to be appointed by the Governor, of whom three shall be officers of the National Guard, whose duty it shall be to provide, manage and care for armories for the use of the National Guard of Pennsylvania."

In accordance with the provisions of the act the Governor, on September 20, 1905, appointed the following persons, who, in addition to the Governor and the Adjutant General, constitute the Armory Board, viz:

Albert J. Logan, Colonel and Commissary General.
Charles Bowman Dougherty, Colonel, Ninth Regiment Infantry.
William G. Price, Jr., Colonel, Third Regiment Infantry.
Louis A. Watres, late Colonel Thirteenth Regiment Infantry.
Willis J. Hulings, Colonel, Sixteenth Regiment Infantry.

The members of the Board through long experience in the National Guard, were thoroughly conversant with the necessities of the service and splendidly equipped to carry on the important work committed to their hands. The people of the Commonwealth may be assured that the work will be done in a manner to commend it to their considerate judgment, and to justify the next session of the General Assembly in making most liberal appropriations for its continuance. The State should not hesitate to provide liberally and encouragingly for those of her citizens, who, in the past have served her so faithfully, and who, often at personal sacrifice, give freely of their time and effort to maintain a force upon which the peace and order of the Commonwealth must depend in time of trouble.

Annual Allowance to Officers.

The Adjutant General presented to the General Assembly a bill providing for an annual allowance to officers of the National Guard and State Naval Militia, to assist them in defraying the expense to which they were subjected in supplying themselves with uniforms and equipments. This bill received favorable and generous consideration and became a law. It provides as follows:

"for the payment of an annual allowance to commissioned officers of the National Guard of Pennsylvania and Naval Force of Pennsylvania, as follows: For commissioned officers, required to be mounted, forty dollars per year; for commissioned officers, not required to be mounted, thirty dollars per year: Provided, Such commissioned officer shall have been in commission continuously during the year for which payment is claimed, and that he shall have expended during the year, for uniforms and equipment for himself, a sum equal to or greater than the allowance claimed; and in case where an expenditure greater than the annual allowance is made in any year for which annual allowance is paid, such excess may be included in the voucher for the following year: And provided, That before any payment is made to any officer, for any year, application shall be made for same upon a blank form to be prepared and furnished by the Adjutant General, which blank form shall contain a certificate requiring the claimant to show, by proper vouchers, that he has actually expended during the year, for uniforms and equipment for himself, an amount equal to the annual allowance claimed: And provided further, That in case where a commissioned officer of the National Guard or Naval Force of Pennsylvania shall have served the full term of the commission issued to him, and shall be elected or appointed as a commissioned officer within thirty days from the expiration of former commission, the service of such officer shall be considered continuous so far as it relates to annual allowances herein provided for."

Permanent Camping Ground.

No definite and final action has been taken by the Commission authorized to purchase permanent camping ground.

Death of Captain C. S. W. Jones.

The National Guard suffered a distinct loss in the death of Captain C. S. W. Jones, Sheridan Troop, which occurred at his home in Tyrone, Pa., on May 6, 1905.

Captain Jones served with distinction in the War for the Suppression of the Rebellion, having enlisted as a private in the Second Pennsylvania Cavalry in March, 1862, and being mustered out as Captain, July 13, 1865. He entered the Spanish American War as Captain of the Sheridan Troop, Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, May 11, 1898; was promoted to Major, July 21, 1898; mustered out November 16, 1898.

For twenty-five years he was Captain of the Sheridan Troop in the National Guard. As an officer he was faithful, competent and devoted to the service, inspiring others with his zeal. None were more efficient, none more modest. He was an ideal soldier, an upright citizen, an honest, manly man.

Inauguration of Theodore Roosevelt, President-elect.

The General Assembly by joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives, approved by the Governor the second day of March, 1905, provided for the participation of the National Guard of Pennsylvania in the inaugural ceremonies of Theodore Roosevelt, President-elect of the United States, to be held in Washington, D. C., March 4, 1905, and made an appropriation to pay the expenses of a provisional brigade selected for that purpose.

The resolution provided as follows

"Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be authorized to provide for the participation, by a provisional brigade of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, in the inaugural parade at Washington, District of Columbia, March 4, one thousand nine hundred and five; and to defray the expenses incident thereto, the sum of twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated. The expenditures from this appropriation to be for transportation, subsistence at the rate of one dollar per day, for two days, for each officer and enlisted man, horse hire, quarters, and music, and for which specifically itemized vouchers shall be filed with the Auditor General."

In conformity with the resolution a provisional Brigade was organized and Brigadier General J. P. S. Gobin, Commanding Third Brigade, assigned to command of same. One regiment was taken from each brigade as follows

"War Department,
Washington, March 31, 1905.

"Sir: I have the honor to advise you that, under the authority conferred upon the Secretary of War by the joint resolution of Congress, approved February 28, 1905, entitled a 'Joint Resolution to return to the proper authorities certain Union and Confederate battle flags,' I have caused to be forwarded to you to-day, by express, all the recaptured Union battle flags that were in the custody of the War Department at the time of the approval of said joint resolution, and that could be identified as belonging to your State or as having been borne by military organizations thereof.

"Herewith are enclosed a list of the flags transmitted to you today and a copy of Executive Document No. 163, House of Representatives, 50th Congress, which sets forth all the information that the War Department was able to furnish on February 16, 1888, with regard to the Union and Confederate flags then in its custody. A few of the flags that are described in that document cannot be identified at the present time, their numbers or distinguishing marks having been lost, and a few of the flags that could not be identified in 1888 have since been identified and are now returned to the States to which the organizations that bore them belonged.

"Very respectfully,

"(Signed) ROBERT SHAW OLIVER, Acting Secretary of War."

These flags will be deposited in the Flag Room in the State Capitol Building.

The Adjutant General made some inquiry regarding some of these flags, and in the effort to secure information regarding Flag No. 108 in the above list, and which was stated to be the Flag of the "Logan Guards," the Adjutant General communicated with the President of the First Defender's Association, an association composed of the survivors of the first five companies that volunteered from the State of Pennsylvania, and among which was the "Logan Guards" of Lewistown, Mifflin county, Pa. In reply to this inquiry the Adjutant General received from H. A. Eisenbise, the following communication, which it has been deemed best to make of record:

"Chester, Pa., 5-3, 1905.

"Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart:

"Sir: Your letter of April 17th, 1905, to the President of the First Defenders' Association, through Captain George R. Kalbach, relative to a U. S. flag you received from the War Department, bearing the words 'Logan Guards' painted in the scroll of the U. S. coat-of-arms, was referred to me as a representative of the Logan Guards of Lewistown, Pa., and in accordance with the request of the Secretary of the First Defenders' Association, I took the matter up with several of the surviving members of the Logans and they all concur in saying that they do not remember anything about the flag as you describe it. Personally, I can not remember that our company ever had a U. S. flag, or if they had, how could it get into the War Department, as the flag we took from Lewistown and carried through Baltimore, was the flag that is now in a glass case in the Flag Room at Harrisburg. Our company was named in honor of Logan the Indian Chief, and in my opinion the flag in question belonged to a company of some other state, and was named in honor of General Logan. Submitting the foregoing as the result of my best efforts, I am,

"Very respectfully,

"H. A. EISENBISE."

Dedication of Monument at Andersonville, Ga.

The General Assembly in session of 1903, appropriated the sum of $5,000.00 for the purpose of providing transportation to surviving honorably discharged Pennsylvania soldiers who were at any time during the War for the Suppression of the Rebellion confined in the prison at Andersonville, Ga. This was to permit such surviving soldiers to be present at the dedication of the memorial to be erected by the State of Pennsylvania in the National Cemetery at Andersonville, Ga. The amount was found to be insufficient. The dedication of the memorial was delayed until after the session of the General Assembly of 1905. At the session of 1905 an appropriation of $16,000.00 was made for the purpose of furnishing transportation to the surviving honorably discharged Pennsylvania soldiers who were confined in the Confederate Prison at Andersonville, Ga.

The act of Assembly further provided that the Adjutant General was to provide such transportation and to pay "such sums of money as shall be agreed upon, not exceeding one cent per mile." The Trunk Line Association declined to accept the rate of one cent per mile for this transportation, and after various conferences and much correspondence on the subject, the Trunk Line Association, the Southeastern Passenger Association, and the Central Passenger Association agreed to the following:

"One cent per mile per capita, distance travelled, either via direct or variable route, from points in Pennsylvania to Andersonville, Ga., and return, for honorably discharged soldiers of Pennsylvania holding transportation orders signed by Hon. Thos. J. Stewart, Adjutant General, State of Pennsylvania, with the understanding that every effort will be made by the Adjutant General at the next meeting of the Legislature to secure a further appropriation in order to pay the interested lines carrying the business an additional half cent per mile for the transportation."

This agreement was made by the Adjutant General with the distinct understanding that no obligation rested upon the Adjutant General personally for the additional one-half cent per mile, and that no indebtedness for this one-half cent per mile was being incurred by him on account of the State of Pennsylvania.

The dedication occurred on December 7, 1905. Transportation was furnished under the act of Assembly to 381 surviving honorably discharged soldiers entitled thereto. The Governor of Pennsylvania and Staff were present. A detailed account of disbursements will be made in the next report of the Adjutant General.

Dedication of Monument, 109th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

The monument erected by the State to the 109th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers on Orchard Knob, Chattanooga, Tennessee, was dedicated on December 9, 1905.

Under the act of Assembly the Adjutant General was charged with the duty of providing transportation to the surviving members of this Regiment. The funds for this purpose were received from Captain George W. Skinner, Treasurer of the Executive Committee of the Chickamauga-Chattanooga Battlefields Commission, to whom an accounting has been made. There were present at this dedication 26 survivors of the 109th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers. The Governor and Staff also participated in the ceremonies.

DISBURSEMENTS OF MONEY RECEIVED FROM UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Circular No. 9, War Department, dated September 9, 1903, published regulations governing the apportionment and use by the several states, of the appropriation made by Congress under Section 1661 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by act of June 6, 1900, and act of January 21, 1903.

Paragraph II of said circular provides:

"Under section 14 of the act of January 21, 1903, so much of the allotment of a State or Territory or the District of Columbia out of the annual appropriation under section 1661, Revised Statutes, as amended, 'as shall be necessary for the payment, subsistence and transportation of such portion of its organized militia as shall engage in active field or camp service for instruction' will be paid over 'to the quartermaster-general thereof, or to such other officer of the militia of said State as the said Governor may designate and appoint for the purpose.' Before such payment can be made, however, the following statutory conditions must be complied with:

"1. It must appear by reports of inspections made by officers, detailed for that purpose by the Secretary of War, that the organized militia of a State or Territory or the District of Columbia is sufficiently armed, uniformed and equipped for active duty in the field.

"2. A disbursing officer will then be appointed by the Governor of the State or Territory, or the commanding general of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, from the organized militia. The fact of such appointment and the name of the appointee will be reported to the Secretary of War, who will fix the amount of the bond which such officer shall give faithfully to account for the safe-keeping and payment of the public moneys so intrusted to him for disbursement.

"3. When the bond has been furnished and approved, requisitions may be submitted by the governor for such portion of the amounts standing to the credit of the State, Territory, or the District of Columbia as he may desire to expend in providing for the payment, subsistence and transportation of such portion of the organized militia of such State, Territory, or District of Columbia as shall engage in actual field or camp service for instruction.

"Expenditures will be made by said disbursing officer on the order of the Governor or the commanding general of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, and the accounts current for such disbursements, supported by vouchers, will be rendered monthly to the proper bureau of the War Department, with a view to their final submission to the proper accounting officers of the Treasury for settlement."

Under the provisions of the above mentioned circular the Governor of Pennsylvania designated and appointed Brigadier General Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, as Disbursing Officer of the Organized Militia of Pennsylvania. This appointment was approved by the Secretary of War. The Disbursing Officer filed a bond with the War Department in the sum of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000.00), which bond was approved by the Secretary of War.

The Governor of Pennsylvania made a requisition upon the War Department for sixty thousand dollars ($60,000.00) which was approved and this amount placed to the credit of the Disbursing Officer of the Organized Militia of Pennsylvania with the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Philadelphia, the funds to be used in paying for transportation and subsistence of the Organized Militia of Pennsylvania, for Annual Encampment held in the year 1904.

REPORTS OF DEPARTMENTAL OFFICERS.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.

(For reports of the Inspector General, see General Orders Nos. 20 and 32, A. G. O., Series 1905, published herewith as Appendix F.)

REPORT OF THE COMMISSARY GENERAL, 1905.

Office of Commissary General,
119 Third Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.,
July 28, 1905.

Brig. Gen. Thos. J. Stewart, Adjutant General, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report in reference to the operations of the Commissary Department of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, during the Encampments of the several Brigades during July, 1905.

I was unable to attend the Encampments of the First and Third Brigades and was excused from this duty by the Commander-in-Chief.

Lt. Col. Horace L. Haldeman, Assistant Commissary General of Subsistence, visited the Encampments of the First and Third Brigades and made a careful inspection of the work of the Department. I herewith attach his report and make it part of my report for this tour of duty.

I was present for two days at the Encampment of the Second Brigade at Erie, Pennsylvania, and I carefully inspected the work of the Commissary Department and am glad to be able to report that the quality of rations purchased were good and the quantity ample. I visited all the company kitchens, and made inquiry of those in charge as to the quality and quantity of rations and was universally assured that the rations were entirely satisfactory. I made inquiry in reference to the extra rations that were being purchased from company funds, and am glad to be able to report that they were less than has been the custom heretofore.

The care of the supplies in the kitchens showed an improvement and the care and preparation of the food appeared to be much better than two years ago, on the occasion of my first inspection of the kitchens.

I am of the opinion, however, that the mode of issue from the Regimental Commissary to the company should be changed and that the Regimental Commissary should be provided with proper facilities for caring for the supplies received from the Brigade Commissary, also the issues to the company should be made daily by the Regimental Commissary. This would avoid the necessity of companies providing for the care of a large quantity of supplies and would also prevent careless cooks from wasting supplies by cooking too great an amount for a meal.

The personal appearance of many of the cooks was not as neat and clean as should be required by company commanders.

The Fifth Regiment still adheres to the custom of using a canvas fly as the only protection for the cooking. This I think unwise, as it is almost impossible to properly protect the food by the use of such a kitchen.

I am glad to be able to report that all those attached to the Department are deeply interested in their work, using their best endeavors to conduct the work successfully.

Thanking you, and those with whom I came in contact in the course of my official duty, for the uniform courtesy and kindness extended to me, I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

ALBERT J. LOGAN,
Colonel and Commissary General of Subsistence, N. G. P.

REPORT OF ASSISTANT COMMISSARY GENERAL, 1905.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26th, 1905.

The Commissary General of Subsistence, N. G. P., Pittsburg, Penna.:

Sir: I have the honor to report that, in compliance with your instructions, I inspected, at the encampment of the First Brigade, at Perkasio, Pa., on July 13th, and at that of the Third Brigade, at Mount Gretna, Pa., on July 14th, 1905, the supplies issued by the commissary department as to the quality and quantity.

I visited the store-houses and each company kitchen, and questioned the brigade and regimental commissaries, also the company quartermaster, sergeants and cooks.

I found the quality, quantity and variety of the State issue good and ample, and this report was almost universal. There was less purchasing of extra supplies by the companies than in previous years, and in cases where this occurred, it was caused by the entertainment of "guests" in the various companies. This is an objectionable feature, from every standpoint, that ought to be discouraged. Many companies, among them some of the best in the National Guard, subsisted exclusively on the State issue, reporting that the purchasing of extras was wholly unnecessary.

While there is room for improvement in a number of companies, the sanitary condition and cleanliness of the cooks, kitchens, as well as the preparation and care of supplies, was better than during the encampments of 1903 and 1904. The greatest advance I found in this connection was that of a regiment of which the regimental commissary has taken a general and intelligent supervision of all the kitchens of the regiment. There is an improvement in all branches of your department. The officers are intelligent, painstaking, show much interest in their duties, and are deserving of commendation.

The commissary department was successful in all respects in properly and promptly supplying the troops of the Third Brigade on the practice march. A majority of the companies report that they returned to camp with rations sufficient for another day.

Very respectfully,

HORACE L. HALDEMAN,
Lieut. Col. and Asst. Comms'y Gen'l of Sub., N. G. P.

REPORT OF GENERAL INSPECTOR OF RIFLE PRACTICE, 1905.

Office of General Inspector of Rifle Practice,
National Guard of Pennsylvania,

Pittsburg, May 1, 1906.

The Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit to you the report of the Department of Rifle Practice for the year ending October 31, 1905.

In compliance with G. O. No. 8, Circular No. 1, the season for rifle practice opened May 1 and closed October 31, 1905.

The interest taken in the work of rifle practice was greater during the year just closed than at any time since the reorganization of the National Guard of Pennsylvania after the Spanish-American war, the reports showing not only an increased number firing but an increased figure of merit. The number firing in 1905 exceeded the number firing in 1904 by 1,084 and the figure of merit was increased 7.18.

The figure of merit of many of the companies suffers from the fact that it is impossible for them to get ranges for the long distance shooting and for skirmish. Most of the companies do not have access to such ranges and some have, but only by going long distances.

There is an inexcusable delay in the forwarding of returns at the close of the season. If the company commanders have followed the letter of the requirements there is not one but can, if he will, have his reports ready for forwarding as soon as the season closes. A company commander who is so negligent or so busy that he cannot forward his report within the required time should employ some person to get it ready for his signature.

The number of men qualifying during the season of 1905 as compared with 1904 is shown in detail in the following table:

1905,	351	102	2,280	1,188	2,099	809	2,250	62.10	9,263	1,010

It is gratifying to note that the number of fourth class men is reduced 84, but the number is still 2,250 and it is probable that more than two-thirds of them are of the class who did not visit the range or fire a shot. This is caused largely by a slowness in getting the men to the ranges early in the season. The experience of years has shown that it is much easier to get the men on the ranges before the annual encampment than later in the year and the company which pushes to get as large a percentage practiced in the first three months of the season is the one which accomplishes the most with the least labor.

The following table shows the comparative work done in each organization in 1904 and 1905. Attention is called to the fact that in but one organization did the number of men qualified in 1905 fall below that of 1904 and as the deficiency in that regiment is but six men, it is easily accounted for by the natural changes which occur in an organization during the course of a year:

General Headquarters,	13	50.00	12	41.37
Division Headquarters,	7	36.84	9	42.10

THE STATE RIFLE MATCHES.

The twentieth annual State Rifle Competitions were held upon the State Rifle Range, at Mt. Jretna, Pa., beginning August 7, 1905, in compliance with General Orders No. 18, Circular No. 2, current series. The range had been put in excellent condition by Lieutenant Colonel William F. Richardson and the improvements made added much to the fairness of the competitions and to the ease with which they were conducted.

There are now fifty-one targets on the range including all ranges and the pistol targets. The increasing of the number of targets at short and mid range to twenty-one at each distance enabled all teams to shoot in the same competitions over the same ranges at the same time. All teams now have exactly the same light and weather conditions, a fact which was much appreciated by the men and met with their universal commendation.

The old revolver range, which interfered with work at 300 yards and at the long ranges has been demolished and a new revolver range constructed just back of the statistical office in which are six targets, placed in pairs in eschelon at 25, 50 and 75 yards, with the firing points all on the same line. The revolver range has never been as popular as during these competitions, the number of scores fired being double that of any previous year. For this reason the old methods of scoring on the revolver range proved cumbersome and difficult to handle. A new system which will much simplify the work has been devised by the statistical officer and will be put into use in the 1906 competitions.

A new match, the Rapid Fire Match, was introduced this year for the first time. Scores were not high because the large majority of the men had never had previous experience in such a contest. It was introduced in order to develop the men in rapid fire work and the experiences of the State Team in the National match show that much practice of this character is needed.

A new winner of the Champion Shot medal appeared this year in the person of Private Robert Gamble, of the First Infantry, whose aggregate was 672. Private Gamble is not a new man in the contests but has fought and worked for years to attain the distinction of winning the Governor's medal.

The mess arrangements at the State Rifle Range were excellent and its quality was of that same standard which has marked Lieutenant Colonel Richardson's work as chief commissary in past years.

A particularly pleasing feature of the contest was the presence of the Adjutant General and the three Brigade Commanders, whose interest inspired the contestants to do their utmost to win.

The officers in charge of the competitions of 1905 were as follows:

Chief Executive Officer, Col. Frank K. Patterson, General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

Assistant Executive Officer, Lieut. Col. E. V. D. Selden, Division Inspector of Rifle Practice.

Post Adjutant and Statistical Officer, Maj. William P. Clarke, Inspector Third Brigade.

Post Quartermaster and Commissary, Lieut. Col. W. F. Richardson, Division Quartermaster.

Range Officers.—Maj. W. Fred. Reynolds, Ordnance Officer Second Brigade; Maj. Franck G. Darte, Ordnance Officer Third Brigade; Maj. E. Claude Goddard, Ordnance Officer First Brigade.

Range Officer, Pistol Range, Capt. John A. Kenny, Ninth Infantry.

Surgeon, Capt. J. Mark Peters, Medical Department.

The United States circular bulls eye targets were used in all matches except the skirmish match, for which target "G" was used, and the Rapid Fire match, for which target "F" was used.

Two practice matches for both Infantry and Cavalry were shot on August 7, the morning being devoted to slow fire at 200, 500 and 600 yards, and the afternoon to rapid fire at 200 and 500 yards. The team representing the Fourteenth Infantry won the former and the team of the Sixth Infantry the latter. The Second Troop team won both Cavalry practices.

THE STATE TEAM.

At the conclusion of the State Matches, at Mt. Gretna, twenty men were selected to remain for a weeks practice and from whom the team which was to represent the State in the National Match was selected. These men worked faithfully, principally at skirmish, rapid fire and 1,000 yards and from them the following team for the National Match was selected:

Team Captain, Colonel Frank K. Patterson, General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

Team Adjutant, Major William P. Clarke, Inspector Third Brigade.

Team Coach, Captain Edwin R. Bergstresser, Inspector of Rifle Practice Eighth Infantry.

Team Surgeon, Captain J. Mark Peters, Medical Department.

Spotter, Sergeant H. C. Bream, Company G, Eighth Infantry.

Major E. Claude Goddard, Ordnance Officer First Brigade.

Private Robert Gamble, Company C, First Infantry.

Private Albert L. Dunn, Jr., Company C, First Infantry.

Battalion Sergeant Major Edward D. Fried, Fourth Infantry.

Color Sergeant Humphrey Porterfield, Sixth Infantry.

Battalion Sergeant Major George E. Beitch, Tenth Infantry.

Color Sergeant Elmer E. Slopey, Twelfth Infantry.

Major Frank Robling, Jr., Thirteenth Infantry.
Principal Musician Charles Moore, Thirteenth Infantry.
Captain George B. Shields, Inspector Rifle Practice Fourteenth Infantry.
Sergeant William G. Hay, Company A, Fourteenth Infantry.
Captain George B. Shields, Inspector Rifle Practice, Fourteenth Infantry.
Sergeant John W. Gray, Company H, Fourteenth Infantry.
Color Sergeant John W. Hessian, Eighteenth Infantry.

The National Trophy Match was shot at Sea Girt, N. J., August 29, 30, 31 and September 1, under the direction of Brig. Gen. W. P. Hall, Military Secretary, Executive Officer.

Sea Girt is an excellent rifle range but the National Matches of 1905 clearly demonstrated that this important event has entirely outgrown the present facilities of the New Jersey range. As in previous years, at Sea Girt there was never any lack of opportunity for practice at the short ranges but at skirmish and the long ranges scarcely sufficient was obtainable to secure the elevations of the rifles. This was owing to the fact that there were but half enough long distance targets to accommodate the number of teams entered and the skirmish range was equipped with but two sets of skirmish targets. For the success of this match it is an absolute necessity that the range over which it is shot should have a target for each team at each distance and not less than three, four would be better, sets of skirmish figures. Much of the delay and dissatisfaction growing out of the 1905 contest, and there was a great deal expressed, grew out of the inadequacy of the range.

The army officers in charge of the competition are not, however, entirely free from fault in that respect. While not for one moment casting any reflection upon the absolute fairness of General Hall and those associated with him, the fact remains that the matches dragged and much time that could and should have been saved was lost because no advantage was taken of opportunities. The match had outgrown the arrangements made for it and the officers in charge, unaccustomed to handling large meetings of this character, lost opportunities which would have been seized by any one of a dozen men present on the range and accustomed to handling annual competitions.

It is to be hoped that the National Board will never again afflict us with such an arrangement as that of 1905. Shooting the individual match before the team match was a great mistake and there can be little doubt that the blunder was so great that it was seen and realized by all. It caused the various teams to remain at Sea Girt a week longer than was necessary and caused a weakening of some teams, owing to the fact that individuals who had come a long distance and had but a limited time could not remain until the end of the shooting.

The Pennsylvania State Team took ninth place in a field of thirty-seven teams. Three of the eight teams leading were from the regular service where the competitors make the profession of arms their daily life and where the teams are kept together and practiced as teams for months, and at least two of the State teams leading Pennsylvania practiced their teams as teams all summer long.

The extra week of practice given the Pennsylvania team at Mt. Gretna accomplished much for the men. The most appreciable benefit is seen in the increase of 237 points over Pennsylvania's score at Fort Riley in 1904. Had this score been made at Fort Riley, Pennsylvania would have finished fourth, but while our men were improving those of other teams were also taking advantage of what they learned at Fort Riley and increasing scores.

Of the teams which led Pennsylvania at Fort Riley our team passed, at Sea Girt the U. S. Cavalry team and the District of Columbia team, and was passed by New Jersey and Massachusetts. The Ohio and Illinois teams were not in the 1904 competition.

It will be interesting to note that while Pennsylvania increased her score by 237 points over 1904, the teams leading Pennsylvania increased theirs as follows: New York 206, U. S. Infantry 210, U. S. Marine Corps 282, New Jersey 378, Massachusetts 282. The U. S. Navy team scored six points less than in 1904. Of the teams passed by Pennsylvania, District of Columbia gained 218 points and the U. S. Cavalry lost 48 points.

Another matter worthy of note is that in the four days shooting the New Jersey team which, by reason of being on its home range was acquainted with all its wind currents and peculiarities, led the Pennsylvania team by but 47 points, and so closely were the teams bunched that 69 additional points would have placed Pennsylvania in fifth place.

The detailed score of the Pennsylvania team and the result of the match follow:

"Ifs," however, do not win matches and there is much hard work ahead to bring Pennsylvania to the place she should occupy. At present rapid fire is a very weak spot and needs much practicing and development. Not less than 100 points should be added to the 1905 aggregate by next year's team. This can only be done by practice on the home ranges and an earnest effort on the part of candidates for the team to strengthen their weak points.

The score at 1,000 yards was far less than was anticipated but the conditions prevailing when it was shot were very severe. A rain storm with constantly changing winds and lights made good scores exceedingly difficult, and some of our best shots made low scores because they were caught in these rapid changes. Pennsylvania was not the only sufferer, some of the best shots in some of the best teams missing the target with more than half of their shots; one man in particular, who was supposed to be thoroughly acquainted with the range, never found the target in his twelve shots.

The rule of no coaching was openly evaded by most of the teams and was made such a dead letter that it was of doubtful expediency. It was no uncommon thing when a shot was fired and not recorded for the team captain to say, so the shooter could hear it, "Never mind calling it up, scorer, it was a miss; I saw where it hit." Now as a shot in the bank was the only one a glass could show the shooter knew he was low and corrected accordingly.

While the Pennsylvania team was not a winner at Sea Girt it was envied by every team there because it had its own mess, which was far superior to that of the general mess or the club house, and such officers as were fortunate enough to be our guests for a meal did not hesitate to express themselves. With the general mess of 1904 in their recollections, the men of the Pennsylvania team enjoyed it heartily.

The National individual match was won by Private Joseph Durward, Jr., Company G, Fifth Massachusetts, with a score of 430.

Pennsylvania did not enter any person officially but all the members of the team entered as individuals. There were 656 men in the competition and five of the Pennsylvania men were in the first 100.

Private Robert Gamble, Company C, First Infantry, was 47 with a score of 379, Color Sergeant John W. Hesslan, Eighteenth Infantry, was 49 with a score of 378; Major George E. Kemp, Third Infantry, was 70 with a score of 367; Private Albert L. Dunn, Jr., Company C, First Infantry, was 85 with a score of 359; Color Sergeant Elmer E. Slopey, Twelfth Infantry, was 88 with a score of 358.

In the National Revolver Competition were three members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. There were 118 entries and the match was won by Lieut. R. H. Sayer, Squadron A, New York National Guard, with a score of 237.

Sergeant Harry L. Reeves, Second Troop, P. C. C., captured fifth place, winning a silver medal and a cash prize of $15.

Captain George B. Shields, I. R. P., Fourteenth Infantry, was 66, with a score of 193, and Color Sergeant John W. Hesslan, Eighteenth Infantry, was 78, with a score of 182.

I wish to express my gratitude to yourself for the great interest which you have always shown in this department and for your presence during the State Matches, which was appreciated not only by myself but by every officer and enlisted man present. I am also indebted to Lieut. Col. W. F. Richardson, Post Quartermaster and Commissary; Lieut. Col. E. V. D. Selden, Division Inspector of Rifle Practice; Major William P. Clarke, Statistical Officer, and all who took part in the competitions, as well as to those who contributed so generously in furnishing the handsome medals and trophies as prizes for the competitions at Mt. Gretna.

Very respectfully,

FRANK K. PATTERSON,
Colonel and Gen. Insp. Rifle Practice.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, NAVAL FORCE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Headquarters First Battalion,
Naval Force of Pennsylvania,
U. S. S. Keystone State,

Philadelphia, November 13, 1905.

The Adjutant General, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to make the following report of the First Battalion, Naval Force of Pennsylvania, for the current year.

Drills have been held weekly, with but few exceptions, during the entire year.

The annual inspection was made by the Inspector General on the nights of April 17-18, and proved satisfactory.

The Commander's commission expired April 24 and he was re-elected June 6th.

Ensign Horace Wanamaker resigned in July for business reasons.

The summer tour of duty was made on board the U. S. S. Tacoma, commanded by Commander R. F. Nicholson, U. S. Navy, from August 9th to 16th, both inclusive, and so far as I know was satisfactory to the officers of the regular navy attached to the Tacoma.

The officers of the battalion were detailed for duty according to rank, one officer, Lieut. Nelson, being in charge of a gun division composed of the regular ship's company as well as militia men. The officers stood regular watch on the bridge both at sea and in port.

The men were put in the vacant billets of the ship's company and performed their various duties in a very satisfactory manner.

Except while going and returning, the cruising was done in Chesapeake Bay in order to escape the fogs on the New England coast.

Target practice with 6 pounder rapid fire guns was held and 20 per cent. hits were made at 800 yards on regulation target.

Every opportunity was given the men to exercise in the boats, and instruction was also given with the semaphore and Ardois system of signals.

The health of the officers and men was good and no accidents happened.

I consider that this last cruise on the Tacoma was the most satisfactory one that has been made since I have been in command.

The Shearwater being at League Island Navy Yard all summer, no short cruises were made.

I can not help saying that in my opinion that if a more accessible dock could be obtained it would be a great help to the battalion in many ways.

Very respectfully,

C. W. RUSCHENBERGER,
Commanding Naval Force of Pennsylvania.

U. S. S. Tacoma,
At Sea,

November 22, 1905.

Sir: In compliance with the Department's Order No. 2990-46, of November 10, 1905, I have the honor to submit the following report on the cruise of this vessel with the Pennsylvania Naval Militia:

In obedience to Squadron Commander's order No. 296-M-CBB, of July 28, 1905, I proceeded with the vessel under my command to Philadelphia, Pa., and received on board the Naval Militia of that State, 8 officers and 80 men, at about 10:30 A. M., August 9th.

As soon as received aboard the Naval Militia officers and men were stationed as would be a regular draft, the watch officers standing watch with the regular deck officers, the Navigator, Engineer Officer and Surgeon being assigned to duty with officers of similar duty. The crew were divided amongst the regular divisions of the vessel; the deck force, engineer's force, signalmen, etc., according to their special qualifications as shown on their enlistment records. As far as this cruise was concerned, their organization was obliterated, they becoming a part of the ship's company. The regular drills of the ship were carried on, and in addition, the militia was given special instructions under their own officers. This was more especially for the benefit of the officers.

In addition to making the cruise an instructive one, it was my endeavor to make the life on board as attractive as possible, and with this in view, boat races, boxing matches, swimming parties, etc., were arranged and encouraged.

At 10:55 A. M., August 9th, we got under way and stood down the Delaware river, coming to anchor at sundown behind the Delaware breakwater. At 5:15 A. M., next morning, August 10th, got under way and stood out at sea, heading for the Capes of Chesapeake. At 9:34 P. M., that evening, came to anchor in the Chesapeake Bay, off Tangier Sound. Next morning, August 11th, got under way and stood up the Chesapeake Bay, coming to anchor a little after 12:00 o'clock off Solomon's Island, Patuxent River. At 3:55 P. M., got under way and stood up the Chesapeake Bay, anchoring off Chesapeake Beach at 6:30 P. M. Saturday, August 12th, got under way at 1:15 P. M., and stood down the Bay for Patuxent River, coming to anchor in the roadstead at 3:45 P. M., remaining at anchor all next day, Sunday, August 13th. All the men that wanted to go, were granted liberty for swimming parties and general boating, but no one was allowed to visit the town of Solomon's Island. At 6:50 A. M., August 14th, got under way and stood down the Bay, coming to anchor at 9:10 A. M., off Tangier Sound, for the purpose of holding target practice. A target was built as nearly as possible resembling the regulation navy target, and all the gun pointers of the Naval Militia fired 6 shots each, some of them doing very good shooting. At 1:00 P. M., same date, got under way and stood down Chesapeake Bay, bound for the Capes of the Delaware. August 15th, came to anchor in the Delaware Bay. August 16th, got under way and proceeded up the Delaware River to Philadelphia, coming to anchor at 8:15 A. M. The Pennsylvania Naval Militia left the ship at 9:00 A. M., after exchanging cheers with the crew of this vessel.

The exercises during this short cruise consisted of great gun drills, general quarters, Morris Tube, loading machine and sub-calibre practice, firing efficiency drills, fire quarters, and also the regular routine drills of a man-o-war. The men were at the wheel, con and lead constantly. They were also given every opportunity to watch and assist in handling of the anchors and chains. When at anchor boating for drill and for pleasure was almost constantly carried on.

The officers, in addition to the regular duties assigned them, were given every opportunity to take and work out the usual sights, fix the ship's position by bearings and use of charts.

The Pennsylvania Naval Militia, officers and men, showed zeal and aptitude for the service, and when the conditions under which they serve, and their opportunities, is taken into consideration, their present state of efficiency is remarkable. They would form a valuable addition to the navy in time of war.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) R. F. NICHOLSON,
Commander, U. S. Navy, Commanding.

REPORT OF MAJOR GENERAL COMMANDING DIVISION, 1905.

Headquarters of the Division, N. G. P.,
Franklin, Pa., December 14th, 1905.

To the Adjutant General, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report the operations of the Division for the year ending November 30th, 1905.

The report of the Inspector General on the winter inspection of the troops was very satisfactory and shows the continued efforts of the company officers to maintain their positions and increase the efficiency of the service.

The appointment of the Army Board by the Governor receives the general approval of the officers of the Division, and insures rapid and faithful work toward securing the armories so badly needed. This will undoubtedly greatly encourage enlistments, improve the personnel and help the companies in every way, resulting in an improvement in the drill of the recruit and giving opportunity for more advanced work during the annual encampment.

The report of the Inspector of the Division on the condition of the Cavalry is so favorable that I desire to express my appreciation of the efforts of the officers and men.

I was honored with the appointment as Special Aid to the Governor and Commander of the Second Division, Inaugural Parade, at the inauguration of President Roosevelt, which gave me the opportunity of witnessing the review of the Provisional Brigade from Pennsylvania selected to represent the State on that occasion. I was greatly pleased with their appearance, though I regret that the entire Division could not have been present, as at the inauguration of the five preceding Presidents.

The encampments being by brigades this year, the First and Third Brigades occupying their former camp grounds at Perkasié and Mount Gretna, respectively, I was glad to see the improvement in the condition of the kitchens and that part of the camps in which they are situated, though I believe the kitchens and sinks should be separated to the greatest possible distance. The appearance of the First and Third Brigades was in every respect satisfactory. The Second Brigade Camp at Erie was also very fine and the troops looked very well. The conduct of the men in the city of Erie was made a subject of special investigation by an officer of my staff, and I am glad to be able to congratulate General Willey and Major Reynolds, his Provost Marshal, on the splendid discipline maintained during the eight days of so large a camp so near a city.

My commission expiring on July 25th, I was honored with a re-appointment, which I accepted with a very deep feeling of compliment paid me by the Governor and Commander-in-Chief in thereby expressing his approval of my services during the past five years.

I re-appointed all the members of my staff except Lt. Colonel James W. Oakford, who, desiring to resign on account of pressure of business had concluded to remain as Judge Advocate until the expiration of the Major General's commission, and at his own request was not re-appointed.

Colonel Louis A. Watres, of Scranton, was appointed to the position of Judge Advocate.

I wish to express my appreciation of the services of Lt. Colonel Oakford, who performed his duties in a careful, conscientious and masterly manner, having to decide many points of law that were of vital importance to the service.

Having been granted leave of absence for sixty days, I was absent abroad from July 26th to September 10th, 1905.

Three Courts of Inquiry were ordered from these Headquarters during the year in the Fourteenth and Fifth Regiments. The officers detailed for these courts all performed their duties in a satisfactory manner.

The State and the National Guard met with a severe loss in the death of Captain Charles S. W. Jones, Commander of the Sheridan Troop, at Tyrone, which occurred May 6th. Captain Jones was a true type of the American soldier; modest, brave and reliable at all times. With Sheridan through the War of the Rebellion, and commanding the Sheridan Troop for more than thirty-five years in the State service. He was Pennsylvania's cavalry commander in the Volunteer service in the war with Spain, and whether in the Shenandoah Valley, his native state, or Porto Rico, he was always the same quiet gentleman and brave soldier.

During the year it has been my pleasure to review the cadets at Girard College, Philadelphia, and at State College. They both presented battalions which were highly creditable to their officers.

I also attended the convention of the National Guard Association of Pennsylvania at Pittsburg, November 24th, and wish to add my endorsement to their action regarding the passage of a law protecting the uniform of the Army and National Guard from common usage by all persons.

The Commander of the Third Brigade, in his annual Report, calls attention to a fact that should not be overlooked: The independent military organization. The organization in many cases are chartered which gives them certain authority without any responsibility. In other words, they are permitted to maintain a military organization. Now, ~~there~~ can be but one real purpose back of a military organization, which is force, violent force in the extreme if necessary. There should be no other force in a republic than that which supports the law, and as these organizations cannot be used for this purpose, they should not exist. In addition to this fact is the one stated by Brigadier General Gobin regarding their wearing the same uniform, bearing the same rank and titles as our officers and the officers of the army, and the danger of their becoming controlled by irresponsible parties. This question is a serious one, and does call for the attention of the authorities.

The Commander of the Second Brigade, in his report, recommends that the dress uniform be permitted under certain circumstances at the annual encampments. This recommendation meets with my hearty approval, for the reasons stated by General Wiley, as well as for the fact that I do not favor the tendency to discontinue the use of the blue as the military uniform of the soldier of the United States. A republic depends much upon sentiment, and the sentiment connected with the blue uniform, as with the flag, should, in my opinion, be encouraged.

The Commander of the First Brigade calls attention to the necessity of an additional allowance to the commands showing practice on the long distance ranges. I fully agree with General Schall in this, and sincerely hope that additional allowance can be made to all commands for rifle practice, that they may have money for transportation to the ranges, as they must now, of necessity, be well outside of the city or town, and each man should have his transportation paid to the range at least twice during the season.

Another question has been given prominence to a great extent lately, namely, the substituting of men in camp and on inspection. To my mind, this is one of the most serious offenses of which an officer can be guilty, as it places every officer in the service, as well as the entire organization on uncertain ground, and may make any officer guilty before the law, while he is perfectly innocent. An officer in charge of a guard may require one of the men to perform a duty, not knowing that the man is not a soldier, as he seems to be, but simply a citizen whom some officer has uniformed and paraded for the purpose of increasing his number. This is a serious condition that affects every officer. Another serious thing is the fact that there have been cases where officers have not hesitated to take a false oath on the muster of their company. This question has caused much complaint on the part of our very efficient inspectors, all of whom are influenced by an undoubted desire to improve the service and correct the evils that spring up. Court martials being both inconvenient and expensive, many of these cases come to the knowledge of the inspectors and are reported, but nothing is done regarding them; this becomes known and from developments it seems that the practice is increasing.

In connection with the above, I wish to most earnestly recommend that the attention of all officers be called to the necessity of their knowing how to conduct courts of inquiry. This is also a very important and necessary duty to which any officer may be called at any time, and it seems is not given the serious consideration that it requires.

In closing this report I wish to express my thanks to the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, to yourself, and to the officers of the General Staff with whom I have been so closely associated, for their many courtesies and kindnesses, and also to all officers of the Division for their faithful service.

Very respectfully,

CHARLES MILLER,
Major General Commanding.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR OF RIFLE PRACTICE, DIVISION, 1905.

Office Inspector of Rifle Practice, Division N. G. P., Oil City, Pa., November 30, 1905.

To the Assistant Adjutant General, Division, N. G. P., Franklin, Pennsylvania:

Sir: I have the honor to report herewith the operations of this department as they presented themselves to my observation, for the year ending November 30, 1905.

In compliance with General Orders No. 5 A. G. O., c. s., the season for rifle practice opened May 1st, to close September 30, 1905. In subsequent orders, the time was extended to October 30, 1905. For some years past an increased allowance was granted for maintenance of ranges, to each organization that qualified a certain number of men, this allowance to be reduced proportionally as a lesser number of men were qualified. This proportionate reduction should act as an inducement to the organizations to qualify the full number of men to enable them to secure the full allowance for their commands.

The teams of the various organizations of the guard reported August 7, at Mt. Gretna, Pa., on the State rifle range, for practice and competition.

Each organization of the guard reported a team, with the exception of the State Naval Militia and Artillery.

The competition was a most satisfactory one. I reported for duty at the range to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice, August 7, and remained through the entire tour of duty.

There was close interest, and an earnest endeavor to excel by the members of each team. I should judge that the results were very beneficial and satisfactory.

A number of improvements have been made on the rifle range this year, which are of importance. At the 200 yard and 500 yard ranges, the number of targets at each range was increased from 11 targets to 21 targets, without extending the front of the ranges; a 300-yard firing point was also constructed. The location of the revolver range was also changed, and a much better and safer range constructed. The alteration and improvements were made under the supervision and direction of the Adjutant General, who is fully alive to the importance of rifle practice.

The trophies presented by Major General Miller, to each brigade and cavalry, were competed for at Mt. Gretna and won by the following organizations:

2nd Brigade trophy, won by 14th Regiment, with a score of 969.

1st Brigade trophy, won by 1st Regiment, with a score of 950.

3rd Brigade trophy, won by 13th Regiment, with a score of 959.

Cavalry trophy, won by the First Troop, P. C. C., with a score of 913.

These results were secured, August 7, at regimental practice, and rapid fire practice, and August 9, skirmish practice.

As the trophy for the 2d Brigade had been won in 1904, by the 14th Regiment for three times, under the terms of the contest, it remained in their possession; consequently, Major General Miller offered another bronze trophy for contest by the regimental teams of that Brigade.

Brigadier General John W. Schall and Brigadier General John A. Wiley, visited the camp for a few days. The Adjutant General, Brigadier General Thos. J. Stewart, was also with us during the entire tour of duty.

An essential requirement of a soldier is to be able to hit the object at which he is aiming. The man who is well drilled and disciplined is of but little utility in action, unless he be well skilled with the rifle. With this idea in view the National Government are encouraging and fostering a national rifle contest from teams collected from the different states and the regular establishment; these teams to compete each year. This year Sea Girt, N. J., was selected as the site for the contest, on the grounds of the state of New Jersey Rifle Association.

After the competitions at Mt. Gretna, Pa., a team was selected to represent our State at Sea Girt, N. J., in the National Trophy Match. The selection was made, based upon the scores made during the competitions at Mt. Gretna, Pa.

The team selected remained for some days at Mt. Gretna for practice, then went to Sea Girt, N. J., for some preliminary practice before the match.

At the request of the General Inspector of Rifle Practice, I reported to him at Sea Girt, N. J., for any duty that might present itself, and remained there during the preliminary practice.

The number of teams that competed in the National Trophy Match amounted to 37, which included teams from various states of the Union, as well as teams from the regular establishment. The Pennsylvania team finishing ninth, with a total score of 4220.

This year there was much more interest and enthusiasm manifested than last year, as evidenced by the increased number of entries.

For the season of 1906, there should be the same interest and an earnest striving for place; consequently, to retain our present position, we will have to work all the harder, and with greater effort and intelligence.

Yours respectfully,

E. V. D. SELDEN,

Lt. Col. and I. R. P., Division, N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, FIRST BRIGADE, 1905.

Headquarters First Brigade,
City Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.,
January 15th, 1906.

The Adjutant General, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report showing the operations of the First Brigade during the year ending December 31st, 1905. The present strength of the Brigade is:

Officers,	219
Enlisted men,	2,942
Aggregate,	3,161

The annual inspection by the Brigade inspector under the supervision of Brigadier General Chambers McKibbin, U. S. A., was held during the months of February, March, April and May, showing the usual high standard. First Infantry, Colonel Wendell P. Bowman, commanding, received the highest average.

The Brigade encamped at Perkasio, Pa., from July 8th to 15th. The Camp was named after the late Governor, Robert E. Pattison. Major Thaddeus W. Jones, 13th U. S. Cavalry, was detailed by the War Department to make the usual observations. I am gratified to state that the official report was very creditable to the entire command.

The annual rifle and revolver contests were held at the First Regiment Range October 13th and 14th.

The Brigade Trophy Match for regimental teams was won by the First Troop, P. C. C.

The Second class Regimental was won by the Second Infantry.

The Revolver Team Match was won by Second Troop, P. C. C.

The Hatfield Trophy was won by First Lieutenant John P. Wood, Second Troop, P. C. C.

At Annual State Rifle Competition held at Mt. Gretna, Pa., the First Brigade won the following matches:

Final contest for the Trexler Trophy

The Brigade Match.

The Rapid Fire Match was won by the First Infantry.

Regimental won by First Infantry.

Regimental Skirmish won by Third Infantry.

Cavalry Match won by Second Troop, P. C. C.

Expert and Enlisted Men's Matches won by Sergeant H. L. Reeves.

Governor's Medal won by Private R. Gamble, Co. C, First Infantry.

The Brigade rifle qualifications for the season 1905 were as follows:

Experts,	112
Sharpshooters,	18
Marksmen,	835
First classmen,	584
Second classmen,	700
Third classmen,	825
Fourth classmen,	825
Aggregate,	3,475

The revolver qualifications were as follows:

Experts,	120
Marksmen,	211
Total,	331

Since the rifle practice requirements have been increased by additional long range shooting, the expenses of the officers and men have likewise increased. I would recommend an additional allowance to the commands showing practice at the long distance ranges.

The act of Assembly providing for the erection of armories will meet a condition that should have immediate action; it will relieve the soldiers of this Commonwealth from the undesirable service of soliciting subscriptions from the citizens for the purpose of constructing the necessary buildings required in order that we may properly instruct the officers and men of the National Guard.

During the year the following changes were made on the Staff of these Headquarters:

Captain Thomas J. Dolan, A. D. C., to Major and Quartermaster, vice Major Thomas C. Steele, resigned.

Captain Frank L. Mueller, Regimental Commissary, First Infantry, to be Major and Commissary of Subsistence, vice Major J. Wilks O'Neill to retired list.

Major Thomas S. Martin, retired list to Captain and A. D. C., vice Dolan, promoted.

Brigade Sergeant Major W. Preston Tyler to Captain and A. D. C., vice Captain A. Drum Porter, resigned.

In conclusion, it affords me pleasure to acknowledge the loyal support of the officers and men of this command and beg to express my sincere thanks to the Commander-in-Chief, the Adjutant General and the Major General Commanding the Division for the uniform courtesies extended.

Very respectfully,

JOHN W. SCHALL,
Brigadier General

REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER, FIRST BRIGADE, 1905.

Office of the Quartermaster,
First Brigade, N. G. P.,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 15, 1906.

To the Assistant Adjutant General, First Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: In accordance with your instructions, I have the honor to report on the duties of my office for the year 1905.

As Quartermaster of the Brigade, I have had few duties to perform other than pertained to the Annual Encampment, held at Perkasio, Pennsylvania, July 8-15th, and to such I will confine myself; but as reports of that "tour of duty" have already been made by me in detail, with minor exceptions, to you in the month of July last, and to the Inspector General (as published in G. O. No. 32, A. G. O., 1905), I have little to add.

I herewith submit three abstracts. They relate primarily to the equipment used in railroad transportation, in the movements of the Brigade, in its advance to Perkasio, Pennsylvania, and its withdrawal therefrom, and incidentally to other important data connected therewith. These abstracts are marked A, B and C, respectively, and were originally made for my report to the Inspector General, but not used, except as a means to the making up of a table of ratings, which I had the honor to submit with that report.

The total expenses to be paid by State Military Board voucher on my certificate, and for which I was directly responsible, amounted to the sum of $2,789.52; the composition of which is contained in Abstract A, Form No. 2, Q. D., forwarded in the month of July last, total purchases amounting to $2,761.37, and a State Military Board voucher for $28.15, forwarded October 14th last, together with a communication, under same date, with a request that the necessary correction be made in the aforesaid abstract, then on file in the A. G. O.

The citizens of Perkasio furnished without charge the ground (about 225 acres) on which the Brigade encamped, the general water supply (pipes to and through the camps) and the necessary electrical current for lighting purposes, with the exception of a cost to the Brigade (to the Perkasio Water Co.) of $100.00, and (to the Perkasio Borough Electric Light Department) of $148.00, in which item is mainly included the establishing of the system.

Telephone service was given by the Bell Telephone Company, to the several headquarters throughout the camps free of charge for the privilege of the use of slot instruments to points outside the camp.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company rendered excellent service, and was most liberal in the granting of privileges as to the stringing of electrical wires to its telegraph poles between Perkasio and the camps; and I take this opportunity of personally thanking all of the officers and employes of this company, with whom I came in contact, for their generous and able assistance.

I cannot commend too highly the faithful, able and efficient service of Quartermaster Sergeant William B. Rhoads during the entire "tour," and without whom I should have been much at a loss.

Lastly, Sir, I desire to thank the Brigade Commander and the officers of his Staff for the very courteous treatment I have received at their hands.

Very respectfully,

THOMAS J. DOLAN,
Major and Quartermaster.

The delay was caused by the attention of time taker, but from observation during movement it averaged fair. The $\frac{1}{2}$ box car (Harrisburg) is fraction of car shared by Headquarters and the Cavalry and is not counted in entrainment. The box car (Harrisburg) was used as Brigade reserve for overflow. The combination was attached to regular train to Reading Terminal, Philadelphia, and due to Perkasie, 11.34 A. M. Wagon for loading were supplied at about 11.30 P. M. By request 2 wagons for loading were supplied Friday the 14th and 4 wagons at about 6.30 A. M., Saturday, 15th and increased during day. The Provost Guard was withdrawn at 4.15 P. M. The difference (on Saturday, July 15) in schedule and departing times should not be counted against any respective command as the delay was no fault of the troops—the wagon service being difficult to control in many instances, and yard for loading box cars often in state of congestion, delaying return of wagons to camps.

REPORT OF COMMISSARY OF SUBSISTENCE, FIRST BRIGADE, 1905.

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Headquarters First Brigade,
City Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.,
November 23, 1905.

The Assistant Adjutant General, 1st Brigade, N. G. P., City Hall, Phila., Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith the report of the Subsistence Department for Camp Robert E. Pattison, Perkasio, Pa., July 8th to 15th, 1905.

This was my first experience as a Brigade Commissary of Subsistence, and I found it vastly different from that of a Regimental Commissary, particularly in the execution of the same ideas, plans and management used in my previous experience; therefore have found it quite a task and have only just about commenced to realize that a great deal is to be accomplished.

In my tours of inspection I found the company and troop kitchens neat and clean and facilities for caring for the rations generally ample. It is the intention of the State to follow U. S. regulations, but there is found to be a vast difference between the U. S. and N. G. P. service. Our conditions, being entirely different and more complex in a way, should, therefore, be given special consideration, and plans, adaptable to the N. G. P. service, devised to bring about the same results as required by U. S. Army. The Regulars make it their profession and are permanently engaged, while we are only in the field about one week in a year. I, therefore, recommend an allowance and a provision to be made for a Brigade School, for the instruction, manipulation and preparation (with practical cooking demonstrations) of the soldiers' ration. The issuing of good rations does not mean all; added to this, we should, in every way, facilitate their best preparation for the health and strength of our men. "The success or failure of an army frequently depends upon the inglorious act of getting something to eat." To sum up some of the advantages of such a school (particularly needful on account of our short field service), it would be a great benefit and effect a saving, because the men would learn the proper manipulation and management of rations and how to avoid waste and make them go further. The quality of the food being better, would make for the better health, greater strength, and more perfect contentment of the Brigade. The school would create an opportunity for closer association of the Captains and Commissaries of Subsistence, and their Sergeants and Quartermaster Sergeants; and they would also learn to know the cooks more thoroughly, and so be better able to judge of their capabilities, as they do not have an opportunity for doing in the field. It would also be of great advantage and very beneficial in cases where a Company or Troop had a new Quartermaster Sergeant and cook, or both; giving him, or them, an opportunity for a training previous to his or their first encampment.

The encampment of 1905 comprises fifty-one (51) companies and troops. Allowing, say only a five minutes inspection of each company or troop, a period of over five (5) hours was required from the time of leaving headquarters until my return; thus affording simply a "peep." It has often occurred to me that our encampments are of such a short duration in the field that they amount to hardly more than a time of packing and unpacking. About the time we begin to realize what we want to accomplish, it is time to pack up and return to our home station. It is, therefore, very important for us to prepare in the armories, through this school, methods for imparting the proper knowledge and training, previous to the field work, then, in the field, we should receive the benefit of its good and effective results, minus the experience of waste and suffering. My experience for four or five years has fully demonstrated and convinced me of the great advantage of having this school system.

The companies and troops have weekly drills preparing for the field, and it seems fitting that our department should have equally good preparations, through the school system recommended. Unless the quartermaster sergeants and cooks are well trained and practically understand each other, the rations issued are liable to be wasted through being improperly prepared and cooked, or not utilized to the proper advantage, and, in consequence, the men suffer and decide the cook is poor. The next encampment, they have a new cook, with a likelihood of a repetition of the same experience. An ordinary cook from civil life is lost for a long time in the army service, and cannot make field work a success, without the field knowledge and training. The school would prepare and furnish this experience.

Each commissary should follow up his department, see that the quartermaster sergeants and cooks are properly instructed and trained; as the duties of the captains of the companies and troops are so great, in the active service, as to make it almost impossible for them to follow up the kitchen. The commissaries should, therefore, assist in these administrative duties. N. G. P. encampments, generally of eight day's duration, a period so short that men, subsisting upon the U. S. ration, are not afforded the same opportunity and advantage for a "saving" as are those of the U. S. Army. This is a handicap, relatively speaking, and should, therefore, make it more important that the men should fully understand the utilization of the ration to the best advantage.

It is also recommended that a plan be formulated whereby each regiment and Squadron shall have a cook sergeant, competent as an instructor. His duty would be, in the Armory, to instruct, prepare and develop the cooks; in the field, to instruct and follow up each company or troop of his organization. If impossible to detail or arrange for a cook sergeant, then it is suggested that the Commissary Sergeant act in this capacity, instructing the Quartermaster Sergeants and their cooks.

It is recommended that the Brigade Commissary be permitted to include, in his contracts for the Brigade encampments, rations for the advance detail.

It was found that some of the Quartermaster Sergeants, of the various companies and troops, were lacking in the proper knowledge of their department. This ignorance is to be attributed largely to the fact of their not having the opportunity for getting the necessary information, as a great desire seemed to exist for gaining knowledge; all seeming perfectly willing to be instructed and seeking information. This also suggests the necessity and advantage of a training school.

It is suggested that the companies and troops consider the question of a field ice-box—one to prevent the water running around its sides and thus avoiding the creating of mud and unsanitary conditions. This ice-box should be elevated about four or five inches on wood blocks, and, attached to the drip hole, there should be a rubber hose long enough to conduct the water to a sloping ground, thus preventing the accumulation of mud around the mess tent and kitchen. If necessary, a gutter could be dug to fit the rubber hose, to prevent it from being damaged or destroyed. Also a heavy canvas cover should be provided, shaped like the box, to fit around its four sides and top, to prevent rapid melting of the ice. Allowance should be made for shrinkage of canvas, in the size of this cover. There should not be packed into the ice boxes heavy articles, which are liable to make the box defective and prevent air tightness.

In the purchase of the rations, I acted to the best of my ability, in both price and quality, testing those articles that required it; and, during the tour of inspections, heard no complaints as to quality or quantity.

Total cost of rations for entire tour of this encampment was $4,575.79. Total number of rations issued was 21,575, making average cost per ration about 21 1-5 cents for a good, nutritive and well balanced ration; this cost included matches and toilet paper.

To the Brigadier General and other members of the Staff, I am much indebted for courtesies and pleasant relations; also to the Captains and Commissaries of Subsistence and their Sergeants of the various organizations, including Acting Squadron Commissary Sergeant.

I thank each and every one for the able manner in which assistance was rendered to the department, and with their further aid, I hope to advance and develop this department as it should be.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

FRANK L. MUELLER,

Major and Commissary of Subsistence, 1st Brigade, N. G. P.

E. CLAUDE GODDARD,
Major and Ordnance Officer,
Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters First Regiment Infantry,
First Brigade, N. G. P.,
Philadelphia, December 21st, 1905.

To the Assistant Adjutant General, First Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: In compliance with the direction of the Brigade Commander I submit the following report covering the operations of this Regiment for the year ending December 31st, 1905.

The regular routine of military duty has been performed and the efficiency and discipline of the Regiment maintained.

February 22nd, 1905, the Regiment was assembled and paraded in the Armory for the presentation of medals and trophies won in target practice, including the trophy won by Company "K" for its superior efficiency representing the infantry of this Division. On this occasion the 2nd Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, paraded with the Regiment and received the trophy awarded to it for superior efficiency representing the cavalry of the Division.

March 3rd, 1905, the Regiment assembled at 9.10 o'clock P. M. in heavy marching order in State uniform (blue), to proceed to Washington, D. C., as part of the Provisional Brigade organized by the direction of the Commander-in-Chief for the purpose of participating in the inauguration of Honorable Theodore Roosevelt as President of the United States.

Saturday, March 4th, 1905, the Regiment entrained at Broad Street Station at 10 o'clock, P. M., arriving in Washington in the early morning of March 4th, and participated in the ceremonies and parade, incident to the inauguration, as part of the Provisional Brigade from Pennsylvania. Returning to its home station, leaving Washington at 6 o'clock P. M., March 5th, 1905, without accident or casualty of any kind.

Commencing on March 13th, 1905, the several companies of the Regiment were inspected by the Regimental Commander on their respective drill-nights in the School of the Soldier, School of the Squad and Guard Duty, including the inspection of arms, clothing, equipment and general appearance.

March 22nd to April 11th, 1905, the several companies were paraded for inspection by the Brigade Inspector.

April 19th, 1905, the Regiment in full dress uniform celebrated the 44th Anniversary of its organization by a street parade, being reviewed by Brigadier General Chambers McKibben of the United States Army.

May 28th, 1905, the Regiment paraded and attended divine service, under the auspices of its Chaplain, Reverend Doctor Floyd W. Tomkins, at Holy Trinity Church, accompanied by its Veteran Corps.

July 7th, 1905, the Regiment proceeded to Perkasio, Bucks county, Penna., and participated with the Brigade in the Annual Tour of Duty in the field from July 7th to 15th inclusive.

In addition to the regular instruction, careful attention has also been given to rifle practice, a great improvement being noticed in the increased value of the scores made, indicating greater proficiency in this important branch of the service.

The Regiment is ready for any service.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WENDELL P. BOWMAN,
Colonel.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SECOND REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Second Regiment Infantry,
First Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 16th, 1906.

The Assistant Adjutant General, First Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of this Regiment during the past year.

In addition to the regular routine of military duty, consisting of instruction in the School of the Soldier, School of the Squad and School of the Company, instruction was given in the School of the Battalion, in a series of battalion drills as follows: May 9th, 11th, 19th, 23rd, 24th and 25th, June 2nd, 12th, 13th, 15th, 27th and 29th.

On June 10th and June 24th, Regimental drills were held in Fairmount Park, and the Regiment was paraded in Fairmount Park on the afternoon of November 4th, 1905, for review by the Mayor of Philadelphia.

The Regiment was paraded in the Armory on the evening of September 28th, 1905, and on the evening of December 11th, 1905, this being the sixty-fifth anniversary of our organization.

Preliminary company inspections were held in the Armory, from March 8th to March 28th, inclusive, by the Battalion Commanders, as a preliminary to the annual inspection. The Regiment was inspected by companies, by the Brigade Inspector, commencing March 21st and ending May 5th, 1905.

A number of officers schools were held throughout the spring, with a view to perfecting the officers in the use of the new drill regulations.

A number of the staff and line officers were new in their positions this year, but all being intelligent men and well up in theoretical knowledge, soon adapted themselves to their new positions and acquitted themselves with credit.

On July 7th, 1905, the Regiment assembled at the Armory, in heavy marching order, fully equipped, to proceed to Camp Robert E. Pattison, Perkasio, Bucks county, Pennsylvania, returning to its home station on July 15th, leaving the field about 2:30 P. M. and arriving at Philadelphia about 5 o'clock.

I am very much gratified to be able to state that on this tour of duty, the Regiment had 763 officers and men actually present throughout the encampment, making its total strength the largest in the Brigade.

The problem of rifle practice remains a serious one, which we have endeavored to solve with but fair success. The rent demanded by the First Regiment Rifle Range Association proved more than our companies, with their limited allowances, could afford to pay, and we have been obliged to secure another range. Barbadoes Island, in the Schuylkill river, opposite Norristown, has proven the only available place, and on this island we have erected ranges at two hundred, three hundred and five hundred yards. At this place most of our companies qualified their men during the past season, and in spite of the difficulties attending practice at a place so far distant from our home station, the range has proven fairly satisfactory. It is our purpose, during the winter and spring, to erect a more permanent structure on the island and when this is accomplished, we shall be in a better position, as far as rifle practice is concerned.

The difficulty with this range, is that the formation of the island prevents our shooting at greater ranges than five hundred yards. This makes it difficult for our expert shots to get any practice at long ranges, and to this, more than to any other reason, is due the indifferent showing made by our teams at Mt. Gretna this fall.

On Saturday, October 14th, the second class regimental team of this Regiment, won the match shot at the First Regiment rifle range, for the Van Rensselaer Trophy.

On November 11th, a company team match was shot at our range near Norristown, Company B finishing first, Company F, second, and Company L, third.

In conclusion, I beg to report that the Regiment is in excellent general condition, the Companies are unusually full for this time of the year, and the spirit and discipline excellent, the arms, accoutrements and uniforms in good condition, and I feel confident that the Regiment is in a condition to respond promptly and creditably to any call which can be made upon it.

Very respectfully,

ROBERT C. H. BROCK,
Colonel Commanding.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, THIRD REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Third Regiment Infantry, N. G. P.,
Broad and Wharton Streets,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 22nd, 1906.

Brigadier General John W. Schall, First Brigade, N. G. P., Philadelphia, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report the operations of the Third Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., for the year ending December 31st, 1905.

All the companies of the Regiment have drilled at least once each week, from beginning of year until camp (July 7th), after which drills were suspended until October 2nd, when they were resumed. The attendance has not been as regular or as full as desired, and although great effort has been made to interest the enlisted men it has not met with the result the labor would seem to warrant, and the question of securing better attendance at drills is indeed a serious one, and one which should be investigated thoroughly. There have been many so-called remedies suggested for this indifference of the men to their enlistment oaths, but none has yet been tried that have been successful, that I have heard of. We, at much expense, conducted, at no cost to the men, a series of six reviews and dances, at the Armory, during the season, at which the attendance seemed to improve for the nights only on which the reviews were held.

The Regiment was inspected during February and July. The February inspection consisted principally in a quiz of the Non-Commissioned Officers and privates, as to their duties in School of the Soldier and guard duty. As we had but recently taken up the study of the new drill regulations and as the men had but little chance to study them, the results were not as might be desired.

The Regiment paraded on Saturday, May 13th, in commemoration of their entering the Spanish-American War, in 1898. The Regiment was reviewed by Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart, upon this occasion, from the balcony of the Union League Club.

On May 28th the Regiment attended Divine Service at the Church of the Covenant, 18th and Spruce streets.

During the summer the men were practiced at the rifle range, arrangements having been made for the use of range of the First Infantry, N. G. P. This arrangement necessitated an outlay of some $600.00 more than the State allowance can possibly be and this is a hardship that a regiment should not be made to suffer, for what branch of our service is more important than rifle practice, I strongly recommend the securing of this very excellent range by the State, for the use of the First Brigade, to be maintained at the expense of the State.

The Regiment attended camp, at Perkaskie, July 7th to 15th. Our duties there consisted mainly in preparing for an inspection of clothing, rifles and personal appearance of the men, and seemed to me a great waste of valuable time; a waste of time and opportunity that might be more profitably spent in training the officers and men in the arts of war, for which all soldiers are supposed to be trained, than in teaching intelligent men squad drill, which can be taught during the winter, in the armories, where congested space necessarily restricts their movements to squad drill, provided the men can be induced to attend drills in the armories.

I am aware that my constant advocacy of less squad drill and more field work for both officers and men is not popular with a large number of our officers in the N. G. P., but nevertheless I am convinced that it is what this Guard needs and I find in this Regiment that nothing interest the officers and men in the field more than the minor problems we have undertaken from time to time. During the year a majority of the companies of this Regiment have, from time to time, had practice marches usually lasting from Saturday noon until Sunday night; these were usually better attended than the company drill in the armory.

At the Annual Encampment board floors were provided for the entire Regiment and were endorsed heartily by every company. The baggage was reduced so that three of the four cars furnished us for the transportation of the regimental baggage was sufficient for the purpose and the fourth car used exclusively for our floors, which were manufactured at home station and returned to Armory at end of camp.

We have established, in the Regiment, schools for officers and enlisted men; examining board for both officers and enlisted men who apply for promotion.

I would suggest the close adherence to drill regulations, as pertains to the laying out of our camps, particularly that part which indicates the location of sinks and company kitchens.

I recommended the building of camp, by the Regiment, upon its arrival on the ground, from lines furnished by the Brigade Quartermaster, and, if possible, that any organization that desire to erect their own camps, be permitted to go into camp on Thursday instead of Saturday.

I would advocate that each year a full dress Brigade Parade be held in this Brigade, either in the early spring or early fall. I think this might stimulate enlistments and at any rate it keeps the Brigade before the public.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM G. PRICE, JR.,
Colonel, Third Infantry, N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SIXTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Sixth Regiment Infantry,
First Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 16, 1906.

Assistant Adjutant General, First Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to present the following as my report of the condition and operation of my command for the year ending December 31, 1905.

The regiment in my opinion has advanced both in personality and in general efficiency. This was particularly noticeable at the Annual Encampment at Perkaskie, Pa., July 8th to 15th, when very favorable comment was made on the general appearance of the Regiment.

Battalion drills have been frequently held in the Philadelphia Battalion, and a very good attendance was present on these occasions.

The attendance at the company drills of the out of town companies, with one or two exceptions, has been good. The Regiment participated in the Annual Rifle Matches at Mt. Gretna, and Sea Girt, N. J.

The Regiment is in very good shape, and with the improvement manifested last year, I have every reason to believe, will attain a very high degree of efficiency during the coming year.

Very respectfully,

JAMES B. CORYELL,
Colonel, Commanding Sixth Infantry, N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, FIRST TROOP, P. C. C., 1905.

Armory First Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry,
23rd St. above Chestnut St.,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 5th, 1906.

Adjutant General, Harrisburg, Penn'a. (Through Brigade Headquarters):

Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of my Command for the year ending December 31st, 1905.

During the months of January, February, March, April, November and December the Troop was drilled weekly, both mounted and dismounted in the Armory, and in addition to the drills had weekly target practice on the range at the Armory, and during January, February, March and April, I also had weekly schools of instruction for non-commissioned officers.

In addition to the above drills, on June 3rd, 1905, the Troop assembled at the Armory mounted, to take part in a three day's practice march for instructions in extended order, marching as far as King of Prussia, Penn'a, where they spent the night, returning late the afternoon of June 5; and again on Saturday, November the 4th, the Troop assembled at the Armory for a similar excursion, marching as far as Rosemont, Penn'a, where they spent the night, returning late the following afternoon.

The Troop paraded six times in full dress uniform, namely: January 30th, 1905, mounted, to act as escort to the President of the United States upon the occasion of his visit to Philadelphia; February 22nd, 1905, mounted, to act as escort to the President of the United States upon the occasion of his visit to Philadelphia, during which time he was a guest of the Troop at luncheon in the Armory; March 1st, 1905, dismounted, upon the occasion of the Troop Ball, at Horticultural Hall; March 6th, 1905, dismounted, on the occasion of the funeral of Sergeant Goodman; November 17th, 1905, dismounted, in commemoration of the 131st anniversary of its organization; December 17th, 1905, dismounted, to attend divine services at St. James P. E. Church, in commemoration of the death of General Washington.

In compliance with G. O. No. 1, 1905, Headquarters First Brigade, the Troop assembled at the Armory, May the 4th, at 7.30 P. M., dismounted, in blue service uniform, light marching order, for the annual spring inspection; present, 4 officers and 57 enlisted men.

In compliance with G. O. No. 4, 1905, Headquarters First Brigade, the Troop assembled at the Armory Saturday, July 8th, 1905, at 5.30 A. M., mounted, in khaki uniform, light marching order, to proceed to Camp Robert E. Pattison, Perkaskie, Penn'a, for the annual N. G. P. Encampment; present 4 officers and 54 enlisted men.

During the past year Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice Lieutenant W. E. Bates has qualified every man on the active roll, 4 officers and 58 enlisted men.

The Troop team won 1st Class Brigade Rifle Match, open to teams of four from Regiments and Troops of Cavalry of the 1st Brigade, at the 1st Regiment Rifle Range, October, 1905; and also the 3rd Class Match, open to teams of four from any Company or Troop of Cavalry in the 1st Brigade. The team also won the Major General Miller Trophy at Mt. Gretna, Pa., in August, 1905. With the permission of the Adjutant General, I sent the team to Sea Girt to take part in the National Rifle and Revolver Matches.

The Troop now has 4 officers and 57 enlisted men on its roll.

All State property is in excellent condition.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN C. GROOME,
Captain.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SECOND TROOP, P. C. C., 1905.

Armory of the Second Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, N. G. P.,
Philadelphia, Pa., December 31, 1905.

The Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Penn'a:

Sir: I have the honor to report as follows concerning the condition and operation of my command for the year ending December 31st, 1905.

During the year 1905, twenty-eight mounted and dismounted armory drills of the entire Troop were held. From May 27th to May 30th, the Troop made a practice march to the "Red Rose Inn," near Villa Nova, Pennsylvania, and held mounted field exercises, including reconnoitering, outpost duty, close order and extended order.

The Troop now numbers 59 officers and men, with arms and equipment reported in good condition.

Very respectfully,

FRANK E. SHERMERHORN,
Captain.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, TROOP "A," 1905.

Armory Troop "A," N. G. P.,
Philadelphia, Pa., January 1st, 1906.

Assistant Adjutant General, N. G. P., Headquarters of the First Brigade, Philadelphia, Pa.:

Sir: In compliance with instructions received, I have the honor to report the movements and condition of Troop "A," N. G. P., during the year ending December 31st, 1905, as follows:

This Troop held twenty-four drills, mounted and dismounted, at Brigg's Riding Academy, 23rd street and Chestnut street, Philadelphia; was inspected by Colonel John P. Penney, at Brigg's Riding Academy on May 2nd, 1905, result of which inspection has been published in General Orders; went into camp at Perkasio, Pa., July 8th, 1905, to July 15th, 1905, with fifty-seven officers and men present.

During the 1905 season of Rifle Practice this Troop qualified thirty-one men; figure of merit, 44.4 per cent.

I would respectfully suggest that some other arrangement be made for the rifle qualification of members of cavalry troops, as it is most inconvenient and expensive to qualify the Troop under existing conditions.

Very respectfully,

BARCLAY H. WARBURTON,
Captain, Troop A, N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SECOND BRIGADE, 1905.

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Headquarters Second Brigade,
Franklin, Pa., January 20, 1906.

General Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report the operations of this command for the year ending December 31, 1905.

The spring inspections, by Major Jeffries and officer representing the United States Army, were carefully and intelligently made under a very satisfactory and helpful system. All requirements were cheerfully met and a better sentiment and higher appreciation was exhibited by officers and enlisted men, who were generally anxious to respond to a more perfect condition of soldierly qualifications and information. Except in a very few instances a marked improvement was apparent in all the organizations of this command.

Rifle Practice was carried on diligently during the season and good practice had, not, however, without very great sacrifice of time by the men, who cheerfully gave many of their wage earning hours to the service of the State in this important branch of military efficiency.

Submissive in every degree to your superior ability in effective organization as to methods for higher proficiency in all matters wherein a nearer approach to perfection is desired, I am inclined to the belief that if some measure of a general character could be introduced wherein a regimental score could be applied as a factor in the average efficiency of single commands, it would stimulate the individual to a greater extent and bring about a better general qualification. The higher the score the higher the rating. I suggest that this qualification be awarded as the most valuable constituent part of all the elements that go to make up the average rating. While I am cognizant of the necessity of fine team work, I would like to install the belief that a whole regiment proficient in its average marksmanship is better than one conspicuous in its team work only.

The Annual Encampment, held at Erie, Pa., July 15th to 22nd, inclusive, has developed the fact that the Guardsmen of the command are a resolute and determined lot of soldiers. The incessant appeals of the thriving and energetic people of Erie for an encampment led us to the gratification of their desires. That community had never had, even in their neighborhood, a camp of the National Guard, except a regimental one. I called my commanding officers to that point for the inspection of the grounds offered by the local committee. They were not such grounds as would fully satisfy the seeker for a camping place and were looked upon as lying too low and flat, though sufficient in area, but convenient and agreeable only in fair or average weather. It was the only site available and all that was offered. We accepted it with some misgivings and hoped for the favor of the elements. For two weeks preceding the camp we had the fury instead of the favor. Rain fell in torrents up to the arrival of the regiments. Then followed the most beautiful and comfortable weather it has been our experience to enjoy, which continued to the close of the tour.

The work of the advance details was most trying. Record breaking rain fell upon the then thoroughly soaked ground in which it was hard to find a bottom; wagons would sink to the hubs and even deeper. Camp grounds were exceedingly muddy. Orders issued to prevent teams invading the camp area were in a measure disregarded, with the result that the sod was broken and mud took its place. In this distressed condition the tempers of officers and men were tried and not found wanting. With cheerful application and forceful energy all took hold with an earnestness that overcame all difficulty, resulting in a day or two in a camp scarcely ever excelled.

Many of the people of Erie were in fear of disorder and opposed to the coming of the soldiers. I am glad to chronicle the fact that the same people later came to the camp and were profuse in their compliments on the splendid behavior and gentlemanly conduct of the troops. We went away with their respect and their friendship. I can add to these encomiums the fact of their truthfulness. We never had such good order in camp and under the close application of Major W. Fred Reynolds, of these Headquarters, as Provost Marshal, the same conditions prevailed in the city and surroundings.

The proposition of wagon transportation was difficult. The haul from the railroad siding to the extremity of the camp was about 10,000 feet. Going in, wagons were plenty, but the boxes, as is the rule, were small for camp baggage. In the breaking of camp much difficulty was encountered in securing wagons sufficient to make a return promptly on schedule time. The weather having cleared farmers came for miles to the city and secured all the teams they could get to gather their harvests. This threw our schedule late some two or three hours.

Rations were ample and of excellent quality, and well handled and better prepared than usual.

The great necessity of proper Armories for our organization is so apparent that the co-operation of all friends of the Guard is invited toward obtaining the appropriations needed to provide them.

I beg to suggest that the dress uniform would add to the appearance and personal satisfaction of the men if they were taken to camp and used only when away from camp with permission as well as for evening parades in camp. The reason for this is apparent in that a person well dressed is more likely to behave himself as he is dressed. With this extra suit he always has something clean to dress up in for occasions when clean clothes are necessary. For a soldier to always appear clean in the canvas uniform requires that he have half a dozen suits or become a laundryman instead of a guardsman in a camp of instruction.

The inspections as made by your authority in the camp differ so radically in their comparison with our system in the past, that we lose sight of the thoroughly qualified, well drilled company. A captain may present a company, ignorant himself, as well as his company, of even the primary requirements, and still be wise enough to have a completely new equipment for each man to dress with half an hour before his inspection and carry off the honor of the highest rating, while the good company, thoroughly drilled in good discipline, detailed by reason of their good qualities as provost guardsman, etc., etc., goes down by reason of this detail, which unavoidably soils his clothes and gets a bad mark.

I have called for, and herewith forward, the several reports of commanding officers, and respectfully invite your attention thereto.

Concluding I desire to do my Brigade and myself the honor to acknowledge with gratitude the good fortune we enjoyed in the detail sent us by the War Department as inspecting officer of this command, Major George Bell, First Infantry, U. S. A. He was to us a most helpful officer, untiring and vigilant in the exercise of his duty, constantly on the alert. He endeared himself to everybody by pointing to errors and showing us the correct way. Major Bell was useful to my Brigade, and I thank him very much for the kindly interest he took in us.

I desire to commend the officers of these Headquarters and all others in the Brigade for the faithful and intelligent performance of every duty assigned them.

Renewing my obligation to the Commander-in-Chief, His Excellency the Governor, to the Major General commanding, and to yourself for the courtesy of much assistance and forbearance,

I am,

Respectfully,

JOHN A. WILEY,
Brigadier General.

REPORT OF BRIGADE INSPECTOR, SECOND BRIGADE, 1905.

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Office of Brigade Inspector, Second Brigade,
Pittsburg, Pa., December 30th, 1905.

To the Assistant Adjutant General, 2nd Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Penna.:

Sir: I have the honor to report that I inspected the infantry of the 2nd Brigade at their various home stations during the months of February, March, April and May, 1905.

I am pleased to report that in general there is improvement throughout the Brigade. The State property is, with few exceptions, being well taken care of. Although the new drill regulations was issued only a short time before the inspections, the officers and men show a deep interest in the same. There are still several companies that fail to understand the difference between squad right and squad right turn, and it is important that they learn that difference at once. They also fail to notice the difference between the old movable pivot and the present one. Squad right or left turn is the most important paragraph in the drill regulations, embracing as it does the basic principle of the whole drill.

Guard duty, during the spring inspections, was hardly up to its former standard. It appeared to be neglected for the new drill. There was some improvement at Camp C. S. W. Jones, however.

The attendance at the spring inspections was fair, with the exception of one regiment.

There are several company commanders who do too much of the work themselves, not giving their non-commissioned officers a chance to become familiar with their work, and as a consequence, when required to perform their duties, the non-commissioned officer becomes confused. There was decided improvement in the manual of the sabre at camp in Erie, also in the saluting of officers on review or parade. Am sorry I cannot say the same for saluting with the hand by officers and the enlisted men particularly, when not on parade.

During the annual encampment I mustered the six troops of cavalry, also inspected and mustered Batteries B and C.

The discipline this year at the various camps was good. There is also improvement in the personnel of the Brigade since my last report.

Very respectfully,

SAMUEL W. JEFFERIS,
Major and Brigade Inspector.

REPORT OF BRIGADE QUARTERMASTER, SECOND BRIGADE, 1905.

Office of Quartermaster,
Second Brigade, N. G. P.,
Pittsburg, Pa., January 3, 1906.

The Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Pa.:

Dear Sir: I have the honor to submit my report relative to the annual encampment held at Erie, Pa., July 15th to the 22nd, 1905, inclusive.

Early in May I reported to General Wiley in Erie with several of the Regimental Commanders and Quartermasters. We were met by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce of that City and escorted to the grounds which they had leased for the camp site. The ground was beautifully situated about a quarter of a mile east of Lake Erie, but was flat and did not form a desirable camping ground when heavy rains came on.

The site was selected after an agreement was made with the Chamber of Commerce of Erie by which they gave us the use of the ground free of expense and was to be seeded and rolled so as to secure as much grass and good surface as possible. Fences were to be taken down and post holes filled and restored after departure of troops. They also agreed to pay freight on water pipe from Harrisburg to Erie and return and to lay 7,000 feet of pipe line from city mains to edge of camp site, and to furnish water used free of charge. We laid pipe inside lines of camp. The committee also agreed to take up all the pipe, load on cars and return in good condition to Harrisburg.

On account of three days rain, the camp ground was in terrible condition by the 14th of July, when the advance details began to arrive. As usual the wagon transportation caused most of our trouble. The field was a swamp into which wagons sunk to the hubs. We were compelled to put six horses in most wagons, or only take about a quarter load.

The haul from the railroad crossing was over a mile, which caused considerable time being taken up. We were helped out of our difficulty by Mr. Wilbur of the Erie Traction Co., giving us a motor and two flat cars. With one load of these cars we carried as much as ten or twelve wagons could haul.

After the weather settled we had a fine camp ground. The advance details arrived on the morning of the 13th and considering the weather had camp in fairly good shape.

Detail of the 18th came by way of the Lake Erie R. R. and those of the 10th, 14th and 5th Regiments, with Battery B, Troop "F" and Sheridan Troop by way of the Pennsylvania lines. I had considerable trouble with the railroads in regard to having sidings put in shape and sent for Superintendent Thornton of the Pennsylvania Lines, who placed Mr. Fred. A. Queer in charge of transportation during the whole period of camp. Owing to Mr. Queer's able management our cars were handled with little delay.

For the movement home I arranged the following schedule:

5th Regiment to leave 4 o'clock Friday, July 21st.

10th Regiment to leave 8 o'clock same evening.

Sheridan Troop, 7 o'clock A. M., Saturday.

July 22nd: Battery "B" and Troop "F," on one train at 8 o'clock.

16th Regiment at 10 o'clock.

14th Regiment at 2 o'clock.

18th Regiment at 6 o'clock.

Owing to delays in the morning, schedule was delayed about two hours throughout the day.

The ice supply was excellent and on account of competition among the Erie dealers, I secured delivery to the different headquarters and cook houses at the low price of $2.25 per ton.

Forage was good. The amount of straw I issued was much beyond the regular allowance on account of the swampy ground.

I had some difficulty in securing a supply of fire wood, as only natural gas is used in Erie. The wood was hauled about eight miles. The amount on hand was almost cleared up the first day, the men using it to raise their cots above the mud, in consequence of which I was compelled to order much more than our regular allowance.

The following expenditures were contracted for by the Quartermaster's Department:

Wagon transportation,	$1,046 80
Digging 65 single sinks,	162 50
Surveying,	15 00
Laying pipe, including extra pipe and fittings in camp, ..	583 57
Ice, 86 tons,	193 50
881 bushels oats, 37½,	330 37
254 cords wood at $2.50,	635 00
20¼ ton hay at $13.00,	263 25
17¼ ton straw at $9.00,	155 25
274 bags,	13 70
Oil for Medical Department,	37 23
Lime for Medical Department,	14 95
Rent, quarters Provost Guard,	18 75
Muslin to cover sinks,	91 33
Contract for frame work for sinks, with labor to put on muslin,	425 56

In regard to bill for plumbing inside camp, at this time the same is in dispute. We have made a claim for credit of $142.00, which should be paid by the Chamber of Commerce of Erie. The bill is not paid at this writing.

In closing my report, I wish to thank General Wiley and members of his Staff for their help and courtesies extended to me in the performance of the duties of my Department.

Respectfully,

L. A. ANSCHUTZ,

Major and Quartermaster, 2nd Brigade.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSARY OF SUBSISTENCE, SECOND BRIGADE, 1905.

Pittsburg, Pa., December 27, 1905.

To the Assistant Adjutant General, 2d Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Pa.:

Sir: I herewith submit the report of the Commissary Department of the 2nd Brigade, N. G. P.

Nothing of importance has transpired except the Annual Encampment.

On receipt of General Orders No. 16, dated at Harrisburg, June 6, 1905, designating that the Encampment of the Second Brigade, N. G. P., would be held at Erie, Erie county, Pa., July 15 to 22, inclusive, I through the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Erie, had published in the papers of that city a Schedule of Subsistence, covering the requirements of the 2d Brigade during the Encampment, asking all who desired to bid on said subsistence to make application for blank forms of bids.

I also requested Amour & Company, Swift & Company and the Pittsburg Provision Company to submit bids for furnishing meats. I also asked for propositions from wholesale grocery and provision companies of the city of Pittsburg.

In compliance with these requests, I received numerous bids for all kinds of subsistence, and after tabulating these, I awarded contracts to the following:

Beans, 2,610 lbs.,	$80 91
Pickles, 120 gallons,	60 00

Republic Grocery and Supply Company, Erie, Pa.:
Onions, 1,160 lbs.,	46 40

Eggs, 1,000 dozen,	170 00
Total,	$4,170 68

The average daily strength of the Brigade present for duty during the Encampment was 2,882. The cost of subsistence per day per man was 18.09 cents.

All the above mentioned goods were delivered, f. o. b., at Camp C. S. W. Jones, and stored in the commissary store house on or before July 13, 1905, except fresh beef, fresh fish and soft bread. These articles were delivered at each issue to the several organizations direct from their cold storage warehouses and from the Sands Baking Co.'s bakery. This arrangement being most complete and very satisfactory to all concerned, as it enabled the several commands, to get their goods without rehandling or weighing, and on delivery of the same a receipt was taken from the several commissaries and returned to the commissary of the Second Brigade, thus enabling me to see, that the proper amounts were delivered and received.

An inspection was made by the Commissary General, Assistant Commissary General and myself of the several commissaries and cook houses of all the organizations, and we found great improvement in all, in the manner of taking care of the food and also in preparing it.

Regimental commissaries were found to be neat and clean, as well as the majority of company commissaries and cook houses.

Thanking Brig. Gen. Wiley and members of his staff for courtesies extended to myself and this Department, I remain,

Very respectfully yours,

W. S. McLAIN,
Maj. and C. of S., 2nd Brig., N. G. P.

REPORT OF ACTING INSPECTOR OF RIFLE PRACTICE, SECOND BRIGADE, 1905.

Office of Ordnance Officer,
Second Brigade,
Bellefonte, Pa., December 29th, 1905.

Major J. R. Robertson, A. A. G., Second Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report as follows on my duties as Ordnance Officer and Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice of the Second Brigade, for the past year:

During the Encampment near Erie, you saw fit to appoint me Provost Marshal, a duty made pleasant and profitable through the splendid bearing of the several companies detailed from time to time as Provost Guard, and their appreciation of the work in hand. The position was a delicate one, owing to the feeling of distrust entertained by many of the citizens. The men who came to town, however, behaved in such a commendable manner that the people soon realized there was no ground for their fears, and there was no sign of trouble or disturbance during the tour of duty.

I would recommend, in this connection, that the troops be ordered to carry with them to camp the dress uniform, and, when a man is out of camp on leave, he be required to wear the dress uniform; for the reason that those men who go into town looking unsoldierly in appearance make trouble, while those who wear a clean uniform properly put on, seem to feel a certain dignity and conduct themselves accordingly. The impression made on the average citizen is obvious.

During the rifle practice season, our Brigade showed quite an improvement over previous years in marksmanship. Unfortunately the returns of same, from a clerical standpoint, were far from acceptable. However, there have been changes in the meantime, which I trust will overcome the difficulty. The number of men in the Brigade who qualify and the scores made, show a desire to attain a high standard, but there is still room for more conscientious practice, especially preliminary; but, as often said, galleries are the important requisite.

At Mt. Gretna, at the Annual State Match, the representatives from the Second Brigade did exceptionally well and deserve commendation. The lack of certain paraphernalia handicapped us somewhat. Our Brigade Commander being present, saw our needs and has remedied the trouble. The presence of our Commanding General was a great delight and inspiration to all the men of the Brigade who took part in the matches. Every encouragement on the part of a commanding officer is a help to those engaged in their duties, and his presence is much appreciated.

Unfortunately, I was prevented from going to the National Match at Sea Girt. While Pennsylvania did not do so well as we would desire, yet, taking all things into consideration, I think she deserves praise. I am not satisfied that the present methods of developing the experts who win at the National Match, is the proper one from a military standpoint. It does not seem to me to realize the end desired, which is to promote a general efficiency in marksmanship. It is too much specialized. Too few men are benefited. In our preliminary work, the men, as a whole, do not work for a score entitling them to a place on the State team. A few, who make a specialty of shooting, are conceded the place, and the others let it go by default. This should be remedied, and could be with careful consideration and a little extra appropriation.

I trust the Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice recently appointed, will realize the importance of their positions and use their utmost endeavors to place their department on the highest plane. All the Inspectors are men of ability, and, if they each will accept the responsibilities of the position, a great improvement must follow and a fine lot of marksmen brought forward.

Our comfort and happiness, while at the State Range, was looked after, as usual, in a way to leave no room for complaints. The Division Quartermaster has our thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

W. FRED REYNOLDS,
Ordnance Officer, Second Brigade, N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, FIFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Fifth Regiment Infantry,
Second Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Lewistown, Penna., January 1st, 1906.

Brigadier Gen. John A. Wiley, Commanding 2nd Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to make the following report upon the condition of the 5th Regiment for 1905.

During the early portion of the year a great deal of hard work was done in the different companies to prepare for the spring inspection. The confining of the work to squads necessitated an entire change in the manner of preparation prior to this year. The work was placed upon the non-commissioned officers, and while at first there was some opposition and dislike to it, one year's experience has amply demonstrated the wisdom of the course. The Inspection showed to the members of the different companies those of their non-commissioned officers who were competent and those who were incompetent. It created a rivalry and fixed a standard which must be lived up to and surpassed in future inspections.

The general condition of the regiment has been considerably improved, and the annual inspection showed as the first company the one that occupied the last place at the spring inspection.

A new inspector of Rifle Practice, Capt. D. W. Simpson, was appointed and has given his Department good service ever since; he was appointed shortly before the camp and did not have a full opportunity to bring about results in the Regimental Team. Captain Simpson is an old Guardsman, an enthusiast, a good shot himself, and by his experience and ability is competent to fill almost any commission in the regiment. His report of Rifle Practice went forward a few days after the close of the season. I enclose a copy of report made by him to me of his work during the fall. His report forwarded some time ago gives a detailed result of his work. In this connection, it would be of great advantage if every company in the regiment was fitted out with an in-door range for practice with reduced charges. It does seem to me that the Division Inspector of Rifle Practice should have provided a complete plan and specifications for an in-door range which might be installed in the character of armories we have in the country companies.

A new Hospital Corps has enlisted at Bellefonte under the direction of Major Hayes and is composed of particularly bright young men, who are enthusiastic in their work and show the results of regular and systematic drill.

The Annual Encampment at Erie was very attractive to the men and resulted, as was expected, in a full attendance of the regiment. The unfortunate spell of rainy weather which rendered the ground intended for the camp of this regiment almost a bog, necessitated the moving of the same on the next day after our arrival there. This of course consumed time that otherwise would have been devoted to drill on that day. Your prompt consent to this removal enabled the regiment to be located on what was perhaps the best ground in the camp. The moving of the camp was very quickly accomplished and gave an experience to some of the men, who possibly had never pitched a camp.

Captain Caldwell, Quartermaster, was on hand early at Erie, and proved himself able to handle the very unfavorable situation which presented itself. His handling of the baggage of the regiment to and from the train was accomplished as speedily and thoroughly as possible with the character and number of teams furnished. The small wagon-beds which so many of the hired teamsters bring, increases largely the number of teams required. They should be required to bring a decent sized bed, or else be refused employment when they present themselves. Enclosed find copy of Captain Caldwell's report.*

The report of Captain M. V. Locke, Commissary, is attached hereto, and your attention is called to his suggestions as to the employment of experienced and competent cooks. Captain Locke has given very close attention to his duties as Commissary, and in many instances has shown that the issue is large enough, and where shortages occurred, they were mainly occasioned by waste on the part of the company cooks.

Your attention is again called to the fact that there has been no examination of officers in this regiment since I have assumed the command. There have been some changes among the officers, but it has been altogether among those below the rank of captain.

The question of attendance at drill has been agitated some throughout the State. Comparisons have been made with New York regiments, who report a drill attendance of eighty per cent. and over. From my own experience in the Guard, these figures should hardly be received as a verity. A drill attendance of fifty per cent. throughout the year should produce excellent companies.

The proposal to pay for the attendance, in my opinion, will not produce the results. If the members of the companies do not have pride enough in their organizations, and some desire to become well-drilled men, the sum of money proposed to be paid to them in one of the regiments will not secure a large attendance. My own opinion is that the constant employment of a well posted and good instructor who would visit and instruct the companies during the whole of the year would produce a better result for the money expended than anything that has been suggested.

The period immediately preceding the spring inspection is one filled with general activity in the armories, and works up such a general interest that we are always in better condition at the spring inspection than at any other time in the year. If this condition of affairs could be kept up during the balance of the year, it would add materially to the efficiency of the division.

The meeting of the National Guard Association at Pittsburg has added interest in that direction, and will certainly be productive of good results.

Thanking you and your staff for the many courtesies which have been extended to me during the year, I remain,

Very respectfully,

RUFUS C. ELDER,
Colonel.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, TENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters 10th Regt. Infy., N. G. P.,
Washington, Pa., December 30, 1905.

The Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Penn'a:

Sir: I have the honor to report, generally, that the condition of the 10th Regiment has been satisfactory, considering circumstances during the past year, and specifically as follows:

The only good drill floor in the regiment is that of Company H, at Washington, but the armory is a frame building and subject to fire. Companies B, I, and K, have been able to improve their condition somewhat in the past year, but the armories of Companies A, C, D and E are a disgrace to the State and no better quarters can be secured in their respective towns.

Attendance at drills increased over former years. A general interest has been awakened in this subject which will undoubtedly produce good results. A battalion contest was held last fall at Greensburg lasting two days for prizes offered by Major Richard Coutler, Jr. This proved very beneficial.

Prizes and medals have been offered for a Regimental contest next year by R. M. Cook, of Washington, Penn'a, and by Captains Aiken, Elverson and Best. Of these one will be for an expert team from each company; one for a team composed of those who have never shot on State or National contests; one for the best individual score, and one for the best revolver score by the officers.

I call attention to the report of the Regimental Commissary as to number of rations issued to companies at camp. It seems self-evident that if a Company Commander can take sixty men to camp that he should receive rations for that number as the extra men put on company details enable him to have more guns for drill and guard duty.

The Regimental Quartermaster handled the transportation of the Provisional Regiment from the Second Brigade to the Inaugural ceremonies at Washington in a most excellent manner, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad gave most satisfactory service.

In this connection I wish to thank the officers and men of the Fourteenth and Sixteenth Regiments, from Regimental Commanders down, for their hearty and enthusiastic co-operation in making the Inaugural trip a success.

The movement of the Regiment to and from the annual encampment at Erie was satisfactory, except for the delay in transportation from camp to train. I am convinced that this was unavoidable and that the Brigade Quartermaster is to be commended for his energy and persistence in overcoming the difficulties of the situation.

Very respectfully,

JAMES E. BARNETT,
Colonel, 10th Infy., N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, FOURTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters 14th Regiment Infantry,
Second Brigade, N. G. P.,
Pittsburg, Pa., December 30, 1905.

Major John R. Robertson, Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to make the following report for the year ending December 31, 1905. Owing to the annual routine, my report will be very brief.

The Field, Staff, Band, Hospital Corps, and the several companies were inspected during the months of February and March by the Brigade Inspector, Major Samuel W. Jefferis, and Major Nicholson, of the U. S. Army. These inspections were a new departure from the old routine of years, including the School of the Soldier, the School of the Squad, Guard Duty, with the usual inspection of the company and arms, concluding with a School of the Non-Commissioned officers. I am in hearty accord with this change in the inspections, and believe that it will work much good to every company in the National Guard, and greatly benefit every regimental organization. The non-commissioned officers under this system realize that they are expected to be more than figure-heads, and ready at all times to discharge their duties according to the drill regulations. I attribute to this change the increased interest and devotion to duty of the non-commissioned officers of my regiment, in the last Annual Encampment.

In compliance with General Order No. 5, dated Headquarters Second Brigade, N. G. P., Franklin, Pa., June 19, 1905, an advance detail from this regiment, consisting of one non-commissioned officer, one cook and eight privates from each company, in charge of Capt. Murray G. Livingston, Regimental Quartermaster, with two Lieutenants and an Assistant Surgeon, left Pittsburg Wednesday, July 12th, at nine o'clock P. M., arriving at Erie at 4:30 next morning. The regiment left for camp on Thursday, July 13, at ten o'clock P. M., and arrived at Erie about daylight. On account of a continuous downpour of rain for several days immediately prior to our arrival, we found the ground over which we passed to the camp site, a veritable quagmire, and the camp site was in many places lakes of water. When we arrived, I thought the advance detail had not accomplished as much as they should, but when I found the conditions as they existed, I wondered how they had done as much as they had. This was actually the worst building of camp I had seen in twenty-five year's experience, and it is certainly a credit to the men of the National Guard to say that during that twenty-four hours of hard work under the most adverse conditions, I did not hear a complaint. Providence favored us with good weather, and Camp C. S. W. Jones, as far as my regiment was concerned, proved in the end to be very successful. Everybody appeared to be interested in their work, and naturally good results followed.

At the last meeting of the officers held on the first Thursday of December, the captains, with one exception (he being absent), reported their companies in good shape. Most of them reported that it was hard to get recruits to fill the places of men whose enlistments expired. This is one of the difficulties we have to contend with in our busy industrial city. I believe, however, that while in the past our large corporations and manufacturing concerns discouraged their employes from joining or remaining in the National Guard, many of them are beginning to realize the importance of the National Guard, and do not object to their men joining.

The following changes have taken place in the officers of the Regiment since my last report:

Assistant Surgeon George L. Hays to Major and Surgeon, assigned, vice William McC. Johnston, commission expired.

Dr. Curtis S. Foster, Assistant Surgeon, assigned, vice George L. Hays, to Major and Surgeon.

Color Sergeant Oliver O. Mechling to First Lieutenant and Battalion Adjutant, vice Samuel S. Wales, resigned.

Alexander D. Guy appointed First Lieutenant and Battalion Adjutant February 17, 1905, vice Charles C. McGovern to Captain, Company E.

Robert G. Snyder to Second Lieutenant, Company A, vice Lewis M. Baker, to Captain, Company D.

Lewis M. Baker to Captain, Company D, vice David C. Farrar, resigned.

Second Lieutenant Henry C. Schweitzer to First Lieutenant, Company D, vice Maurice E. Barr, resigned.

Harry G. Koehler to Second Lieutenant, Company D, vice Henry C. Schweitzer, to First Lieutenant.

Second Lieutenant Frank G. Kuhl to First Lieutenant, Company E, vice Frank V. Boyle, resigned.

Harry G. Koerner to Second Lieutenant, Company E, vice Frank G. Kuhl, to First Lieutenant.

Capt. Harry W. Studt, of Company F, tendered his resignation on December 2, 1905. The same has been accepted, and an election ordered to fill the vacancy.

Major William McC. Johnston, in point of service, was the oldest officer in the regiment. He was a capable and efficient officer, and it was with deep regret that we part with him as an officer and comrade.

The season's work in the rifle range has resulted as follows:

Experts,	40

Second classmen,	116
Third classmen,	33

Much credit is due the regimental team detailed to participate in the State shoot at Mt. Gretna, for the excellent manner in which they discharged their duties, having for the third time won the Brigade Trophy presented by Major General Charles Miller, and having the honor of having four of their number detailed on the Pennsylvania Team in the National competition at Sea Girt, N. J.

Capt. George B. Shields, Inspector of Rifle Practice, is a capable, efficient and earnest officer, and to him is due much of the credit for the standing of the regimental team.

I desire to thank the field and staff officers of the Regiment for their faithful discharge of duties during the year past, and tender to my superior officers an expression of my appreciation of the many favors and kindnesses extended to me.

I have the honor to forward herewith the reports of the Regimental Quartermaster, Inspector of Rifle Practice and Commissary.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

W. E. THOMPSON,
Colonel.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SIXTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Sixteenth Regiment Infantry,
Second Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Oil City, Pa., December 28, 1905.

Major John R. Robertson, Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P.,
Franklin, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor, in the absence of Colonel Hulings, to forward the following report of the operations of this regiment for the year 1905.

There is but little to report, outside the ordinary routine during the current year. The companies comprising the regiment have worked with zeal at their home stations with very satisfactory results on the whole. I regret that a few companies have not given the work the attention that they should and attribute it largely to the indifference of the officers.

The return of the regiment for the quarter ending December 31, 1904, showed 49 officers and 681 men for duty. There has been one officer promoted and six resigned. There were 281 enlisted men discharged, of whom 119 were by reason of expiration of enlistment, and the remainder about equally divided by reason of leaving the limits of the command in which they were enlisted, and to enable them to enlist in the Regular Army and the Navy.

There have been 343 enlistments, of which 53 were re-enlistments and 60 in the new Co. "K," mustered at Kittanning, May 5, 1905.

The average number of drills in the command, by companies, were 48, and the average attendance at each was 27.

The report of the Inspector of Rifle Practice shows that 82 per cent. of the regiment reported on the several ranges for practice, of which 86 per cent. qualified, leaving 29 per cent. of the regiment who failed in this essential.

The personnel of the Field and Staff has changed but little. Major McElhinney's commission expired the 18th of September, and I am pleased to be able to report his unanimous re-election.

First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon Bert K. Van Naten was appointed Major and Surgeon by the Commander-in-Chief and assigned to Brigade Headquarters, and Dr. John C. Wilkins, of Oil City, was appointed First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon on June 30, 1905, and assigned to the 16th Regiment.

Captain George O. Slone, I. R. P., resigned June 25, 1905, and was succeeded by First Lieutenant Bertrand Th. Bliss, of Company H.

Lieutenant Ulysses G. Lyons, Battalion Adjutant, was promoted to Regimental Commissary, to fill the vacancy that had existed for a year.

Lieutenant Lyle Van Vleck, Battalion Adjutant, was promoted July 24th to the Staff of the Brigade Commander as Aid-de-Camp, with the rank of Captain. The vacancy thus created has not yet been filled.

Lieutenant Thomas R. Patton, Company A, was appointed Battalion Adjutant, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Captain Lyons to the Commissary Department.

On the 5th of May, Company K was mustered in at Kittanning by Colonel F. K. Patterson, of the Governor's Staff, and though they had but a few weeks preparation before annual encampment, surpassed the expectation of all in drill, discipline and soldierly bearing, reflecting much credit upon Captain Cochrane and his Lieutenants.

The vacancy in Company E, occasioned by the resignation of Captain Homer J. Hanna June 21, 1905, was filled by the election of Major Leonard L. Ray, late of the 16th Regiment, and who was previous to his promotion to Major, Captain of this Company from 1884 to 1892. Second Lieutenant Vance R. Burchfield was elected First Lieutenant, and William Lepley, Second Lieutenant, June 19, 1905.

Captains John W. Borland and Joseph F. Robinson, of Companies "M" and "C" respectively, resigned to accept appointments as Captains in the State Constabulary. First Lieutenant Charles B. Smathers was elected to succeed Captain Borland, and Second Lieutenant Kennedy promoted to First Lieutenant, and Charles R. Hamilton elected Second Lieutenant. Captain Smathers has proved a very competent junior officer, and will no doubt maintain the high standing and efficiency of his command enjoyed by his predecessor.

There has not yet been an election held in Company C, but the orders have been transmitted for this duty.

Resignations were forwarded and accepted of the following officers during the year:

Captain George O. Slone, I. R. P.

Captain Homer J. Hanna, Company E.

Captain John W. Borland, Company M.

Captain Joseph F. Robinson, Company C.

Second Lieutenant Jacob Mitchell, Company H.

First Lieutenant Alonzo P. Ingram, Company C.

First Lieutenant Ralph A. Snyder, Company E.

Their successors have all been elected with the exception of Companies C and H.

All the commissioned officers of the regiment, elected or appointed since 1902, appeared before the Brigade Examining Board on the 13th day of June. All of them passed that body with more or less degree of merit.

The tour of camp duty, in its details of entraining and detraining troops, constructing and maintaining the camp, striking and moving, had its advantages, all of which were sources of profit to this command as was evidenced by the condition of the camp and the discipline of the men throughout the tour of duty.

With the exception of the Second Battalion, Major McElhinney, the companies of the regiment have not been brought together during the year, except in the annual camp. The Second Battalion was paraded at Franklin, Pa., September 13th, on the occasion of Old Home Week, performing a battle exercise with some degree of skill, and which was very much appreciated by the thousands assembled to witness the maneuver.

I have the honor to attach hereto the report of Capt. W. H. Corrin, Quartermaster, Capt. U. G. Lyons, Commissary, and Capt. B. Th. Bliss, Inspector of Rifle Practice, dealing with the operations of their respective departments. I most respectfully invite attention to such suggestions and recommendations as they have deemed proper to offer. All these officers are earnest and conscientious workers, of large experience in their several duties and deserving of the fullest confidence.

It perhaps ill becomes a junior officer, temporarily thrown in command, to offer suggestions, much less make recommendations, but I cannot close this attempt at a report without giving expression to the matters uppermost in my mind.

First, and the most of importance, is the proper housing of the companies. The cost to the State for armory rent in this regiment is $2,400.00, while the cost to the companies is $3,600.00; an excess over the annual allowance for this purpose of $1,200.00. This excess is made up in as many ways as there are companies, by sub-renting, giving entertainments, making an assessment of one day's pay of each officer and man, from the annual allowance, and going out among the friends of the company soliciting the necessary funds to keep the landlord's warrant from the door. Even these conditions would be bearable if the money expended brought an adequate return, but the rooms that the companies are compelled to rent for armories with the limited allowance at their command cannot be more than the most ordinary quarters, entirely too small for squad drill, to say nothing of company drill and the care of State property.

The National Guard of Pennsylvania has gone far beyond the experimental stage. The military establishment has become one of the sound institutions of this great Commonwealth, and should be provided for as becomes its importance and the credit of the State.

Its Captains, the men who really make it what it is, should not be compelled to lean on charity to maintain the company.

Those who have commanded a company know, but those who never have cannot realize the work, worry and incessant application that it is necessary on the part of the company commander to keep up its enlistment with desirable young men, to keep alive the interest of these men, to plan and economize in the distribution of his allowance to carry through the year without a deficit.

Notwithstanding the arguments made against prolonging the present period of the annual camps, I am still of the opinion that, at least ten days should be given to this duty. Experience of years has taught the value these two additional days would be to the organization, and at a cost that would but little exceed the pay of the troops. My personal belief is that it would equal the period of the present camps if given over to evolutions of the regiments, maneuvers of the brigades and division.

In closing this uninteresting report, which has no more value perhaps than its formality, I wish to acknowledge, in behalf of the officers and men of the command, the many kind attentions received from the commanding officer of the Brigade and his Staff.

Personally I ask that you accept my kindest regards, and that you extend to the General Commanding my compliments.

I have the honor to be,

Yours most respectfully,

GEO. C. RICKARDS,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, EIGHTEENTH REGIMENT, INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters 18th Regiment Infantry,
Second Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Pittsburg, Pa., January 15, 1906.

Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit my report of the operations of this regiment for the past year.

During the year the regular routine of military duty was observed, viz: Each company drilling once a week, and a majority of them twice a week, prior to inspections. During a good portion of the year, battalion drills are held regularly once a week, by each of the three battalions. This has a tendency to secure more uniformity, and errors can be more easily corrected. These drills consist of the School of the Battalion, School of the Company, Squad, Extended Order, Out-post, and Guard Duty. In addition, Battalion Commanders hold Non-commissioned Officer Schools weekly, since the close of the rifle season.

The regiment was inspected by companies, by Major S. W. Jefferis, Brigade Inspector, and by Lt. Col. Rogers, U. S. Army.

The regiment participated in Brigade Encampment July 15th to 22nd, inclusive, at Camp C. S. W. Jones, at Erie, Pa.

During the year especial attention has been paid to rifle practice (believing it to be the most important part of a soldier's instruction). The result shows:

Experts,	43
Sharpshooters,	19
Marksmen,	250
1st Classmen,	163
2nd Classmen,	217
3rd Classmen,	67
4th Classmen,	118
Total,	877

This is an improvement over former years, and requires a great deal of work and attention, as well as sacrifice of time, when it is considered that every time a man reports on the range, it means the loss of a half-day's pay, in addition to car fare, and many men go as often as eight or ten times during the season. The result is due to the persistent efforts of Captain F. B. Riddle, I. R. P., who was present on the range every day during the season, and superintended the qualifications of every officer and man, and furnished a report to every company commander, monthly, of the number of men qualified or practiced in his company.

Very respectfully,

FRANK I. RUTLEDGE,
Colonel, Commanding 18th Regiment Inf., N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, SHERIDAN TROOP.

Armory Sheridan Troop,
Tyrone, Pa., January 23, 1906.

Assistant Adjutant General, Second Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations and conditions of Sheridan Troop for year ending December 31, 1905.

During the year 20 Troop drills were held, 12 of them mounted and 8 dismounted. Platoon drills were held once a week, except for probably eight weeks, just after the annual encampment, and during the rifle practice season, in the Warrior's Mark Armory, on Wednesday evenings, and in Tyrone Armory on Tuesday evenings.

In compliance with S. O. No. 6, Headquarters Second Brigade, N. G. P., dated at Franklin, Pa., February 17, 1905, an election was held in the Tyrone Armory on Thursday evening, March 2, 1905, at 8 o'clock, to fill vacancy caused by expiration of Second Lieutenant H. S. Fleck's commission, which resulted in the re-election of Lieutenant Fleck. On March 25th, 1905, the Troop was inspected at Tyrone Armory, in compliance with orders from A. G. O., and Second Brigade Headquarters. Four officers (4) and fifty-six (56) enlisted men were present. Two enlisted men were absent with leave, and one officer, 2nd Lieutenant and Quartermaster Robert A. Zentmyer, being unavoidably called from home on important business.

On May 6th, after an illness of not more than ten days, Captain C. S. W. Jones, died at his home in Tyrone and was buried on May 10, 1905. The Troop attended the funeral, wearing blue uniform and cap, and carrying carbines. Every officer and every enlisted man, except one who was absent from home, was present to render the last tribute of respect to our beloved Captain.

In obedience to Special Orders No. 33, Headquarters Second Brigade, N. G. P., dated at Franklin, Pa., June 19, 1905, an election was held on July 4, 1905, at 7:30 A. M., to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Captain C. S. W. Jones. The early hour was named to suit Major Dunkle of the 5th Regiment of Infantry, N. G. P., who was detailed to hold said election, and to give the Troop an opportunity to take part in a parade in Tyrone at 9 o'clock A. M. of the same day. I had the honor to be elected Captain, Lieutenant H. S. Fleck was elected 1st Lieutenant and Sergt. J. F. Moore was elected 2nd Lieutenant.

Pursuant to G. O. No. 15, A. G. O., and G. O. No. 5, Headquarters Second Brigade, dated at Franklin, Pa., June 19, 1905, the Troop assembled at the Armory in Tyrone on Friday morning July 14, 1905, and left for Camp C. S. W. Jones, at Erie, Pa., July 15 to 22, inclusive, starting from Tyrone at 8:20 A. M., and arriving at Erie about 7 P. M., going by the way of Lock Haven, over the Bald Eagle Valley and P. & E. Railroads. Between Tyrone and Lock Haven, while on the Bald Eagle Valley road, good time was made, but from Lock Haven to Erie, while on the P. & E. Railroad, we were detained by orders from railroad officials, causing us to be sidetracked for all fast moving trains. At Kane we were detained one hour for the want of an engine, the one that was hauling us having become unserviceable, and was run off to the shop to be repaired. Five officers and 57 enlisted men were present at camp; one enlisted man was absent. By some mistake in the mails his order to appear for camp did not reach him until camp was over. On our return from camp we experienced some trouble on the P. & E., between Erie and Lock Haven. The air worked so badly on the engine that by the time we reached Kane one of our horses had been knocked off its feet and was being tramped by the other horses. We were again detained for one hour at Kane, the time consumed in repairing the engine. We left camp at Erie between 8 and 9 A. M., and should have arrived at Tyrone about 3 P. M., but did not arrive until about 8 P. M. I hope I will never be obliged to take the Troop over this road again until they learn how to treat horses and men.

Captain Jones' sickness and death and the necessity of securing new ground and building a pit for a new range prevented any work on the range until June 24, 1905. After this date the range was open two days each week for rifle and revolver practice. Five men qualified as experts, 4 as sharpshooters, 33 as marksmen, 4 as first classmen, 9 as second classmen, 7 as third classmen, and 1 as fourth classman.

With the revolver, 20 qualified as experts and 31 qualified as marksmen; only 6, who practiced, failed to qualify, and 6 failed to practice with revolver.

During the year six enlisted men were honorably discharged, 10 were enlisted, and 2 were re-enlisted.

On December 31, 1905, the membership consisted of 5 officers and 58 enlisted men.

Our equipment is complete and State property in good condition.

Very respectfully,

L. F. CRAWFORD,
Captain.

REPORT OF BRIGADE COMMANDER, THIRD BRIGADE, 1905.

Headquarters Third Brigade,
National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Lebanon, Pa., January 15, 1906.

Brigadier General Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: In compliance with law and the customs of service, I herewith enclose the reports of the commanding officers of the Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth and Thirteenth Regiments of Infantry, the Governor's Troop, and of the Brigade Quartermaster and Brigade Commissary for the year ending December 31st, 1905. The report of the Fourth Regiment and Battery "C" will be forwarded as soon as received.

The operations of the Brigade during the year have been uneventful except in the change made in our Annual Encampment of which I have given you previously a brief report.

The quarterly returns of the various organizations show a fair average of attendance at weekly drills in most instances. There has not been as much of an increase in this direction as I would desire. It is to be hoped that the legislation authorizing the erection of armories in the near future will eventually bring about increased interest and naturally an increased attendance.

It is very evident that here is where the real work of the National Guardsmen must be done. If a weakness exists in our system, it is in the School of the Soldier and of the Squad. With a good company of properly drilled and disciplined men there is no difficulty in forming proper battalions and regiments when the opportunity is presented. Line officers have in their hands, to a great extent, the future of the system. The elimination of many movements in the School of the Company and of the Battalion have given them increased duties in making the individual soldier more thorough and impressing upon him the increased responsibility he assumes. In this connection his selection of non-commissioned officers and their fitness and preparation becomes of greater importance and whatever can be done to facilitate measures which will aid in this direction is doing what can be done to bring desirable results.

The legislation which authorizes the State authorities to assist in the uniforming of officers was one step in the right direction and removes some of the objections to worthy officers remaining in the service, and giving the benefit of their experience and their ability to the numerous recruits which must periodically enter the service. Therefore it is that I deem it most essential to bring before the department the necessity for encouraging line officers in their work of the armories, because it is there and there largely that soldiers are made. An officer who is thoroughly up in the School of the Soldier and the School of the Company can be depended upon for higher rank and more important duties, and unless so equipped can be but of little use under the present increased responsibilities of officers.

Two regimental officers refer to a condition that is becoming very apparent in many localities and which is serious. It is the existence in various parts of the State of so-called social organizations appearing as military organizations, uniformed officers and equipped as soldiers of the State organization, with the insignia of rank, and the official titles of officers of the army. This not only interferes with the enlistment of some men who are fond of military life and its environments, but at the same time cannot but bring discredit upon the military service, because of its want of proper discipline, and in addition thereto such organizations are liable to become controlled by irresponsible parties and become a menace to the public peace. This requires serious consideration at the hands of the authorities. Under the present law of the United States the National Guard of the respective States is the great reserve of the Nation, and should not be compelled in any manner to have in the vicinity of its operation organizations likely to become competitors in public esteem or create opposition in time of trouble.

The provisional regiments authorized to attend the Inauguration at Washington under my command, was a very creditable representation of the National Guard of the State. Better quarters were provided and the provision for feeding the men was much better than any former experience we have had on these occasions. The men marched well and the discipline was excellent and not a single complaint from any source reached me, a very unusual situation. The usual delay occurred in returning the men to their homes, which was not surprising under the circumstances as the railroad was simply congested. It was however a very satisfactory trip. The Pennsylvania Club very kindly placed their club-rooms at the disposal of myself and staff for headquarters, for which courtesy I am under many obligations.

As already indicated, the encampment this year being by Brigade, I determined to devote three days to practice marches and battle maneuvers, and am gratified to know that it met with the approval of the great majority of the officers and men who participated. It was a decided success, and although in some locality exaggerated stories appeared of the hardships of the march, yet I am satisfied that any Guardsman unable to endure such an exercise would never become an efficient soldier. In this encampment I further discouraged as much as possible the flooring of tents and the use of excessive baggage as much as possible. I was not as successful in the latter as I was in the former.

It is difficult to break up old customs and yet the gradual increase in the use of lumber in National Encampments is one that is not only decidedly obnoxious to the old soldier, but is not in keeping with any reasonable purpose for which a National Guard Encampment is conducted. The quicker we get rid of the picnic feature of our National Guard Encampments the more rapidly will our military efficiency increase. It is efficiency we are seeking; it is what we are working for, and it cannot be acquired by luxurious quarters and an effeminate surrounding.

This Brigade is fortunate in its Regimental Commanders, each of them is a graduate of the ranks, and therefore it is a matter of congratulation as well as a natural result that their soldiery attainments are of the highest order. There has been no change in them during the year. In the Fourth Regiment there has been a change in the field, in the election of Lieutenant Colonel Groff, and Majors Case and Shannon, all of whom are graduates of the ranks and with proper experience as Company Commanders cannot but make good field officers. From the creation of the Armory Board, I expect great results in the future. It is to be regretted that the legislature saw fit to reduce the appropriation asked for, but with good judgment, proper discretion and energetic action, a new stimulus should be infused into the organizations, which possibly in the near future shall have homes of their own under the protection and in care of the State they so willingly serve.

All the quarterly returns of the various organizations have been received promptly and it is gratifying to know that this work of the various headquarters is kept up and faithfully executed. This has always been a weak spot in National Guard service and it is gratifying to know that it is being remedied and more thoroughly done now than at any time in the past. The new drill regulations are being mastered and the difficulties of the same overcome. It is hoped that for sometime to come there will be no further changes and that officers acquiring the latest will have an opportunity to become efficient in it before being required to forget their work of a year and be required to acquire new regulations.

The rifle practice of the brigade has in the main been satisfactory. The officers in charge of this branch of the service have been intelligent and energetic. The local ranges must be the place where skill with the rifle is to be acquired, and most men can there better secure qualification necessary to make good marksmen. The great object to be accomplished however is to distribute more thoroughly the prizes offered if they are to continue and not create what cannot be regarded as a species of professionalism in the state match. This I know is a difficult problem, but it is keeping many men from the competitive work by continuing on the various teams men who are only marksmen and not all-around guardsmen.

I beg to return to my staff thanks for their efficiency and attention to their various duties. For many courtesies received from headquarters I am grateful.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

J. P. S. GOBIN,
Brig. Gen.

SPECIAL REPORT BRIGADE COMMANDER, THIRD BRIGADE, ON ENCAMPMENT, 1905.

Headquarters Third Brigade,
National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Lebanon, Pa., July 24, 1905.

Brigadier General Thomas J. Stewart, Harrisburg, Pa.:

General: I have the honor to submit my report, of the recent encampment of the Third Brigade, N. G. P., held at Mt. Gretna from July 8th to 15th, inclusive.

In preparing for this encampment I concluded first to eliminate board floors throughout, the expense of these had become burdensome and where they were owned by organizations the expense of transferring them and the trouble of handling them was equally so. The result was a decided improvement in my judgment and as a rule tents were kept cleaner and no private refrigerators under the floors were in existence. The men appeared just as well contented and few complaints were heard.

I also determined to experiment in cooking, with grate bars and tripod. The unwieldy and burdensome stoves were left at home and all reports agree that the rations were as well and as readily cooked, and every requirement met by the methods in use.

The entire command was in camp by Saturday morning at 9:00 A. M. and our camp was opened with proper ceremony. Saturday and Sunday were devoted to mastering the new regulations and enabling us to move out on Monday morning in our practice marches.

After full consultation with all the field officers Sunday night, I selected Bellaire, a small village on the line of the C. & L. R. R. as the objective point and directed two columns to move out simultaneously and occupy it. The north column consisting of the Ninth, Fourth and Thirteenth Regiments, with a section of artillery and a platoon of Cavalry and Artillery commanded by Col. C. B. Daugherty. The South column consisting of the Twelfth Regiment and Eighth Regiment, and an equal amount of cavalry and artillery commanded by Col. C. M. Clement. Both columns moved promptly and conducted their march with every precaution that would be necessary in an enemy's country. Each column guarded its cross-roads and protected its own baggage-train. I spent some time with each column and was highly gratified with the spirit manifested. The north column reached Bellaire about 2 P. M. and took possession of commanding positions surrounding and was soon joined by the south column which completed the investment. I wish to say that excellent judgment was evinced by the commanding officers in placing troops. The lines were then withdrawn and the entire command went into bivouac under shelter tents in a large meadow skirted by the Conewago Creek, which gave us fine bathing facilities. Wagon train was parked in the field. Pioneer corps erected a dam in a small stream that gave us an abundance of good water. Quartermaster's department had wood and forage on the ground and the Commissary department delivered a ration of bread which were the only issues necessary to be made. The entire march was about 11 miles.

Tuesday morning the columns were reversed and returned to camp, exercising same care and operating with same precaution. It had been my purpose to bivouac another night on the field, but various reasons induced me to change my mind and move into camp, where I could deposit surplus baggage and move the following day in our manoeuvres in light marching order. *Accompanying please find blue-prints of the roads pursued and also statement of the casualties. These were much less than I supposed and not a serious case was reported, most of those occurring were men that came into camp illy prepared for such duty or from habits of over indulgence, were unable to keep up.

The march to and from Bellaire was in every respect a decided success and developed not only the ability of the men to endure so arduous a task, but also enabled the quartermasters, commissary and medical departments to assume and exercise the responsibilities hitherto unknown to them in an encampment.

My desire on Wednesday morning was to demonstrate the use of smokeless powder and to ascertain the extent to which officers could control the firing line. My arrangements were such as enabled the commanding officers of regiments to exercise largely their own judgment in searching for an enemy and in attacking and repelling, and was very satisfactory throughout. Different methods were employed and I am convinced that the practice was of great value to all engaged. The routine duties of camp were resumed on Thursday morning and on Friday the regiments turned over for inspection in obedience to general orders.

The new drill regulations, making the squad the unit and the use of smokeless powder and a rapid fire gun were the principle objects we sought to master in these proceedings, and I cannot but congratulate both officers and men upon the skill displayed and the hard work performed during the entire week, and above all during the marches and evolutions.

The following is a summary of the number of men of this command leaving Mt. Gretna July 10th and returning Tuesday July 11th.

REPORT OF COMMISSARY OF SUBSISTENCE, THIRD BRIGADE, 1905.

Marietta, Pa., September 5th, 1905.

Major M. A. Gherst, A. A. G., Lebanon, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to herewith submit my report as Commissary of Subsistence, Third Brigade, N. G. P., during late tour of duty at Mt. Gretna, Pennsylvania, July 8th to 15th, 1905, inclusive—Camp "Captain Lewis J. Roney."

As directed in paragraph IX of General Orders, No. 16, I at the proper time called upon twelve reputable firms for bids. On June 15th, 1905, at 12 o'clock noon opened the bids, drew up contracts, had successful bidders sign same with me and forwarded them in duplicate to the Commissary General, Colonel Albert J. Logan, for his approval.

The components of the ration issued by me this year with the price was as follows:

Fresh beef,	$.0693	per lb.
Smoked hams,1075	per lb.
Boneless bacon,1025	per lb.
Fresh fish,07	per lb.
Fresh bread,03125	per lb.
Hard bread,04375	per lb.
Marrowfat beans,05375	per lb.
Carolina rice,055	per lb.
New potatoes,01375	per lb.
Onions,0225	per lb.
Canned tomatoes,825	per doz.
Ground coffee,13	per lb.
Granulated sugar,0596	per lb.
Vinegar,115	per gal.
Black pepper,24	per lb.
Salt,015	per lb.
Soap,0525	per lb.
Candles,10	per lb.
Cheese,1025	per lb.
Prunes,05	per lb.
Pickles,	$7.50	per bbl
Syrup,29	per gal.
Breakfast cereal,	$4.10	per case.
Flour,	$5.40	per bbl.
Lard,08	per lb.

The components of the rations were especially good, excepting the prunes; particularly the potatoes which were the finest I have ever issued.

The total cost of subsistence stores was $5,228.81 for this tour of duty against $6,008.54 in 1903, which shows a saving of $722.73.

The cost of the ration per man per day was very nearly 20 cents.

Seventy-five per cent of the Companies subsisted on the ration as issued by me this year, which is something I am particularly proud of; because, first, it shows the ration issued is good in quality and sufficient in quantity, and secondly, I am convinced that the company cooks are using the ration to its best advantage.

As is my custom, I visited daily the kitchens and mess tents, inspecting everything pertaining thereto, was impressed with the cleanliness and neatness everywhere and gratified to see an apparent effort on the part of the cooks to have everything in order, and showing a determination not to waste their supplies. The wastage was nothing like in former years, and the absence of good supplies in the kitchen sinks was quite marked.

And while the 9th Regiment was, to my mind, in the lead, I cannot refrain from commending each and every cook for the decided improved condition of kitchens and mess tents over any previous tour of duty.

On Friday morning, July 14th, I accompanied Lieutenant Colonel Horace L. Haldeman, Assistant Commissary General, on his tour of inspection of the Regimental Commissary tents, company kitchens and mess tents, and found things in good shape—no falling off of condition of affairs observed by me at the beginning of camp.

I would respectfully urge the following:

First, that Brigade Commissaries be furnished three two-horse teams by the Quartermaster's Department for their exclusive use the day before the opening of camp.

Secondly, that Regimental Commanders order their Regimental Commissaries with their Sergeants, at annual encampments, in camp the Friday morning before camp opens.

By doing this, our Department can issue to Regimental Commissaries the day before camp opens and everything will be in readiness for the Regiments as they arrive.

I want to express my appreciation of the zeal and enthusiasm displayed by the Regimental Commissaries and Quartermasters of the Governor's Troop and Battery "C." The success of our Department during this tour of duty was due to their watchfulness in conjunction with the care of the cooks.

The march of Tuesday and Wednesday clearly demonstrated that they knew how to husband their resources; each one reported to me on his return to camp that his regiment had sufficient, and one Regimental Commissary said his regiment had sufficient for another day.

I beg to express my grateful appreciation of the many kindnesses extended to me by the Commissary General, Colonel Logan, and his assistant, Lieutenant Colonel Haldeman.

To the Commanding General of the Third Brigade, N. G. P., my gratitude for the support he has given me at all times and for the pleasant relations.

To my brother officers my appreciation of their continued friendship and to Sergeant Charles H. Bernheisel, acknowledgment of his untiring efforts to make the Department successful and his untiring loyalty to me.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

SIMON B. CAMERON,

Major and Commissary, Third Brigade, N. G. P.

REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER, THIRD BRIGADE, 1905.

Office of the Quartermaster,
Third Brigade, N. G. P.,
Williamsport, Pa., December 1st, 1905.

Adjutant General 3rd Brigade, N. G. Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit report relative to the annual encampment held at Mount Gretna, Pa., from July 8th to July 15th, 1905, inclusive.

Pursuant to instructions received from Brigade Commander, I reported at Mount Gretna, June 22nd, 1905, where I was met by the Brigade Commander and all the Quartermasters or their representatives, of the different organizations comprising this Brigade. The day was spent in looking over the grounds, locating camp site and in laying and staking out the grounds, this work being done without the assistance of an engineer, and in a very satisfactory manner, thus saving a considerable expense to the State in this line. I also made arrangements for digging and building sinks, hauling of camp equipage and closed contract for forage and ice.

The camp was located practically as in former years, except that Brigade Headquarters was moved to grounds usually occupied by Division Headquarters; the Governor's Troop and Battery "C," occupying ground usually occupied by Brigade Headquarters. Brigade Headquarters were opened Thursday July 6th, Major Marshall L. Case, 4th Regiment, being in command of camp until the arrival of General Gobin, Saturday July 8th. The advance details began arriving on Wednesday, July 5th, and all were on the grounds early in the morning of July 6th, and the work of hauling canvas and erection of same was pushed forward rapidly, so that upon the arrival of the troops comprising the different organizations, the camps were all prepared.

The water supply was of the best, being furnished through pipes laid for that purpose, to all points of the camp, and this was furnished the State at no cost through courtesy of Mr. A. D. Smith, of Lebanon, Pa., President and General Superintendent of the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad.

The wagons required were furnished by Mr. Daniel Laudermilch, of Lebanon, and the service first class, with the exception that considerable trouble was occasioned owing to the inability to secure sufficient wagons, the farmers from whom the majority were obtained being in the midst of haying and harvest. This trouble was in a measure obviated by the men in the different regiments carrying considerable of the lighter camp equipage from the cars to their different camps.

The wood supply was ample, and was furnished by Lieutenant Colonel William F. Richardson, from a stock on hand at the State Rifle Range.

The ice supply was of the best and was purchased from the United Coal and Ice Company, Harrisburg, Pa., and shipped via C. & L. R. R. Co., from their ice houses at Colebrook, Pa.

The sinks were dug, lumber furnished, and same erected by Miller Brothers, of Lebanon, Pa., and were ready for use upon arrival of troops.

All organizations of the Brigade were in camp by noon Saturday, July 8th, having arrived over the following roads, viz:

Governor's Troop and Battery "C," marched to camp from their respective rendezvous via wagon road.

On Wednesday, July 12th, I arranged with the Railroad Company a schedule for the return movement of the Brigade, and I respectfully submit herewith schedule showing the time set for the departure and the actual time at which the different organizations departed.

Regiment.	Scheduled.	Departed.	Date.
Ninth,	9.00 A. M.,	10.09 A. M.,	July 15th.
Thirteenth,	10.00 A. M.,	11.25 A. M.,	July 15th.
Twelfth,	11.00 A. M.,	12.15 P. M.,	July 15th.
Eighth,	12.00 M.,	1.30 & 1.37 P. M.,	July 15th.
Fourth,	12.00 M.,	1.50 & 2.30 P. M.,	July 15th.

The difference between the time for leaving and actual departure of the trains, was not the fault of either the organization moved or of the railroad, but to the fact that the canvas being wet delayed the breaking of the camp of the 9th Regiment fully forty-five minutes, thus disarranging the entire schedule. The movement was also in a measure delayed by the breaking of an air hose in the 12th Regiment troop train. Taken as a whole the entraining of the entire Brigade showed efficiency, and no time was lost by any command in entraining after the order had been given so to do. The Governor's Troop and Battery "C" returned via wagon road.

I respectfully call the attention of the Brigade Commander to the enormous amount of baggage carried by the different organizations. This in my judgment should be limited to a certain weight, and the limit strictly enforced. Some of the company chests required the assistance of from eight to ten men to move them, and made a good load for an ordinary wagon.

The question of disposition of garbage still confronts us, and will continue so to do until a crematory for disposal of garbage has been adopted for this purpose, and I would respectfully suggest that action of the higher authorities be taken on the same.

The following expenditures were contracted for by the Quartermaster's Department:

Wagon transportation,	$768 60
Digging and building sinks, including lumber,	516 83
695 bushels of oats, at 44 cents,	305 80
25,760 lbs. of hay, at $15,	193 20
6,186 lbs. of straw, at $12,	37 11
154,216 lbs. of ice,	192 77

In closing my report, I wish to thank General Gobin and members of his staff for their courtesies and assistance to me in all the duties of my department. To the Regimental Quartermaster's and their Sergeants. To Capt.

Joseph W. Adams, Commissary, 4th Regiment, and to my efficient Quartermaster Sergeant, Hummel K. Maeyer, I thank each and every one in helping to make the work of the Department a pleasure.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

O. L. NICHOLS,

Major and Quartermaster, 3rd Brig. N. G. P.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters 8th Regiment Infantry,
3rd Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pa., January 1st, 1906.

Major M. A. Gherst, Assistant Adjutant General, 3rd Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit the report of the 8th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., for the year ending December 31st, 1905.

The year just closed has been one of the most successful in the history of this regiment. There have been few changes of officers since January and these occurred in Companies B, E and I.

All the officers, both field, staff and line, have given me their earnest support, and all have worked hard, with the object in view of becoming proficient in their duties and making the regiment one of the best, and the inspection ratings show that their work has brought good results.

While it is very gratifying to me to command a good regiment, it is much more gratifying to know that I have the unanimous support of the officers under me, and with such conditions good results can be accomplished.

The Regiment camped with the Brigade, at Mount Gretna, July 8th to 15th, and it was a very pleasant and instructive camp in every particular.

The entire command (except a small detail left in charge of the camp), participated in the practice march and sham battle with the Brigade, and the experience generally has been very beneficial to the officers and men of the regiment, as practical demonstrations always show our weak points.

The Regiment, with Companies F, G, and H, 4th Regiment, paraded in Harrisburg under my command October 3rd, during the celebration of "Old Home Week," and all the companies made a very creditable showing, and the conduct and discipline was very good during their two days visit to Harrisburg.

There was more interest displayed in rifle practice this year than last, yet I regret to say that there is not enough earnest work done in this most important branch of the soldier's duty. This I think is due to lack of proper range facilities with some of my companies and also to the professionalism that has to some extent prevailed in the teams at the annual matches at Mount Gretna.

Armory ranges for practice during the winter season are very important and four of my companies have now got armory ranges, and it is my desire to have the balance of the companies have them as soon as possible.

In closing, I desire to express my appreciation for the many courtesies extended to me by the General Commanding and his entire Staff. I am, sir,

Respectfully yours,

JOS. B. HUTCHISON,
Colonel 8th Infantry.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, NINTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Ninth Regiment Infantry,
Third Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., January 8, 1906.

Assistant Adjutant General, Third Brigade, N. G. P., Lebanon, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith the following report of the operations of the 9th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., for the year ending December 31, 1905.

The strength of the command, as shown by the quarterly returns on the dates named, was as follows:

	Field and staff officers.	Non-commissioned staff.	Band.	Hospital corps.	Line officers.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Musicians.	Privates.	Company cooks.	Total commissioned.	Total enlisted.	Aggregate.
December 31, 1904, ...	16	5	28	11	35	67	67	16	481	23	51	309	760
March 31, 1905,	16	7	28	12	36	66	64	14	452	23	52	677	729
June 30, 1905,	16	7	28	12	36	69	68	16	427	23	53	708	760
September 30, 1905, ...	16	7	28	12	36	72	70	17	463	24	53	704	756
December 31, 1905,	16	7	28	11	34	66	66	17	459	21	50	687	737

Companies A, B, D, E, F and K, in the commodious armory at Wilkes-Barre.
Company C, at Pittston, in a room over some stores, with very poor accommodations.

Company H, at Pittston, who have a company meeting room, but must pay extra for drill hall when the weather compels them to drill indoors.

Company I, at Plymouth, has a fairly good armory owned by the Company.

Company L, at Nanticoke, has a building which was erected for an armory, owned by private ownership.

Company G, at Hazleton, has a very good armory owned by private ownership.

Company M, at West Pittston, recently moved into a new armory built for them by some citizens of West Pittston, for which the company pays $450.00 per year rental.

The Ninth Regiment Armory at Wilkes-Barre, has during the year, through its Board of Trustees, wiped out a debt of $7,800.00, and put some improvements in the armory to the extent of about $4,000.00. This money was raised through the efforts of the Board of Trustees in this city, consisting of Major Irving A. Stearns, President, Col. Asher Miner, Col. William C. Price, Mr. John N. Conyngham and the Commanding Officer of the 9th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., in whose names the title to the property is vested.

The Regiment as a whole is doing fairly well. The personnel of the command is as high as it ever has been, and increased interest seems to be taken by the officers and men. While it is not always easy to obtain good recruits, still the companies are able to keep up to the minimum through the zealous efforts of the company commanders and the men themselves who aid in securing recruits.

The Ninth Regiment is somewhat handicapped in the obtaining of recruits by the existence in the immediate territory of two other independent regiments; one regiment known as the Catholic Total Abstinence Union Regiment, and the other the Jr. O. U. A. M. Regiment, both of which wear a similar uniform to that of the officers and enlisted men of the National Guard. These regiments are organized for social purposes, and are not as friendly to the National Guard as good citizens should be.

There have been but few changes in the personnel of the officers during the year.

The Field and Staff remain about the same, except that:

Battalion Adjutant Walter C. Sterling was promoted to Inspector of Rifle Practice vice Captain Frederick C. Bennett, resigned.

2nd Lieut. Chas. F. Feuerstein, late of Co. D, was appointed Battalion Adjutant, vice Walter C. Sterling, promoted. Mr. Feuerstein has recently been appointed a Lieutenant in the State Constabulary, but still remains on the rolls of the Field and Staff as an officer.

Batt. Sergt. Major Henry H. Pease was promoted to Battalion Adjutant.

Company B: Captain John A. Kenny was, at his own request, placed on the retired list October 5, 1905, and has been succeeded by First Lieut. Sterling E. W. Eyer, of Company E.

Company C: First Lieutenant William A. Francis was elected Captain of Company C to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the commission of Capt. Chas. S. Colony, April 30, 1905. Second Lieutenant Lansford G. Wildoner was promoted to First Lieutenant and Jacob A. Fleischer was elected Second Lieutenant.

Company D: Harry C. Smith was elected Second Lieutenant, succeeding Charles F. Feuerstein, whose commission expired.

Company H: Second Lieut. Charles A. Judge, Company H, was advanced to First Lieutenant to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of Lieut. Thos. F. English; and Sergeant John S. Callahan was elected Second Lieutenant of the Company.

Company K: Captain John Coolbaugh, Company K, resigned November 30, 1905.

No field service was performed by the Ninth Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., except the regular tour of duty at camp, held at Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 8th to 15th, inclusive, at which time the regiment participated in the practice march planned by General Gobin, one column being commanded by the Regimental Commander of the Ninth Regiment, N. G. P., report of which operations was duly forwarded to the Brigade Commander before leaving camp.

I desire to add to my opinion, and report at the time, that I believe the practice march as indulged in during the annual encampment was of very great benefit to the command. It was both interesting and instructive, and such a departure from the routine work as heretofore carried on at the annual encampments that it brought forth most favorable comment from both officers and men and did something to stir up interest, which for a long time seemed to be lacking.

In this connection I beg to embody as a part of my report, copy of a letter written to the Inspector General in answer to a telegram from him asking for information as to the result of said march:

"Col. Frank G. Sweeney, Inspector General, N. G. P., Chester Pa.:

"Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your telegram requesting information as to the result of the practice march during the tour of duty of the 3rd Brigade, Camp Capt. Lewis L. Roney, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July, 1905.

"A full report of the operation of the column under my command was forwarded to General Gobin before leaving camp. I have a copy of it, but I think it is at the house, and I tried to find it in order to get some data to furnish you. However, I will say this, that the command was very much benefited in a number of ways by the things which the officers and men were able to learn during the march.

"A practical lesson was given to both the Quartermaster and Commissary Department of the Regiment. In the 9th Regiment Infantry, a baggage train was organized under the command of the Quartermaster and the Regimental Commissary organized his department and cooked and fed the whole regiment, the company cooks all being under his immediate jurisdiction, so that the company commanders were relieved entirely from the duty of looking after the rations of the men. This worked out most satisfactorily, receiving the commendation of the Brigade Commander.

"Both officers and men were taught many things during the march and bivouac, which are most practical for a soldier to learn.

"The column operating, as in the presence of an enemy, were taught a most practical manner the real tactical demonstration of an advance and rear guard.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the weather was extremely hot on the first day, but few men fell out of the column, and my recollection is that it was only necessary to return to camp that night by railroad train ten men from the whole regiment.

"As far as I was able to learn, all the officers and men in my command were distinctly pleased with the operation, and I feel sure that it relieved, to a very great extent, the monotony of the week's encampment which has grown to be an old story to most officers and men.

"So far as this Regiment is concerned I feel confident in saying that the march, and its results, was successful and beneficial.

"All the details of the march were worked out, as far as the issuance of orders and the directions rendered necessary, under conditions of an army in a hostile country.

"I would suggest that you make application to General Gobin for the report of the different commanders, and my report in command of the column, which were fairly complete and covered the operations fairly well.

"I regret that I have not a copy of my report at hand, as I would be able to give you a more detailed account if I had it.

"However, I assume that my opinion on the matter is what you are after, and if I am correct in my assumption, I beg to say that I believe thoroughly in the army maneuvers if ground can be obtained for same.

"Very respectfully yours,

"(Signed) C. B. DOUGHERTY, Col. 9th Regt. Inf., N. G. P."

As is customary in this Regiment, Officers' Schools were held monthly in the Armory at Wilkes-Barre, at which time all the officers of the Regiment are gathered together for instruction.

A regular series of these schools were held as follows:

Thursday, January 5, 1905, Lieut. Col. McKee, instructor.

Thursday, January 11, 1905, Major Dewey, instructor.

Friday, January 20, 1905, Capt. Camp, instructor.

Tuesday, January 31, 1905, the Regimental Commander as instructor.

During the winter months, Battalion parades and drills were held, together with athletic events, to which an admission was charged, which events are invariably patronized very largely by the citizens of Wilkes-Barre.

The following is a report of the qualifications in this Regiment during the rifle practice season of 1905:

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, TWELFTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Twelfth Regiment Infantry,
Third Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Sunbury, Pa., December 30, 1905.

Assistant Adjutant General, Third Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Lebanon, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor, pursuant to the request of the Brigadier General commanding the Third Brigade, to submit the following report of the operations of this regiment for the year ending this day.

During the year the regiment has practically performed only the routine duty incident to armory drill, rifle practice and the summer encampment. The summer encampment being varied by two day's practice march occupying Monday and Tuesday of the encampment week.

On Monday, the objective of the columns was Bellaire. The Brigade was divided into two commands, and, by the direction of the Brigadier General commanding, I had the honor to command the second column composed of the Twelfth and Eighth Regiments, a portion each of the Governor's Troop and of Battery "C." A detailed report of the movements of this column was made by me immediately after the close of the encampment.

On Wednesday of the encampment week, the Brigade went through a detailed manoeuvre and this Regiment, in conjunction with the Ninth Regiment, both under command of Colonel Dougherty, was put in the defense of the hill beyond the rifle range, and after the completion of the manoeuvre, in conjunction with the other regiments, deployed across the entire length of the range in battle formation.

All of these movements have been fully treated of in my previous reports and I can only now say that, in my judgment, operations of this character are beneficial to the Guard.

I was honored with the command of the provisional regiment representing the Third Brigade at the Inauguration of President Roosevelt, which was composed of a Battalion of four companies each from the Fourth, Eighth and Twelfth Regiments, and I desire to express my heartfelt appreciation of the soldierly conduct of all the officers and men comprising this provisional regiment. It was a most pleasant tour and thoroughly enjoyed.

During the year, the following changes took place in the Field and Staff:

Second Lieutenant Walker W. Duffield, of Company I, was appointed Battalion Adjutant, vice Hubert H. Russell to retired list in 1904, and Cameron Schultz was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the Medical Department and detailed to this regiment, at my request, vice Edward Lyon, commission expired.

Non-Commissioned Staff: M. W. Clement was appointed Regimental Sergeant Major, vice Samuel B. Wolfe to Second Lieutenant, Company A.

Samuel Creighton was appointed Commissary Sergeant, vice E. S. Adams, honorably discharged.

J. C. Brown was appointed Battalion Sergeant Major, vice Samuel Creighton, promoted; and Robert M. Auten was appointed Battalion Sergeant Major, vice M. W. Clement, promoted.

In the line of the regiment the following changes took place:

Company A, Second Lieutenant Thompson H. Morrow elected First Lieutenant, vice Wallace W. Fetzer to Captain Company E; and Samuel B. Wolfe elected Second Lieutenant.

Company C, William H. Straub elected Captain, vice Joseph D. Nicholas, resigned.

Company E, First Lieutenant Wallace W. Fetzer, Company A, elected Captain, vice Lucian H. Guyon, resigned.

Company G, First Lieutenant A. S. Weiss elected Captain, vice George Foreman, resigned, and J. Howard Knapp elected First Lieutenant, vice Weiss promoted; John Clayton White elected Second Lieutenant, vice Clark, resigned.

Company I, First Sergeant Clarence R. McMurray, elected Second Lieutenant, vice Duffield to Battalion Adjutant.

Conformably to the new drill regulations and the customs of the regular service, the Battalions of the Regiment were rearranged. By this arrangement the First Battalion is composed of four companies instead of three as heretofore, and as the Company Commanders change in rank, they will rotate from one Battalion to another. This, in my judgment, will promote the true regimental spirit better than the territorial regiment of the Battalion heretofore in force in the Regiment.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

C. M. CLEMENT,
Colonel.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, THIRTEENTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, 1905.

Headquarters Thirteenth Infantry, N. G. P.,
Scranton, December 30, 1905.

The Assistant Adjutant General, Third Brigade, N. G. P., Lebanon:

Sir: I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of this regiment for the year 1905.

At the beginning of the year the study of the new drill regulations was seriously undertaken; school for officers and non-commissioned officers established and well attended. This course of study greatly benefitted officers and enlisted men, and the regiment went into camp in better condition than it had for several years past.

The ratings sent out by the Inspector General after the Summer inspection were disappointing. It seems unfair to publish broad-cast a lot of misleading figures about a few things such as guard duty, discipline, condition of clothing, rifles and books and papers, and call the total the figure of efficiency of the different organizations. As a matter of fact it is nothing of the kind. For instance, marksmanship, the one indispensable part of a soldier's training, is not taken into consideration in determining the relative merits of the different regiments. Certainly in time of war, a soldier's ability to kill his man is paramount in determining his efficiency. The present system of rating has a tendency to make us try to find out what the inspectors want, and then give it to them so as to appear well in the public eye, instead of trying to make our regiments really efficient all the year around.

In marksmanship this regiment made a better record than ever before; the regimental figure of merit being 94.19. We had only twenty-four fourth classmen, and practically all these were men who had left the regiment after the rifle practice season opened, but before their company ranges could be opened. with a more liberal appropriation for range purposes we can no doubt do much better.

Since the opening of the present drill season the attendance in some of the companies has been very unsatisfactory. While the attendance largely depends upon the energy and tact of the company commanders, I believe this question will never be satisfactorily settled until the men are paid for their services.

During the year several officers have resigned, some by request, and in every case their successors in office are more efficient.

The condition of Co. G, continues to be very unsatisfactory. The captain was dismissed by the Commander-in-Chief; the first lieutenant resigned preparatory to leaving Montrose, and the second lieutenant is in command. If this company is not mustered out before the spring inspection and the regimental rating suffers by their retention. I am afraid the enthusiasm of the other companies will receive a severe set-back.

Recruiting goes on steadily, but slowly. The highly colored stories of hardship on the practice march are supposed to be partly responsible for this condition. Probably a better reason is the growing interest taken in the independent military organizations formed in this vicinity. Parts of two co-called regiments are now organized in this valley, and something should at once be done to at least prevent them from wearing our uniform. One of these organizations located in Scranton (according to their published reports) has grown from sixty to over six hundred members in the last year. Another reason for lack of recruits is the growing tendency of employers to discourage their young men from enlisting as it may at any time take them away from their work.

The personnel of the regiment, officers and enlisted men, is better than at any time since the Spanish-American War, and we are gaining in efficiency.

Very respectfully,

F. M. STILLWELL,
Colonel.

REPORT OF COMMANDING OFFICER, GOVERNOR'S TROOP.

Armory, Governor's Troop, Third Brigade, N. G. P.,
Harrisburg, Pa., December 18, 1905.

Brigadier General J. P. S. Gobin, Commanding Third Brigade, N. G. P.:

Sir: Pursuant to your order dated the fifteenth instant, I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of my command for the year ending December 31, 1905.

The period from December 31, 1904, to March 24, 1905, was spent in the usual routine armory drills, necessarily all of the work being dismounted on account of lack of proper armory facilities. Upon the latter date, the annual spring inspection was made by Lieutenant Colonel John P. Penney, Division Inspector, accompanied by Major F. P. Fremont, U. S. A.

During June and July, two mounted drills were held, combined with practice marches, ten or twelve miles being covered. These afforded the only mounted exercises which could be given to the command as a preparation for the annual encampment. The Brigade encamped at Mount Gretna, Lebanon county, July 8 to 15, inclusive; the Troop, as has always been the custom, proceeding to camp and returning mounted. The march was made in heavy marching order, except that the woolen blankets were shipped by rail, and the overcoats were not taken to camp, in view of the season. The march was made at the rate of something over three and three quarters miles an hour, including in the computation of time all halts upon the road, but not the long halt of about two hours and a half at noon, when the horses were unsaddled, rubbed down and fed. The distance from Harrisburg to Mount Gretna is called twenty-eight miles by railroad. The route generally taken by the Troop, and which was taken on this occasion, lies through Oberlin, Round Top Mill, Deodate, Lawn and Colebrook, and is about midway between the Reading and the Lancaster turnpikes, and while somewhat more hilly than either of the other two routes, is much better adapted to cavalry marching, on account of the frequency of watering troughs with running spring water, and the fact that the roads are not piked. The march to camp was a valuable preparation for the practice marches of the Brigade which took place on Monday and Tuesday following. The men entered into the spirit of these exercises fully, and we had no casualties from heat or otherwise. While the fact that the movements were necessarily almost entirely confined to the public roads that interfered greatly with the proper performance of advance guard and outpost duty, the novelty of the movements interested the men, and I think the command was benefitted by them.

The command had five officers and forty-nine enlisted men present at camp; two enlisted men were absent with leave, and one enlisted man absent without leave; he has since been tried and convicted for this and other offenses by an unassigned company court martial.

Since the encampment, the usual weekly drills have been held, without any formal recess during the summer, but with very poor attendance until fall, since which time it has improved materially, and is now very good, considering the fact that quite a number of the men are employed at night, and cannot get off for every drill without jeopardizing their employment.

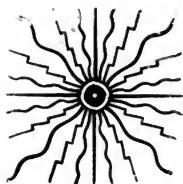

The command has been paraded mounted twice since the encampment, at Harrisburg, on October 2 and 3, taking part in the parades and ceremonies incident to the celebration of "Old Home Week;" acting as escort to the Commander-in-Chief upon the first day above mentioned.

The command now numbers five officers and fifty-four enlisted men, and is in good condition in all respects but armory facilities. Frequent reference has been made to our condition in this respect by inspecting officers in their published reports, setting forth our needs in this respect very fully. The drill hall is too small for any but very simple movements dismounted and is upon the third story of the Russ Building, Market Square, Harrisburg. The lockers for arms and equipments are upon the gallery of the hall, and are exposed to danger from interference by other renters; having several times been broken open during balls. The rooms for the quartermaster, company meetings and officers' use are all crowded into a space of about forty by fifteen feet, and are entirely inadequate for the proper storing and arrangement of State property. All mounted instruction has to be theoretical, except for the few mounted troop drills which we are able to have during the summer season. These do not supply the need of elementary instruction and practice in horsemanship. With a proper riding hall, such instruction could be given to squads during the entire year, using only a small number of horses at each drill, as the nature of the work would easily permit the use of the same horses by several sets of men during the same evening without improper treatment of the horses; each horse would be doing in such case much less work than he would be called upon to do in any ordinary troop drill, and the work would all be done at a slow gait. This method of individual instruction would make it unimportant whether the troop as a whole drilled in the open or not before camp, as the entire success of the movements of the command depends upon the knowledge of the individual at any rate. I am aware, that the above remarks upon the armory question do not come strictly within the scope of your order calling upon me for a report, but the subject of armories for the different commands is now before the proper commission, and our need of one is so great, that I hope the digression will be pardoned. The want of a proper armory is so intimately connected with the condition of this command, that it is almost impossible to speak of the one without referring to the other.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERIC M. OTT,
Captain.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Adjutant General's Office,
Harrisburg, Pa., January 6, 1905.

General Orders,
No. 1.

The following circular is published for the information and guidance of the National Guard and Naval Force of Pennsylvania:

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Office of Inspector General,
Chester, Pa., January 6, 1905.

Circular,
No. 1.

In pursuance of General Orders No. 36, A. G. O., series 1904, the several organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will be inspected in their respective armories at such dates, between February 1st and May 1st, 1905, as shall be designated by the Brigade Commanders. The dates for the Cavalry and Artillery should be so arranged as not to occur on the same nights or conflict with the schedule made for the Infantry organizations, in order that it may be possible for the United States Army details to be present at all of the inspections.

The Artillery will be inspected by the Chief of Ordnance; the Cavalry by the Division Inspector; and the Infantry by the Brigade Inspectors.

As soon as dates have been assigned to the different commands, copies of such assignments or orders will be sent to the Adjutant General and the Inspector General for their information.

At these inspections the organizations will be paraded by battery, troop and company, in State uniform (blue), light marching order, without leggins. All officers will appear in dress uniform as prescribed and directed in General Orders Nos. 30 and 39, A. G. O., series 1903.

State property of every description will be conveniently arranged for inspection by the Inspecting Officers.

The inspections as to knowledge of duties for companies of Infantry will include School of the Soldier, School of the Squad, and Guard Duty. Ratings will also be made upon discipline, arms, equipment, clothing, books and papers. The latter will also be applicable to the Cavalry and Artillery.

The troops of cavalry will be inspected dismounted in the School of the Soldier, School of the Troop and Guard Duty.

The batteries of artillery (dismounted) will be inspected in the School of the Soldier, School of the Cannoneer, School of the Battery and Guard Duty.

Officers and non-commissioned officers of all organizations will be examined by the Inspectors as to their general efficiency and knowledge of their respective duties, (see paragraph X, General Orders No. 36, A. G. O., series 1904).

In the future the efficiency of an organization will be determined by the "Percentage of Attendance" at inspection and the "General Average," in the ratio of three to seven, for example, if a command receives 95 in "Percentage of Attendance," and 90 for "General Average," by multiplying the "Percentage of Attendance" by three, and the "General Average" by seven, the sum of the products, divided by ten, will give the figure of efficiency, namely, 91.50. The "Percentage of Attendance" will be based upon the officers and men actually in attendance at inspection, with the exception that officers and men will be counted as present who are too ill to report for duty, provided a certificate from the Surgeon or Assistant Surgeon on duty with the Regiment, or a physician's certificate, approved by a Surgeon in the service of the State, defining such illness, be furnished by the commanding officer at inspection, no allowance being made for officers and men absent on leave or furlough. A command parading the minimum strength, (as provided by the State Code), will be allowed one hundred per cent. for attendance.

Attention is invited to the various requirements contained in General Orders No. 36, A. G. O., series 1904, and inspectors will see that same are complied with.

The Naval Force of Pennsylvania will be inspected by the Inspector General. Dates and details to be arranged with the Battalion Commander.

Inspectors will forward their reports so as to reach this office not later than May 15, 1905.

FRANK G. SWEENEY,
Inspector General.

By order of SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.
THOMAS J. STEWART,

THOMAS J. STEWART,
Adjutant General.

Headquarters National Guard of Penn'a,
Adjutant General's Office,
Harrisburg, Pa., March 27, 1905.

General Orders,
No. 5.

The following circular is published for the information and guidance of the National Guard:

Office of the General Inspector of Rifle Practice, 237 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., March 25, 1905.

Circular,
No. 1.

The current season for rifle practice will open May 1, 1905, and will close September 30, 1905.

Practice with the United States Magazine rifle, caliber .30, will be required of every officer and enlisted man in the infantry arm of the service, and the Naval Force of Pennsylvania, except Regimental Bands and Hospital Corps, and with the carbine and revolver for the cavalry arm of the service. Officers and enlisted men in batteries will practice with the revolver, and may qualify with the United States Magazine rifle or carbine. Members of Regimental Bands and Hospital Corps will be permitted to qualify with the magazine rifle, caliber .30, and to those qualifying, decorations will be issued. General officers and officers of General Staff may qualify with either the rifle or revolver, or both. Field, staff and line officers of regiments of infantry, and non-commissioned staff officers of General Staff and of regiments of infantry, may qualify with the revolver.

Commissioned officers of the Retired List of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will be permitted to qualify with either rifle or revolver, or both; each officer to provide his own ammunition. When a qualification score is made under the rules governing rifle and revolver qualifications, and the same is properly certified to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice, Colonel Frank K. Patterson, No. 237 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., proper decorations will be issued. Score sheets of officers of the Retired List will be forwarded to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

An allowance of $100.00 for maintenance of ranges will be made to each company of infantry and troop of cavalry that practices 55 officers and men; to each battery of artillery that practices 72 officers and men; and to each division of the Naval Force of Pennsylvania that practices 47 officers and men, and where a less number have practiced, the commutation will be reduced in proportion. Company officers should become proficient with the use of the rifle themselves so that they can impart instruction to the enlisted men, and will see that every man in their command is thoroughly instructed in the use and care of the rifle, and that no man be permitted to go upon the range until he understands the mechanism of his rifle and is competent to care for and use it properly. Men must not be permitted to go upon the range for practice until they have been properly instructed in sighting, position and aiming drills, using the methods and rules prescribed in the new firing regulations of the U. S. Army as far as they apply. Unless men have been so instructed it is extremely dangerous to have them fire over the range, and officers permitting uninstructed men to go upon the range, will be held to a strict accountability. Men uninstructed cannot qualify as marksmen, and merely use ammunition to no purpose.

Ranges.

Commanding officers must inspect the range before the opening of the season, and from time to time during the season; see that it is properly equipped, that proper protection is provided for the men and the markers at the butts, and that every possible precaution is taken to prevent accidents. They will also verify the distances, and have the firing points accurately and distinctly marked.

Targets.

The "A," "B," "C," and "G" targets will be furnished to those requiring them on requisition to the Adjutant General. Black circular bull's-eye targets will be used. Target "G" will be furnished for qualification as sharpshooter instead of Targets "D" and "E," and requisition will only be made for Target "G" when the officer or enlisted man qualifying has reached that stage in qualification where the skirmish run is necessary to complete his scores for classification as sharpshooter. The requisition must state name of officer or soldier who has made the score and give score warranting the skirmish run.

Definitions.

Scores.—Groups of five consecutive shots, exclusive of sighting shots, fired in practice with the rifle or carbine at the bull's eye and disappearing targets, and with the pistol at dismounted practice.

Target "A."—The short-range target, used for 200 and 300 yards, and for dismounted pistol practice, is a rectangle 6 feet high by 4 feet wide; black circular bull's-eye, 8 inches diameter, value of hit, 5; center ring, 26 inches diameter, value of hit, 4; inner ring, 46 inches diameter, value of hit, 3; outer, remainder of target, value of hit, 2. A ricochet has the same value as a direct hit.

Target "B."—The mid-range target, used for 500 and 600 yards, is a square 6 feet on a side; black circular bull's-eye, 20 inches diameter; center ring, 37 inches diameter; inner ring, 53 inches diameter; outer, remainder target. Value of hits same as on Target "A."

Target "C."—The long-range target, used for 800 and 1,000 yards, is a rectangle 6 feet high and 12 feet wide; circular bull's-eye, 36 inches diameter; center ring, 54 inches diameter; inner space outside of center ring bounded by vertical lines 3 feet from each end of target; outer, remainder of target. Value of hits same as on Target "A."

Target "D" and "E."—Skirmish targets. These are steel skeleton frames, representing the outline of a soldier in firing position—kneeling and lying, respectively—covered with cloth and with black paper, cut as silhouettes to the shape of the frames.

Target "G."—Group skirmish target. Composed of the two figure targets "D" and "E" placed in line, forming a group, the kneeling figure on the military right, the distance between the centers of figures being one yard. Value of hits, direct or ricochet, on lying figure, 5; on kneeling figure, 4. Hits on or within the steel frame, only, count.

Classification.

The class in firing to which any officer or soldier belongs will be determined at the end of the practice season from the aggregate of the total of the best two full scores of five shots each (scores not necessarily consecutive) that he had made on the range, as follows:

Fourth Class,...All who have not fired or practiced. All who having fired or practiced have failed to qualify as third classmen.

Third Class,...All who practice, and who in two scores of five shots each, exclusive of sighting shots, score at least 15 out of a possible 50, and who after making 15 or more, at 200 yards, shall in two scores of five shots each at 300 yards and two scores of five shots each at 500 yards, make enough in addition to the score of 15 or more at 200 yards to make an aggregate of 45, out of a possible 150, at the three ranges.

Note.—The making of 15 at the 200 yard range is obligatory.

Second Class,...All who having fired two or more scores at 200, 300, and 500 yards, and from the best two have made a total of 67 out of a possible 150.

First Class,....All who have fired two or more full scores at 200, 300, and 500 yards, and from the best two have made a total of 83 out of a possible 150.

Marksmen,....All who have fired two or more full scores at 200, 300, and 500 yards, and from the best two have made a total of 98 out of a possible 150.

Sharpshooters,...All who have fired two or more full scores at 200, 300, 500, and 600 yards, and from the best two in each range have made a total of 160; and have fired two or more full scores, timed fire, at 200 yards, (30 second firing interval in each score), and in the best two have made a total of 25; and have made one skirmish run of 20 shots, advancing from 600 to 200 yards; the total of all scores being not less than 235.

Note.—No man can qualify as a Sharpshooter until he has first made a score of at least 120 as a marksman and in qualifying as a Sharpshooter he must make a score of at least 40 in slow fire at 600 yards, and a score of at least 25 in timed fire at 200 yards. There is no fixed score for the skirmish run, but the points made in the skirmish run added to the scores previously made at all ranges must aggregate at least 235.

Experts, All who have made the necessary total to qualify as sharpshooters and have fired two or more full scores at 800 and 1,000 yards, and from the best two have made a total of 40 at 800, and 35 at 1,000 yards.

Note.—No man can qualify as an Expert until he has first qualified as a Sharpshooter with a minimum score of 235, made in accordance with the requirements as stated above in addition to which he must make a score of at least 40 at 800 yards, and at least 35 at 1,000 yards, (the carbine is given a handicap of two points at the 800 yard range and two points at the 1,000 yard range.)

(Note.—Consult explanatory table published herewith as an appendix and made part of this General Order.)

There will be company, regimental and State figures of merit. The Company figure of merit will be computed by multiplying the number of expert riflemen by 200; of sharpshooters by 150; of marksmen by 100; of first classmen by 75; of second classmen by 50; of third classmen by 10; of fourth classmen by 0.

Example.

2 experts,	200	400
5 sharpshooters,	150	750
4 marksmen,	100	400
15 first classmen,	75	1,125
15 second classmen,	50	750
17 third classmen,	10	170

The Regimental Headquarters figure of merit will be computed by multiplying as in the case of a company, and dividing by the number of officers and men comprising the Field, Staff (including Surgeons) and non-commissioned staff. Members of Regimental Band or Hospital Corps qualifying, will be reported on Return of Scores, but not included in calculation to determine figure of merit.

The State figure of merit will be the combined figures of merit of all organizations, divided by the number of organizations.

Revolver Practice.

The .38 caliber Double Action Colt's Revolver is the adopted regulation revolver for commissioned officers, non-commissioned staff officers, and for the artillery and cavalry arms of the service. (See General Orders No. 11, A. G. O., series 1897). Officers are urged to procure a revolver and familiarize themselves with the weapon, and to qualify as marksmen.

For qualifying with the revolver, five consecutive shots are allowed at 25 yards, five at 50 yards, and five at 75 yards, off hand, without artificial rest, at the "A" target, (See definitions) and in order to qualify as a marksman, a score of 50 or more must be made. Those qualifying as marksmen with revolver may re-enter to qualify as Expert.

As time is an important element in revolver practice, an officer or enlisted man who can make the qualifying score firing the five shots at each range within ten seconds will have qualified as an "Expert."

If each score of five shots has been fired within ten seconds a certificate of the fact will be endorsed on the back of the score sheet and signed by both the marksman and the scorer.

Every qualifying score with the revolver will be recorded on a separate official sheet certified to by the marksman himself and the scorer, and filed with the Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice, or commanding officer of battery of artillery or troop of cavalry, within two weeks after the score is made.

The Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice or commanding officer of battery of artillery or troop of cavalry will make a return of all revolver qualification scores of those entitled to qualify in the regiment, battery or troop, on a company return blank, and forward the same through intermediate headquarters to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice with the other returns.

Officers will be required to furnish their own ammunition for revolver practice, and should purchase with care as all .38 caliber cartridges are not adapted to Colt's .38 caliber revolvers.

Ammunition will be issued from the State Arsenal for revolver practice or qualification at the rate of $10.00 per thousand in lots of not less than 100 rounds. Money for same must accompany requisition.

Requisitions for decorations will be forwarded with the returns.

The "New Army Double Action Colt's Revolver, 6 inch barrel, model of 1894, .38 caliber, central fire," has been adopted for the National Guard of Pennsylvania. The Smith & Wesson New Army D. A. .38 caliber revolver will be permitted to be used in qualifying.

Records and Returns.

Score sheets will be issued by the Adjutant General upon requisition, which may be sent direct. Every score shot, to be considered and computed in arranging classification, must be recorded on a score sheet giving full name and rank of officer or enlisted man and date on which score was made, must be retained by the commanding officer until the close of the Rifle Practice season, and must be entered in a blotter or scratch record book to be provided by the commanding officer. In the blotter or scratch book must be entered every shot fired over the range by members of company, giving name, distance shot and date of practice. At the close of the season the qualifying score will be selected from the scores made and filed during the season, and score sheets of the scores that make up the qualifying score will be forwarded to the Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice, and the qualifying score only will be entered in the Company Record Book, furnished in 1904 from the Adjutant General's Office. The Company Record Book must be promptly written up at close of season and submitted with other company books for inspection at camp.

Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice will record on all score sheets date when received, and if found to be correct, enter same in Regimental Rifle Practice Record Book, and forward score sheets to Brigade Ordnance Officer for filing at Brigade Headquarters.

Scores shot on the 200, 300, and 500 yard ranges must be signed by a commissioned or non-commissioned officer, who witnessed the score, and knew it to be made in accordance with existing regulations. If such score is certified to by a non-commissioned officer, it must be approved by an officer before being forwarded.

Scores shot on the 600 yard range must be signed by an officer who witnessed the shooting and certifies to correctness of score. The firing at the 800 and 1,000 yard range will be conducted by an officer and in accordance with regulation governing qualifications. Only ink or indelible pencil will be used in filling up and signing score sheets.

The Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice and the commanders of troops of cavalry, batteries of artillery, and Naval Force of Pennsylvania, will make their returns to the General Inspector of Rifle Practice through the regular channels within thirty days after the close of the rifle practice season. Company commanders must forward their returns within fifteen days after the close of the season. These returns must also be certified to as required by the blank form.

The following requirements must be strictly adhered to in making up return of scores:

First. Every officer and enlisted man who has been or is a member of the Company during the Rifle Practice season, whether he qualified, or practiced but failed to qualify, or did not practice, must be accounted for. The aggregate of each string of five shots in a qualifying score, except the skirmish run, must be given, as indicated by the blank form. Where men have practiced and failed to hit the target, the figure naught (0) will be used. Where men failed to practice nothing should be inserted in the space for score, but in the column of remarks it should be stated "failed to practice."

Second. Where men are transferred from one command to another, or from Company to Headquarters, such men will only be accounted for, classified, and be calculated in the figure of merit in the command in which they are serving at the close of the season, and in column of remarks it should be shown from what command they were transferred. The names of all men lost by transfer during a Rifle Practice Season will be reported under a separate heading on the Return of Scores, but will not be classified nor included in making up the figure of merit. In column of remarks the date of transfer should be given, and to what command.

Third. Where commissions of officers or enlistment of men expire during the Rifle Practice season, it should be noted in column of remarks, and in the event of an officer being re-commissioned, or enlisted man re-enlisting, that fact should also be stated.

Annual Team Matches.

The team competitions for Brigade, Regimental and Troop trophies presented by the State, and for the McClellan Skirmish Trophy, will be held at Mount Gretna, from August 7th to August 12th inclusive. Further information will be given in future orders.

A new team of twelve men and three reserves to represent the State in the National Match to be held at Sea Girt, New Jersey, beginning August 24, 1905, will be selected by the General Inspector of Rifle Practice. The selection will not necessarily be confined to members of teams in competition at Annual Team Matches.

Ammunition.

For the season of 1905 the maximum fixed ammunition for target practice to be issued to companies of infantry without charge will be five thousand rounds, and of blank cartridges, five hundred rounds. Three thousand rounds of fixed ammunition will be forwarded for each company at the opening of the season without requisition.

Requisition for additional ammunition will be made direct on special form furnished from the Adjutant General's office when the three thousand rounds furnished at opening of season are expended, each requisition to be for one thousand rounds and when made it must be accompanied by the following certificate:

Armory, Regiment, N. G. of Pa.,
....., 1905.

I certify upon honor, that the above requisition is necessary, that the ammunition heretofore issued has been judiciously expended, and that to this date, men have practiced upon the range in accordance with existing regulations governing rifle practice.

.....
Captain Co., Reg't., N. G. P.

For season of 1905 the maximum of fixed ammunition for revolver target practice to be issued without charge to batteries of artillery will be 8,000 rounds of .38 caliber revolver ammunition; 3,000 rounds will be forwarded at the opening of the season without requisition.

To each troop of cavalry will be issued without charge 8,000 rounds of .38 caliber revolver ammunition, and 5,000 rounds of .30 caliber carbine ammunition; 3,000 rounds of each will be forwarded at the opening of the season without requisition.

Requisition for ammunition in addition to original issue will be made for lots of 1,000 rounds, the requisition to be sent direct and to be accompanied by certificate as required in companies of infantry.

At the opening of the season 1,000 rounds of caliber .30 ammunition, and 500 rounds of caliber .38 ammunition (revolver) will be furnished without requisition to Division Headquarters, each Brigade Headquarters, and each Regimental Headquarters.

Decorations.

Decorations will be issued in accordance with the schedule of classification as follows:

A bronze medal with bar attached (medal same as now worn), will be given for the first year's qualification, to marksmen of all grades except third classmen and fourth classmen.

For each of the three years succeeding the first year, bars to be attached to medal and bar issued for first year, will be issued as follows:

A bronze bar for qualification as marksman, first classman or second classman.

A silver bar for qualification as a sharpshooter.

A gold bar for qualification as an expert.

A silver keystone with oval pendant attached will be issued for the fifth year of qualification, and for each succeeding year of qualification an oval metal pendant will be issued, to be attached to the keystone, showing grade of marksman, and to show in figure the year of qualification, viz:

A gold pendant for expert, a silver pendant enamelled in red for sharpshooter, in blue for marksman, in black for first classman, and a bronze pendant for second classman.

For the tenth consecutive year of qualification a decoration of special design, with oval metal pendant attached, will be issued according to the classification of the marksman in the tenth consecutive year. For each subsequent year an oval metal pendant will be issued of plain metal or enamelled, according to score made, and with figure indicating the year of qualification, viz:

For an expert, a decoration of gold enamelled in white, with gold pendant attached.

For sharpshooter, a decoration of gold and silver enamelled in red, with silver pendant enamelled in red.

For a marksman, a decoration of gold and bronze enamelled in blue, with silver pendant enamelled in blue.

For a first classman, a decoration of gold and bronze enamelled in black, with silver pendant enamelled in black.

For a second classman, a decoration of gold and bronze, with bronze pendant attached.

In addition to the decorations named above, any officer or enlisted man who shall qualify as an expert will be given for the first year of such qualification a special decoration, consisting of a silver cross suspended from a silver bar. But one issue of this decoration will be made in any case, and only for the first year of qualification as an expert.

Decorations for qualifications with the revolver will be issued as heretofore.

Continuity of Qualification.

No decorations are issued to third classmen. The non-issuance of decorations will, however, not interfere with continuity of qualification, but postpone the issue of decorations each year that the soldier qualifies as third classman. Example:

"A" qualifies in 1902 as a marksman for the eighth consecutive year; in 1903 as first classman and for the ninth consecutive year; in 1904 as a third classman and for the tenth consecutive year. Had he qualified in 1904 higher than third classman he would have received decorations for tenth year. He receives no decoration as third classman. If he qualifies in 1905 better than third classman he will then receive a ten-year decoration.

Colonel and General Inspector of Rifle Practice.

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

*Batteries not required to practice with rifle or carbine.

NOTES.—1. The Returns made by the several organizations have been carefully examined and corrected in the Adjutant General's Office, and are correct. The large number of Fourth-class men as compared with the previous year is accounted for by the following facts:

First, All men who were members of the organization during the Rifle Practice Season (April 1st to October 31st), and discharged therefrom for any cause, and had failed to practice, were included as Fourth-class men. All officers and men who were members of companies during the Rifle Practice season were required to practice.

Second, Many of the organizations located in populous centers are unable to secure convenient or satisfactory ranges, and in some instances can only secure the use of the ranges for a few days during the season.

Third, Some companies from various causes became somewhat disorganized and had to be reorganized, thus causing discharge of men who had failed to practice, and enlistment of new recruits who did not have opportunity to practice.

Fourth, The careful and exacting supervision given the Returns and reports has resulted in an accounting for every man, and thus increases the total number beyond that of one year ago to the extent of 2,170.

2. Regimental Bands and Hospital Corps are not required to practice or qualify, but are permitted to do so, and in cases where members qualify, decorations are awarded. The number of men in the bands and hospital corps has increased but not to the extent of the increase in the Rifle Practice season.

3. Considering the large number of men accounted for in this report, and most of whom are in the Fourth-class, while the Figure of Merit is lower than the previous year, yet there is evidenced a greater proficiency in the year 1904 than 1903—the higher grades of marksmanship are better.

The following "Construction of Cavalry Drill Regulations," as published in circular No. 22, War Department, Washington, D. C., April 29, 1905, is hereby published for the information and guidance of the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

Construction of Cavalry Drill Regulations.

Construction of Cavalry Drill Regulations.—Paragraph 12. This paragraph does not specifically require the pieces to be brought to the order when the men execute, 1. IN PLACE; 2. HALT; but in view of the fact that the Infantry Drill Regulations (1904) will probably ultimately be made to apply to cavalry drill (dismounted) with the new rifle, the analogy of paragraph 54 (10th), Infantry Drill Regulations, should be followed in this movement, and the pieces be brought to order arms.

Paragraph 123. As the inspector approaches the right of the squad, the entire squad should execute inspection pistol.

Paragraph 375. When the trooper is dismounted, the carbine should never be in the scabbard, on account of the liability of the horse pulling away or rolling.

The paragraph is construed to mean that when dismounted the trooper should never have his carbine in the scabbard except at the preparatory command for mounting.

Paragraph 382. The "ready" referred to in this paragraph is the position described in paragraph 92, when the trooper is dismounted, and not the "ready" described in paragraph 379.

Paragraphs prescribing posts of the group leaders in extended order cavalry drill, mounted.

While allowing great latitude to the necessary movements of the squad leader, the Cavalry Drill Regulations contemplate different normal positions for the squad leader when (1) the squad is acting alone, and (2) when it is acting in conjunction with other squads under a platoon or troop commander.

1. When acting alone.—The squad leader in leading his squad into position or when about to give commands to that effect is (paragraphs 412, 494, 500) two yards in front of the guide, but (paragraph 496) he may merely announce the guide and indicate the point of direction if he does not desire the squad to follow him. In deployments the squad leader (the instructor) superintends the deployment from the rear (paragraph 501), and when halted takes post two yards in rear of the center.

2. When the squad is acting with other squads of a platoon or troop.—Except when deployed as skirmishers, the group leaders (paragraph 656) take post as in close order, but may take such position as will best enable them to direct their groups. Upon deployment of the squad, each leader (paragraph 667) takes his place in line of skirmishers. The Cavalry Drill Regulations contemplate that even when (2) acting in conjunction with other squads, the squad leader shall take the positions described in (1) whenever his squad becomes so isolated from control of higher authority as to be practically acting alone and therefore requiring leadership.

Paragraphs 512 and 19. The rally dismounted should be executed as prescribed in paragraph 512, modified by paragraph 19, except that being armed with the carbine (with no bayonet) the troopers should come to the "ready" after rallying on their leader. (See paragraph 155, Infantry Drill Regulations.)

Paragraphs 570 and 571. The squad leaders should salute the first sergeant. The first sergeant does not return the salutes.

Paragraph 599. The chiefs of platoon go to the flank to dress their respective platoons only when considered necessary; ordinarily they command "front" from their posts in front of their platoons, as soon as the latter appear dressed.

Paragraph 629. The chief of the base platoon should dress his platoon toward the point of rest.

Paragraph 687. The provisions of this paragraph are intended to be followed whether the right or left be in front.

Paragraph 689. The re-formation of deployed units is "in line" at the command, 1, Assemble; 2, MARCH, and the formation in column of fours is only executed at the command, 1, In column of fours; 2, Assemble; 3, MARCH.

Paragraph 770. The squadron being in line of platoon columns, to close in mass without gaining ground to the front, the major would command: 1, Fours right (or left). 2, MARCH. 1, Close column. 2, MARCH. When closed to nine yards distance the major wheels the squadron by fours to the left (or right) into line of platoon columns at close intervals.

Paragraph 796. The movement described in this paragraph, with the squadron in mass should never be initiated by an interior troop except in case of emergency; and by flank troops, the deployment of skirmishers should be so ordered as to oblique away from the squadron: 1. As skirmishers. 2. On first troop. 3. Guide left. 4. MARCH, or 1. As skirmishers. 2. On fourth troop. 3. Guide right. 4. MARCH.

Paragraph 800. Being in double columns of fours with normal interval (paragraph 773), execution of the command 1. Line of platoons or squads. 2. MARCH, will leave an interval between the leading (base) platoons (or squads) of but eight yards; but on subsequent announcement of the guide by the major, this interval should be gradually corrected to the normal interval between groups of platoons or squads. Attention is invited to paragraph 773, last paragraph, which gives the major authority to extend or reduce the interval in double column, before the deployment.

Paragraph 802. The squadron should be formed in its normal order, or in such formation as the major may direct.

Paragraph 833. When acting alone the squad, platoon, or troop commander (instructor) cautions: By rushes (or by creeping) as directed in paragraph 530. He then adds 1. Forward. 2. RUSH, or 1. Forward. 2. CREEP. If the squad, platoon, or troop is acting in connection with like organizations, its commander prefixes to the command Forward, etc., the designation of the squad, platoon, or troop, such as "First Squad," "Third Troop," etc.

The word MARCH is not used, as it is intended that the movement begin at the instant of the delivery of the volley by adjoining units.

In fourth paragraph, third line, the word forward should have been printed in italics, not in small caps. The command "3. RUSH" is the command of execution, given at the instant of delivery of the first volley.

Page 407, plate 130. That part of the plate showing the position of the regimental staff is wrong; the position as prescribed in the text (paragraph 1044) is correct. There being no longer any "regimental non-commissioned officers," reference to them in paragraph 1044 should be omitted.— (Decision of the Chief of Staff, April 14, 1905.)

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

The Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

Sir: I am instructed by the Secretary of War to request that you forward to this office, for the consideration of the Department, as soon as practicable, and not later than June 1st, next, the names of such officers of the organized militia of your State as you may recommend for admission to the army service schools for the coming term, under the provisions of section 16 of the Militia Act of January 21, 1903.

The schools to which it will be practicable to admit officers of the militia this year are:

The Army Medical School, Washington.

The Infantry and Cavalry School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

And Garrison schools at the posts designated in War Department Circular, No. 26, June 28, 1904.

The regulations prescribed by the President to govern the admission of militia officers as published in War Department General Orders, No. 115, of last year will soon be republished with some minor modifications for the information of all concerned. General Orders,
No. 16.

I. In compliance with instructions in General Orders No. 7, A. G. O., c. s., the respective Brigade Commanders have designated locations for Brigade Encampments in the month of July, 1905, as follows:

First Brigade at Perkasio, Bucks county, July 8th to 15th, inclusive.

Second Brigade at Erie, Erie county, July 15th to 22d, inclusive

Third Brigade at Mount Gretna, Lebanon county, July 8th to 15th, inclusive.

The selection of the several locations is hereby approved.

II. The date of tour of duty of Naval Force of Pennsylvania will be fixed by the Commanding Officer thereof, subject to approval by the Commander-in-Chief.

III. The Annual Inspection provided by law will occur during the Brigade Encampments, and will be made by the Inspector General's Department, under the immediate supervision of the Inspector General. The Inspector General will arrange for the proper inspection of the Naval Force.

IV. The muster for pay will be under the supervision of the Adjutant General, who will make the necessary details for the purpose from the Staff of the Commander-in-Chief.

V. The commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the Staff of the Commander-in-Chief will report for duty on such dates, and at such places as may be directed by the Adjutant General.

VI. No enlistments except re-enlistments will be made within the thirty days prior to the close of the respective Brigade Encampments, and in the Naval Force within thirty days from the close of the tour of duty.

It is required by law that the original enlistment paper in case of enlistment or re-enlistment must be forwarded to the Adjutant General's Office, the duplicate copy to be retained and filed with company records. Enlistment papers must be forwarded at the close of the month in which enlistment is made, except in the month in which the Annual Encampment occurs, when they must be forwarded before the opening of the Encampment.

Commanding officers at Headquarters through which enlistment or re-enlistment papers are forwarded, will carefully examine same, and assure themselves that such papers are complete in all respects before forwarding. No person will be allowed to serve as a member of any organization unless enlistment or re-enlistment papers have been executed and filed in Adjutant General's Office.

When enlistments expire and the soldier re-enlists, such re-enlistment must occur within thirty days, to entitle the soldier to credit for continuous service and service pay.

VII. Camp equipage will be forwarded to the respective Brigade Quartermasters at the location of the Encampment, and they are charged with the duty of distributing same, taking receipts therefor, and giving receipt for such camp equipage as may be properly turned over to them at the close of the Encampment. They will make report through channels, reporting any shortage and naming organization.

VIII. The respective Brigade Quartermaster, under the direction of the Brigade Commander, will make all contracts for fuel, forage and ice, after proper competitive bids have been received, all stores to be delivered freight prepaid at location of encampment. Contracts will be made in duplicate and both forwarded to the Quartermaster General for action thereon, and if approved, one copy will be returned and one forwarded to Adjutant General.

IX. Brigade Commissaries will, under the direction of the respective Brigade Commanders, make contracts for subsistence, adhering to the ration table of the U. S. Army with such minor changes as the season and conditions warrant or permit.

The issue of rations must be full and adequate, and no expenditure of money from the Annual Allowance Account for additional subsistence stores, except in case of advance details, will be approved.

Contracts for subsistence stores, after proper competitive bids have been received, will be made in duplicate and both copies forwarded to the Commissary General for action thereon, and if approved, one copy will be returned and one copy forwarded to Adjutant General's Office. Contracts will provide that subsistence stores be delivered freight prepaid at location of encampment.

X. The Surgeon General will supervise and determine the issue of the proper medical stores. Regimental medical chests, containing proper supply, will be forwarded with camp equipage.

XI. Transportation requests to be used in transportation of troops, will be issued from Adjutant General's Office as follows:

From Adjutant General's Office for General Headquarters.

To Division Headquarters for Division Headquarters only.

To Brigade Headquarters for use of Brigade Headquarters and troops of cavalry and batteries of artillery attached to Brigade.

To Regimental Headquarters for use of regiment, including Hospital Corps attached thereto, and also Regimental Band.

Transportation will not in any case be furnished to civilians, except civilian cooks, in cases where cooks are not regularly enlisted, and to servants when authorized.

The requirements of the form on which transportation is to be procured, must be carefully studied and strictly complied with.

Attention is especially directed to the following requirements of the form:

a. Requests can not be used except in one direction, and not for round trip.

b. A separate request will be required for each line of railway over which the command travels, and must not read from a point on one line of railway to a point on another.

c. Enlisted men are not authorized to sign receipt on transportation request. When enlisted men are transported unaccompanied by a commissioned officer, the officer issuing the transportation request must fill out the request completely, sign the receipt thereon, fill out and sign statement on back thereof, and as far as possible give names of men transported, and if from different commands, state command.

d. When officers or men of one command are transported on request issued by officer of a different command, names of such must be written on back of request.

e. In cases where several organizations are included in the same request, the number of officers and men of each organization will be stated, as indicated on the back of the request. This statement must agree with number filled in on the face of request.

f. When companies have the complement of cooks enlisted (2), civilian cooks must not be furnished transportation, and not more than two cooks per company be transported in any instance. Names of civilian cooks must be given.

g. When servants or hostlers travel with horses they must be furnished with transportation requests properly filled out and signed, but such requests will not include horses, company baggage or camp equipage, for which Bills of Lading must be used.

Officers leaving camp on leave, or enlisted men on furlough, when such leave of absence or furlough expires and requires return to camp, will not be entitled to transportation either leaving camp or returning thereto. When the leave of absence or furlough extends to a date beyond the close of the camp, transportation may be issued for the officer or enlisted man to return to his home station by most direct route.

The transportation account will be audited in Adjutant General's Office by comparison with Muster and Pay Rolls and Inspection Rolls, and where it is shown that requests have been improperly used, the amount of same will be charged to Annual Allowance Account of the organization.

Commanding officers should keep a record of all requests issued by them, filling up the stub in each case, showing to whom issued, between what points, and for what number. The book containing stubs and unused requests to be returned to Adjutant General's Office immediately after the close of encampment.

XII. Bills of Lading, made out in duplicate, must be used in shipping horses, ambulances, armament and equipment of batteries of artillery, equipment of troops of cavalry, headquarters baggage and company baggage, and in the use of Bills of Lading, the following instructions must be observed:

a. When headquarters or company baggage is shipped, it will be distinctly stated and described on Bill of Lading, and must not be united with or included in shipments of another character.

b. No shipment of horses, or stores of any character, will be made except on Bills of Lading, and railroad companies are not authorized to accept shipment of horses or stores, the freight charges for which are to be paid by the State, unless Bills of Lading are furnished in duplicate.

c. The original and duplicate Bill of Lading will be filled out, stating clearly the character of shipment made, then signed by the shipper, then signed by the agent of the railroad company receiving the shipment; the original retained by the railroad company; the shipper to retain the duplicate. At destination, which will be the location of the Brigade Encampment, the shipper, or the person to whom the shipment is made, if it be other than the shipper, will fill out and sign the receipt on the Bill of Lading; this will be retained by the railroad company; the receipt on the duplicate will be filled out and signed and this forwarded to the Adjutant General at Harrisburg. The same instructions as to preparation, signing and receipting, and forwarding of duplicate to Adjutant General, will apply for return movement. No bills for freight charges will be paid at Adjutant General's Office, unless the duplicate Bills of Lading are filed in Adjutant General's Office, and officers making or directing shipments on Bills of Lading will save correspondence and trouble by careful attention to this requirement.

d. In shipment of horses, arrangements must be made to assemble them as far as possible and practicable, at one point, and ship in carload lots (about 18 horses to a car). Shipment of horses in lots less than carload are charged at carload rates, and shipment of single horses, as has been the case in the past in a few instances, will not be authorized or approved, and when this is done, or when it is shown that the instructions as to assembling horses for shipment have been disregarded, the excess freight charges for such shipment will be charged to the Annual Allowance Account, or to the officer.

e. Carriages or vehicles must not be shipped at the expense of the State. Instances have occurred in the past where vehicles for private use have been transported on cars with ambulance. This is prohibited unless the freight charges are paid by the shipper.

f. Extra charges for Palace Horse Cars must be paid by the officer or organization to whom they are furnished. Such cars are not furnished by the State, but must be obtained direct from the company or owners.

Blank forms Bills of Lading will be transmitted direct without requisition from Adjutant General's Office, to the Commanding officers at the various headquarters, and to Commanding Officers of troops of cavalry and batteries of artillery.

XIII. Personal and company baggage and general camp impedimenta will be kept at the minimum. Only such articles as are absolutely necessary should be taken to camp.

XIV. Requisitions for Ordnance or Quartermaster stores, or for stationery or blank forms needed before or during camp, must be made promptly and must reach Adjutant General's Office before July 1, 1905, to insure their being filled.

Shipments of stores will not be made from State Arsenal between July 5th and July 22d.

XV. No bills for supplies or stores of any character, or for any purpose whatsoever, other than those regularly permitted and necessary for the proper administration of the Quartermaster's, Commissary or Medical Department, will be contracted on account of the encampment, and to be paid through the office of the Adjutant General, unless authorized by Brigade Commanders, Quartermaster General, Commissary General, or Surgeon General.

XVI. Blank forms of Inspection Roll, Muster and Pay Roll, and Abstract of Daily Roll Call, will be transmitted without requisition direct to Brigade and Regimental Headquarters, and to commanding officers of companies, on June 20, 1905.

By order of SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

Circular,
No. 2.

I. In compliance with General Orders No. 7, Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania, A. G. O., c. s., the Division National Guard of Pennsylvania will be inspected at the encampments of the several Brigades.

All organizations will parade for inspection in canvas uniform (light marching order) and campaign hat. Infantry commands with white gloves. Officers will wear the regulation service uniform.

In view of the recent change in the Infantry Drill Regulations, and in order to afford every opportunity for the thorough instruction of the National Guard in the fundamental principles of the soldier, which is most essential, the requirements, as to drills for infantry at inspection, will not exceed the Schools of the Soldier and Squad.

The infantry of the First Brigade will be inspected on Thursday, July 13th, 1905, by companies, in their respective streets. The first regiment at nine (9) o'clock A. M., followed by the other regiments, at intervals of two hours, in the order designated by the Brigade Commander. One thousand rounds of ammunition will be issued without charge for team practice previous to the matches, for which requisition shall be made by the Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice, through Regimental Headquarters, thence direct. The requisition must state that the ammunition is for team practice.

Regimental Match.

Teams to consist of four men and one reserve, all of whom must be certified by the Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice, as being members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and in continuous service from the first day of May, 1905.

Distance: 200, 500 and 600 yards, seven shots per man at each distance. No previous practice on day of Match.

Arm: Regulation U. S. Magazine Rifle (calibre .30).

Ammunition will be issued at the firing point.

Each team will be in charge of a Team Captain.

The Prize: Silver cup, to become the property of the organization first winning it three times and a medal to each member of the winning team.

Rapid Fire Match.

Teams to consist of five men from each regiment and from the Cavalry Squadron, all of whom must be certified by the Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice as being members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and in continuous service from the 1st day of May, 1905.

Distances: 200 and 500 yards, ten shots at each distance.

Target: "F" at both ranges.

The magazine is filled, one cartridge loaded therefrom, and the piece held in position "ready." At a signal given at the firing point, the target appears, remains in sight twenty seconds at 200 yards and thirty seconds at 500 yards, then disappears. No sighting shots will be permitted. The competitor attempts to fire five shots, emptying the magazine and firing at will, without command, from the instant any portions of the target appears until it has completely disappeared. Each unfired cartridge counts as a miss. In case of a defective cartridge or disabled piece the practice is repeated.

Time is regulated at the target, the signal at the firing point being given as a warning to the non-commissioned officer, or person, in the pit in charge of the target that all is ready at the firing point for the target to appear.

In rapid fire, with rifle or carbine, at the disappearing target, the non-commissioned officer or person in charge of the target, at the signal from the firing point, commands "Ready." As soon as all is in readiness to run up the target, he commands "Up." Exactly twenty seconds after the target is in position he commands "Down," having preceded this command two or three seconds by the warning command "Ready." The target must be exposed and withdrawn as quickly as possible.

The number and value of the hits are signaled with the usual disks in the usual manner after the score has been fired, the number of misses being carefully indicated by the flag as a check on the accuracy of the number of hits signaled.

The prize is a beautiful trophy presented by Lt. Col. Daniel B. Shepp, A. D. C., Staff of Commander-in-Chief, to go to the team first winning it three times. Medals to go to each member of the winning team.

Infantry Skirmish Match.

Teams to consist of five men from each regiment, all of whom must be certified by the Regimental Inspectors of Rifle Practice as being members of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and in continuous service from the 1st day of May, 1905.

Distance: Six halts, advancing from 600 to 200 yards, two shots to be fired at 600, two shots at 500, three shots at 400, three shots at 350, at each distance the piece being used as a single loader, and 5 shots at 300 and 5 shots at 200 yards, each of which 5 shots are fired from the magazine. The time limit is thirty seconds at each halt, the interval to be taken from the last note of "Commence Firing" to the last note of "Cease Firing," with the exception of 200 yard halt, where the interval will be twenty seconds.

The teams are formed in line opposite the targets at a distance exceeding 600 yards; twenty rounds of ammunition per man are issued; magazines are filled and cut off, and, in accordance with Infantry Drill Regulations, the line is advanced in quick time to the 600-yard firing line. Here the line is halted and each skirmisher, without further command, takes one of the authorized positions and at the preparatory command for firing loads his piece from the belt.

The commands for firing are: 1. Fire two rounds, 2. At 600 yards, 3. At the targets, 4. COMMENCE FIRING. After the command of execution, the firing opens at will and each skirmisher fires two rounds within the time limit of thirty seconds, the piece being used as a single loader. At the expiration of time limit the command "Cease Firing" will be given.

The firing having ceased, the advance is resumed and continued to the 500-yard firing line, where two rounds are fired in the same manner as at 600 yards; the advance then continues to the 400 and 350 yard firing lines, at each of which three rounds are similarly fired, and then to 300 and 200 yards, at each of which five rounds are fired from the magazine. The time limit at 200 yards, it should be noted, is twenty instead of thirty seconds, as at the other halts. Commands, in all cases, conform to the Infantry Drill Regulations.

The advance between 600 and 200 yards will be, between any two successive halts, the first half at quick and the second at double time; and it is enjoined upon the range officer to see that the double time is maintained as nearly as possible according to the Infantry Drill Regulations, i. e., length of step 36 inches, and cadence 180 steps per minute. The firing is completed at 200 yards.

Pieces will not be loaded during the advance, but only at the preparatory command for firing after a halt.

The time limit extends from the last note of "Commence Firing" to the last note of "Cease Firing." The Range Officer will see that the signals are properly sounded, not permitting the last note of "Cease Firing" to be unduly prolonged. For each shot fired by the competitor before the commencement or after the close of the time limit, or for each shot fired in excess of the number ordered for the halt, five points will be deducted from his score. Five points will also be deducted for a failure to fire the number prescribed for a halt. A defective cartridge may be replaced by a file closer, but must be turned in before the advance is resumed. The substituted cartridge must be fired, if at all, at the halt where the misfire occurred and before "Cease Firing" shall have been sounded. A piece disabled through no fault of the firer entitles the latter to another run.

Competitors will not be permitted to advance nearer than 200 yards from the targets.

In this class of fire, the muzzle of the rifle must be pointed toward the targets when marching or at the halts.

In skirmish competitions, where teams run as teams, the team captain will direct the firing of the team under the supervision of a range officer. The aggregate value of all shots in all the figures of the groups will be the team's total for the run.

The prize is a silver cup, to become the property of the organization first winning it three times. A medal will be given to each member of the winning team.

Brigade Match.

Teams to consist of twelve men and three reserves, who shall be selected by the Brigade Ordnance Officer as Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice, from the men who have reported as members of the Regimental and Cavalry Teams. The Ordnance Officers are eligible to shoot as members of their respective Brigade teams.

Distance: 200, 500 and 600 yards; ten shots per man at each distance.

Arm: Regulation U. S. Magazine Carbine, calibre .30. Ammunition to be issued at the firing point.

Each team to be in charge of a Team Captain.

The prize is a silver cup and shall become the property of the Troop first winning it three times. A medal will be given to each member of the winning team.

Rules and Regulations.

1. During the progress of a match or competition, no one except the officers on duty at the range, the competitors and scorekeepers, will be permitted within the ropes without special permission of the officer in charge.

2. The squads of competitors will be stationed five yards in rear of firing point, where each competitor must remain until called by the scorekeeper or range officer to take his position at the firing point and until he has completed his score.

3. All expression on the part of the competitor of approbation or disappointment, with reference to any scores made by himself or others, must not be uttered loud enough to be heard at the firing point.

4. Protests and objections must not be directly submitted to the officer in charge, but to one of the range officers. In case a competitor considers the decision of the latter unwarranted by the facts as presented, he may appeal to the executive officer.

5. Hits in the different divisions of the targets and ricochets will be signaled and recorded as prescribed in the Small Arms Firing Regulations. Ricochets count as hits.

6. The exact location of all bullet holes will be marked by a spotter, which will be shown on the target.

7. All shots fired by the competitor after he has taken his place at the firing point, and it is his turn to fire—the target being ready—will be considered in his score, even if his piece is not directed toward the target, or is accidentally discharged.

8. Shots fired upon the wrong target will be entered upon the score of the man firing as a miss.

9. In slow fire, if two shots strike a target at the same time, or nearly the same time, both will be signaled, and if a shot was just fired from the firing point assigned to that target, the hit having the higher of the two values signaled will be entered in the competitor's score, and no record made of the other hit.

10. The scorekeepers will be seated close to and in the rear of the firing point stakes, and will, as each shot is signaled, announce in a audible tone the name of the competitor, the value of the shot, and number on score card, marking same on the blackboard and competitor's card. At the conclusion of the score of each competitor the scorekeeper will repeat his name and total score, and request the range officer on duty at that target to verify the blackboard and score card. (No scores will be allowed unless recorded on a blackboard by the scorer as shot).

11. Competitors must pay attention to the score as announced and recorded, so that any error may be promptly investigated. The recorded value of any shot will not be changed after the following shot has been fired, unless some special message with reference to it is received from one of the range officers in the target pit.

12. Any alteration of a scoring card must be witnessed by the officer in charge of the firing point and indorsed with his initials.

13. The trigger pull must always be at least 3 pounds, and will be tested (holding the barrel vertically) by a range officer, before firing, each day and at each range.

14. Competitors will submit their arms for further inspection whenever required.

15. No person who is either a principal or alternate in the team of any Regiment or Troop shall be eligible to serve either as a principle or alternate in the team of any other Regiment or Troop at the next yearly competition for the several State Trophies.

16. The ammunition used will be the service cartridge for the arm, as manufactured and issued by the Ordnance Department. Any competitor having any ammunition in his belt or about his person when he takes his place at the firing stand, other than that authorized, will be immediately disbarred, and his score will not count for record.

17. Competitors will wear the service uniform, with or without blouse, and with the belt. Sheds or shelters for the firer will not be permitted at the firing point at any range. Competitors must be present at the firing points punctually at the time, or in order stated on their score cards; no application on the part of a competitor for any alteration in his assignment will be entertained, except that team captains may change the order of firing of the members of their teams, if they so desire.

18. In competitions or matches embracing more than one distance, the firing will be commenced at the shortest distance, and be followed in order by each of the longer distances, the firing at the longest range being held last.

19. In slow fire the competitors will place themselves at the firing point by twos and will fire alternately, the odd number of each pair being on the right and firing first.

20. In slow fire, if, just as the shot is fired, the target is withdrawn from the firing position, the scorer at that firing point will at once report the fact to one of the range officers, who, if upon investigation is satisfied that the case is as represented, will direct that the shot fired be not considered and that the competitor fire another shot.

21. In slow fire, competitors will not be hurried in their firing, but such slight delay permitted after each shot as they may desire; provided the time of firing the total score with rifle and carbine does not exceed an average of one minute per shot for ranges of 600 yards and less, and of two minutes per shot for ranges above 600 yards, no time credit being allowed.

22. If an accident to a target, or any other cause over which the competitor has no control, prevents him from completing his score within a reasonable interval, he will be permitted such additional time as a range officer may decide. The executive officer shall have power to extend the time in his discretion.

23. No two competitors shall shoot in any competition with the same rifle; nor shall a competitor change his rifle during any competition, unless his first rifle has become unserviceable through an accident, which must be verified by a range officer. Willful or intentional violation of this regulation will warrant the officer in charge, in his discretion, excluding the offender from further competition.

24. Pieces can only be cleaned upon the completion of a score. In competitions at more than one distance cleaning will be permitted between distances.

25. No coaching or communication of any kind with men at the firing point will be permitted except by the team captain, and then only for the sole purpose of preventing infractions of the conditions of the match.

26. In team matches, at least three yards in rear of each firing point, there will be permitted one team captain, one coach, and one spotter, who may observe the firings of the members of their team and check the value of each shot as called by the scorer. The captain, coach and spotter shall not be permitted to shield a competitor from the wind, throw a shade upon his sight, or aid him in any other way.

27. In skirmish competitions by teams, the teams will run under the command of the team captain, who may coach his men on the run. One or more range officers will accompany each team to see that the conditions of the match are not violated.

28. No arms shall be loaded except at the firing point, the muzzle of the rifle, pistol, or revolver being kept in the direction of the target till the arm is either discharged or unloaded.

29. Points not covered by the above Rules will be governed by General Orders No. 41, War Department, current series.

30. Competitors and all others connected with the competitions must make themselves acquainted with the foregoing regulations as well as with the conditions of competitive firing in which they may be participating, as the plea of ignorance of either of them will not be entertained.

General Orders,
No. 19.

I. Provision has been made for issue to the National Guard of Pennsylvania of the new woven cartridge belt, caliber .30, U. S. Army pattern, with pockets and suspenders.

The suspenders are intended for adjustment to the size of the soldier by whom the belt is worn, and should be adjusted so that the belt will be carried at the waist. The suspenders should be assembled as shown in the cuts herewith, and hooked into the proper eyelets in the upper edge of the belt. The adjustment to the soldier is accomplished by use of the movable slides.

The canteen and haversack will be carried with this belt and attached thereto, in the following manner:

Two hooks are furnished with each belt. Place the smaller curve of the hook in the "D" ring of the haversack, close it tightly by a blow of a hammer, or by use of tweezers; then engage the larger curve of the hook in the eyelets in the lower edge of the belt. The two hooks in the two "D" rings of the haversack should be closed tightly and must remain on the haversack even if the haversack should at any time be carried by the leather haversack strap.

Hook the woven canteen strap into the triangular lugs on the side of the canteen, and hook the snap into an eyelet in the lower edge of belt. (See cuts herewith.)

II. The leather canteen strap and leather haversack strap will be retained for use when the woven cartridge belt is not worn.

III. The new woven cartridge belt will be issued to companies of infantry and troops of cavalry, on the basis of fifty-five to each organization; these to be taken up on property account, but not charged to Annual Allowance account.

IV. Requisition has been made upon the Ordnance Department, U. S. Army, for a sufficient number to supply all organizations. Only a portion (5,000) of the requisition has been furnished at this time. An effort will be made to complete the issue before camp. The first issues will be made to the organizations of the First and Third Brigades.

V. Organizations that receive the new belts in time will wear them during the coming Encampment.

VI. Care must be exercised in fastening the hook on the "D" ring of the haversack, to have it so closed that it cannot escape or be lost from the "D" ring.

(Front View.)

(Rear View.)

VII. The present blue belt and metal plate will be retained for use with the dress uniform. Commanding officers should arrange to have the same properly cleaned and stored for use when needed.

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Inspector General's Office,
Chester, June 20, 1905.

Brigadier General Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: In compliance with General Orders No. 36, Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania, A. G. O., series 1904, the several organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania have been inspected and I have the honor to enclose herewith the reports of the various inspectors, with the recommendation that they be published for the information of the Guard.

The inspections were conducted in the manner, and by the officers announced in Circular No. 1, of this Department, contained in General Orders No. 1, A. G. O., c. s.

The infantry organizations are reported in fair condition, yet the inspectors comment upon the fact that many commands are poorly instructed. This is credited, not so much to the improper interpretation of the New Drill Regulations, as to the mode of instruction. Very many of the officers are either lacking in the knowledge and personal experience necessary to the proper training of men for the duties of the soldier, or are culpably negligent in the performance of that duty.

Discipline, embodying personal appearance, military bearing, punctuality, obedience and military courtesy, which, in the judgment of the Inspector General, is of great value to the soldier, as the technique of the drill, commands entirely too little consideration.

Troops without discipline are not merely inefficient; they constitute a real danger to the interests they represent, whether State or National, in that they have a form of power without its substance. When called into service, such troops have neither the energy of the mob, nor the strength and efficiency of intelligent purposeful organization.

At officer's schools, held in each command, the fundamental principles of the Drill Regulations, including discipline (in all its phases), should be first discussed and practiced, and continued until thoroughly mastered. This would insure uniform and proper instruction in each organization and result in greater efficiency. The manoeuvring of larger units, and the solving of tactical problems, could then be taken up and handled with more interest, satisfaction and profit to all concerned.

The very important subject of Guard Duty is being neglected. The rating of many companies being low, which is attributable largely to the fact, and is evident, that the training of the individual soldier is being slighted.

Improvement is reported in the Cavalry organizations. Troop F's work, in the School of the Soldier and Troop and Guard Duty (dismounted), is below the standard. The men of this Command should have been thoroughly instructed in the foot movements, including the handling of the carbine and saber, before taking up the mounted drill. The Inspector General so informed the officers of this troop, in an unofficial talk, and advised them against taking horses to the last encampment.

Attention is invited to the report of the Chief of Ordnance upon the Artillery. Battery "B" is reported in very good form. The conditions of Battery "C," however, is not satisfactory and unless a decided improvement, along all lines, is shown, at the inspection to be held at the coming encampment, a recommendation for disbandment will be made.

The Naval Force of Pennsylvania was inspected by the Inspector General on board the U. S. S. Keystone State. While not up to the standard of last year, they gave a fairly satisfactory demonstration. The Inspector General has already reported upon the unsatisfactory location of the boat on which this command is quartered, which seriously handicaps them in their work. That a larger and more suitable boat be furnished them, has also been made a subject of report.

It is most important that this organization be inspected in naval affairs during the summer cruise.

The following suggestions and recommendations are concurred in by the Inspector General:

1. That the rear sight (old model) on a rifle in Company E, 8th Regiment, be recalled, and one of the present model substituted therefor. (Major Clarke.)
2. That each company be furnished with a copy of the "Small Arms Firing Regulations," now in use in the United States Army; those now in hand being returned to the Adjutant General's Office. (Major Clarke.)

Very respectfully,

FRANK G. SWEENEY,
Inspector General.

To the Inspector General, N. G. Pa., Chester, Pa.:

Sir: In compliance with G. O. No. 36, s. 1904, and G. O. No. 1, Circular No. 1, A. G. O., Harrisburg, Pa., I began the inspection of the infantry companies comprising the First Brigade, N. G. Pa., on February 6, 1905, commencing with Co. M, 3rd Regiment Infantry. In making up the schedule I was compelled to exceed the limit of time set in G. O. No. 1, c. s., A. G. O., to-wit: "during the months of February, March and April," because of the fact that it is customary to assign each company to its regular drill night for inspection, and in compiling the schedule it was made apparent that that could not be done without assigning some companies to a night other than their regular drill night, or extend into the month of May, which perforce was done. I am pleased to report that from indications officers and men have worked hard and faithfully to master the intricacies of the "Revised Drill Regulations" and good permanent results will eventually attain. Permit me to add, however, that there is a great deal yet to be learned and there should not be any let up in the instructions, particularly that of the individual soldier. A perfunctory method of instruction upon the part of the non-commissioned officers seems to rule when imparting the information so necessary for the proper development of the recruit. He fails to observe as an instructor, that each motion or movement as described is correctly executed, and that the soldier thoroughly understands and is able to execute correctly every portion of the paragraph under instruction before passing to the next. This is a requirement not lived up to. The non-commissioned officer to make a good instructor should be required to drill a squad oftener than he now does, and it should be done under the eye and supervision of an officer or of a competent non-commissioned officer. The training of the non-commissioned officer in this particular seems to be neglected. There is also an apparent tendency to bunch the instruction in the School of the Soldier with that of the squad, which in my opinion is detrimental to a proper development of the soldier, and being superficial in character, such teaching is not calculated to inculcate the principles of the squad with any degree of precision in the company movements. The School of the Soldier and School of the Squad are the foundation stones upon which the superstructure must rest, and the wise builder will give close attention to perfecting the foundation before beginning the superstructure. Therefore, the company officer who devotes his time and zeal to instructing his company in the rudimentary knowledge, will accomplish better and more satisfactory results, than he, who hastens to perform company movements after imparting in a superficial and perfunctory sort of way, his method of training the individual soldier and squad. Briefly and concisely put, the method of instruction as developed during the inspection, will have to settle down to something more practical if the movements in the School of the Company and School of the Battalion as well as Regiment are to conform to first teaching. Permit me to elucidate upon this point. It was made apparent during inspection that the individual soldier had received very little, if any practical instruction in the School of the Soldier or Squad. The recitation by the Corporal, of the knowledge he possessed in the two schools, was an exposition of special preparation upon his part for the inspection alone, and in this particular, progress of a satisfactory character has been made. But the knowledge of the drill regulation possessed by the non-commissioned officer avails naught, unless he is able to correctly exemplify his teaching through the individual soldier, and I am convinced that very little teaching of this kind has been done. It would therefore be useless and foolish to attempt company movements until the individual soldier as well as the squad has received theoretical as well as practical training in the rudiments of the drill regulations. Another serious fault to which I desire to direct special attention is the pernicious one that seems to prevail throughout the Brigade of thrusting into the ranks men with rifles in their hands who are without any previous knowledge of the School of the Soldier, and these green rookies are expected to conduct themselves like well trained soldiers. This method of procedure is to be deprecated and should be tabooed by orders, if it cannot be corrected in any other way. In the first place it is unfair to "Mr. Rookie," secondly, it is very apt to mar the probable making of a good soldier, and adds no lustre to the company record. Saluting, as a matter of fact, is not generally observed and its execution does not conform to paragraph 37 D. R. Proper attention to its execution should be given by all. Manual of Sabre does not conform to paragraph 524, 526, 532 D. R. Carelessness in execution is probably the only reason for non-compliance with above mentioned paragraph. The Hutter Book in many instances did not comply with requirements of paragraph 11, G. O. No. 36, s. 1904, A. G. O., in that no financial account is entered therein. The slip statement of the financial account of each company received by me from the Adjutant General's Office will be found enclosed in the statement of State Property of each company, and the slip will tell who the delinquents are who disobeyed general orders. The State Property is generally speaking found to be in good serviceable condition and suitable provision is apparently made for the safe keeping and care of this property. The 1st Regiment Infantry will, upon the completion of the improvements now in process, provide the several companies with up to date quarters for the storage and care of their company and State property. Ammunition on hand: the number of cartridges, ball, blank, and armory, cal. 30, will be found on the statement of State Property of each company. Guard Duty exhibits a decided slump. This important work has been neglected to a marked degree. It is to be regretted that closer attention is not given to this very essential part of the soldiers training. A well trained company in the knowledge of the duties of the sentry, is of greater value than that of one well versed in the routine of drill. A special report with recommendations relative to Co. B, 6th Regiment Infantry, was made after journeying to Chester, Pa., May 1st to inspect it. The company was found to be in a semi-demoralized condition from various causes, and no inspection was held except to ascertain that the prospects for its rehabilitation are exceedingly good, and if the recommendation is approved this company will I feel assured come up to expectation. As no properly prepared inspection roll had been made, you will find this company minus in that respect. We were accompanied throughout the tour with the tried and true soldier and genial representative of the War Department, Brigadier General Chambers McKibben, and his contemplated severance from the National Guard of Pennsylvania and the First Brigade in particular is cause for deep regret. Our esteemed Brigade Commander, General Schall, together with several staff officers were frequent visitors at the several armories, interested observers during the inspection. The strength present and absent of each organization is as follows:

	Present.	Absent.
First Regiment,	726	64
Second Regiment,	682	71
Third Regiment,	643	95
Sixth Regiment,	596	74 without the strength of Co. B.

Before closing I desire to return my sincere thanks for the many courtesies extended by you, as well as all the officers with whom I came in contact.

Very respectfully,

CHARLES H. WORMAN,
Major and Inspector.

National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Office of Brigade Inspector, Second Brigade,
Pittsburg, May 31st, 1905.

To the Inspector General, National Guard of Penna., Chester, Penna.:

Sir: I have the honor to report that in compliance with General Orders No. 36, A. G. O., Series 1904, and General Orders No. 1, A. G. O., Circular No. 1, Inspector General's Office, I inspected the infantry companies of the Second Brigade, N. G. P., at their several home stations during the months of February, March and April, 1905.

I am pleased to report that there is a general improvement throughout the Brigade. The property, arms and equipment are, with few exceptions, being well taken care of. While the new drill regulations were issued but a short time before the date of inspection, the officers and men show a deep interest in the same, and by the time of the Brigade camp, they should be fairly well understood. There are still several companies who fail to understand the difference between "Squad Right," and "Squad, Right Turn," and it is important that they learn this difference at once. They also fail to notice the difference between the old movable pivot and the present one. "Squad, Right," or "Left Turn," is the most important paragraph in the drill regulation, embracing as it does the basic principle of the whole drill. Too many companies are trying to retain part of the old, and apply at the same time the new drill, such as closing up the rear rank on the pivot in "Squad Right," instead of taking the new drill formation. There are a number of non-commissioned officers that fail to give commands at the proper time, especially the fourth command, see Par. 116 and 117. Some company and squad commanders have failed to read Paragraph 54, Section 9, understandingly.

There was a fair attendance at the inspections with the exception of one regiment, and they will be surprised when they see the difference between the figures of their general averages and those of the figures for efficiency. Company E, 10th Regiment, of Mt. Pleasant, had three officers and 58 enlisted men present at inspection, and they have one of the smallest armories in the Brigade, having a one-story frame building, 27 by 50 feet, this armory being a good place for a visit from the new armory board.

These inspections have been severe on the non-commissioned officers, as they were required to show what they knew about the new squad drill, doing practically all of the drilling, which plainly showed whether they knew their duties or not. The day of the pretty non-commissioned officer is passed, and one who is not willing to give his time to fit himself for his position will have to give up his chevrons or the company will suffer, as the squad leader must know his duties. The company commander who requires his officers to perform their several duties each drill night, instead of doing them himself, is the commander who will present the best company for inspection. There are several company commanders in the Brigade who do too much of the work themselves, not giving their non-commissioned officers a chance to become familiar with their work, and as a consequence during inspection, when the work is required of them, they become confused and spoil the inspection.

I believe the stopping of crediting as present those men on furlough to be an improvement, especially in this Brigade, as some companies were abusing this custom.

There are still some regimental adjutants who have failed to read the last inspection report concerning regimental orders, not being the proper size, etc.

I desire to express my appreciation of the courtesy and kindness shown me by the officers of the Brigade during the tour of inspection.

Very respectfully,

SAMUEL W. JEFFERIS,
Major and Inspector, Second Brigade, N. G. P.

Headquarters Third Brigade, N. G. P.,
Office of Brigade Inspector,
Williamsport, Pa., April 22, 1905.

To the Inspector General, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Chester, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report that in compliance with General Orders No. 36, A. G. O., Series 1904, and General Orders No. 1, A. G. O., Current Series, I inspected the several companies of infantry comprising the regiments of the Third Brigade, N. G. P., at their several home stations within the period specified. I was accompanied during these inspections by officers of the United States Army who at the same time made the inspections required by the War Department. Major F. P. Fremont, Fifth United States Infantry, inspected the Eighth and Twelfth Regiments and six companies of the Fourth Regiment; Captain R. A. Carmichael, Coast Artillery, inspected the Ninth Regiment and four companies of the Fourth Regiment; the Thirteenth Regiment was inspected by Captain G. F. Baltzell, Fifth United States Infantry. The Third Brigade has been particularly fortunate in the officers sent to it by the Commanding Officer of the Atlantic Division. They were representative officers of the regular establishment and did their work in a thorough and conscientious manner. I desire to especially refer to Major Fremont, whose wide experience and good judgment enabled him to not only impress many facts upon the officers with whom he came in contact, but there is scarcely a company of those he inspected which has not learned something valuable from him and which has not some practical suggestions stored up for future use.

While the Brigade was generally in good condition, there were some companies which show a lack of conscientious study and effort to maintain the standard of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. I regret that I must again call attention to the lack of instruction in guard duty. There were eighteen companies in the Brigade whose work in this department was unsatisfactory and a number of others which only narrowly escaped being in the same class.

The new Infantry Drill Regulations gave considerable trouble in some quarters and less in others. The greatest fault seemed to be that in some companies the primary rules were passed over so hurriedly and slightly that, as a consequence, they were lost and the whole structure bent. There were companies in which the fact that "Squads Right (or left)" terminates in mark time seems to have been lost sight of, and as a consequence movements involving these commands were incorrectly done and a change of position from one part of the armory to another for convenience resulted in much straggling. A school for officers in which they will also be given rifles and drilled as platoons or companies so that they will be thoroughly grounded in the School of the Soldier, the Squad and the Company would be a valuable thing for the officers. A similar school for non-commissioned officers would give the squad leaders a knowledge of small things which some do not now possess and would result in better things from the squads.

There are still instances in which officers are wearing the leather saber knot with the dress uniform instead of the dress knot, and in one instance an officer presented himself for inspection wearing the old regulation saber. All of these things have affected the rating in discipline of the organization affected.

There were a few organizations which had not, as required by General Orders No. 22, A. G. O., Series 1904, equipment for fifty-five enlisted men charged to them on their property returns. There were also a few which had not, as required by the same order, replaced the haversacks and canteens of the 1899 issue with the same articles with leather straps. The discipline of these companies was affected by the failure to comply with the order.

The condition of the rifles was an improvement over that of a year ago. Of course, the damage done by pitting prior to my last report is still there, but it has not increased and the rifles were generally clean and in good condition. This is largely due to the fact that nearly all of the companies now employ armorers, usually securing an artificer who is an expert in the care of a rifle and employing him as armorer.

A weak spot in Company Commanders was in inability of some of them to grasp the fire commands and give them properly. It is something an officer cannot blame on "new recruits." It is his own carelessness and is an evidence that he not only neglects to study this himself but does not instruct his men. This was referred to in my last report a year ago, but some Company Commanders failed to profit by the comment then made.

Having found it necessary last year to comment severely upon the care and condition of the State Property of Company B, Eighth Regiment, it gives me great pleasure to report that this company has acted upon the suggestions given it and now has provided excellent facilities for the care of everything and presented it in proper shape for inspection.

I again call attention to the fact that on the issue of rifles to Company E, Eighth Regiment, was one rear sight of the model first placed upon the present rifle and long ago abandoned. I would respectfully repeat my recommendation of last year that it be recalled and exchanged for one of the present model in order to have uniformity.

In Company A, Twelfth Regiment, was found one broken bolt. The break was a peculiar one, one which should not have been possible in this rifle and showed defective material. This has been made the subject of a special report by Major Fremont to the Chief of Ordnance of the United States Army, and you will doubtless receive a communication from that officer upon the subject. Two similar breaks were found in Company E, Thirteenth Regiment, and were duly reported.

I failed to find in any of the fifty-two companies I inspected a copy of the Small Arms Firing Regulations which has been in use in the United States Army for the past year. All were provided with copies of Wingate, Blunt and the old Small Arms Firing Regulations, but not with the one now in use. I would respectfully recommend that each company be furnished with a copy of the Small Arms Firing Regulations now in use in the United States Army and be directed either to return to the Adjutant General's Office all copies of Wingate, Blunt and other out-of-date Firing Regulations or to drop them from the Property Return.

The abandonment of the custom of giving the same credit for furloughs as if the man was actually present was a step in the right direction, and I would repeat my recommendation of last year: that a physician's certificate should only be received as crediting the man as being absent with leave. The present system is unsatisfactory and not conducive to the best results. The approval of a military Surgeon upon a certificate can only go to the fact that the man giving it is a practicing physician. He does not and cannot know anything about the particular case. During the inspection just closed a former Assistant Surgeon informed me that he had been called upon by a man who desired to be absent from inspection and who asked for a certificate that he was too ill to be present. The request was refused because the man was in perfect health. "But," the Doctor said, "he probably went to some doctor who was never in the National Guard and got his certificate." Regimental Surgeons are thus unwittingly made to approve certificates given by physicians who can see no harm in helping out a man whose family may be patients of his, and they do so without scruples.

Another point against the system in use this year is its unfairness to companies not located in a city or town in which there is a regimental medical officer. Numerous certificates were presented to me with the explanation that the Company Commander did not know of the man's illness until too late to send the certificate to a regimental medical officer for his approval. In Philadelphia, where the medical officers are in the same city with the regiment and where they are sufficiently numerous to meet any emergency, it works no hardship, but in the other Brigades most of the companies are at a decided disadvantage. I would therefore renew my recommendation that no man should be counted as present at an inspection who it is not actually present.

I again repeat a comment made in my report of last year: "In fully eighty per cent. of the companies the execution of 'Inspection Arms' was faulty. It is evident that instruction in this was put off until the last moment, and as a result it was bunglingly done on the occasion of the inspection." It is not creditable to the officers affected that the same errors occur after their attention has been once called to them.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM P. CLARKE,
Major and Inspector, Third Brigade, N. G. P.

Headquarters of the Division,

To the Inspector General, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Chester, Pa.:

Sir: I have the honor to report that in compliance with G. O. No. 1, A. G. O., January 6, 1905, I inspected the cavalry of the Division at their home stations, as follows:

Governor's Troop, Harrisburg, Pa., March 24th; Sheridan Troop, Tyrone, Pa., March 25th; Troop F, New Castle, Pa., April 3rd; Second Troop, Philadelphia, Pa., April 28th; Troop A, Philadelphia, Pa., May 2d, and the First Troop, Philadelphia, Pa., May 4th.

The inspections show considerable improvement in much of the work, particularly in the property of the Governor's Troop, and the Guard duty of the Sheridan Troop.

The property of Troop A was not up to last year's standard. The School of the Soldier, School of the Troop and Guard Duty of Troop F was below the standard, but this is a new organization, and was the first inspection. They did remarkably well. The Governor's Troop and Troop F are in the greatest need of quarters for the care of State property and drill. The Second Troop and Troop A are also badly in need of a proper place to keep their equipments, the Second Troop deserving the highest praise for their system and the condition of their equipment under the adverse conditions.

All of the Troops are in a thoroughly efficient condition. The First and Second Troops are in a particularly high state of efficiency in every respect, there being really no difference between them, though their marks differ slightly through some minor mistakes which were considered in comparison with each other.

Troop A, weak in property, which needs immediate attention, being short and much in bad condition. Governor's Troop made the best display of their equipment ever made by them, though there were still some articles not conveniently placed, and some not seen; their equipment is in good condition. Sheridan Troop has had considerable attention in their Guard Duty and drill since last year, and showed the effect. Troop F has much hard work before it, and should pay closer attention to the study of the drill regulations. Their condition, however, considering them as a new organization, is very satisfactory.

As far as I was able to judge, all the commissioned officers of the cavalry are perfectly efficient, and understood their duties; the non-commissioned officers, well instructed, with few exceptions, and the enlisted men, enthusiastic and earnest. The six troops making a perfectly efficient and in every way reliable body of cavalry.

Respectfully,

JOHN P. PENNEY,
Division Inspector, N. G. P.

The Inspector General, N. G. P., Chester, Penna:

Sir: Enclosed I send Inspection Report, Inspection Rolls and State Property Returns of Batteries B and C, N. G. P.

The Hutter Book of Battery C has not been kept. No account of moneys received appears in it. Captain Howard S. Williams commanding this Battery states that he only received a payment of $200 from the State and that Captain Bean, late commanding Battery, has not yet accounted to him for the moneys received by him. The abstract of orders in this Battery shows no dates, and enlistments produced are only those of men enlisted since last inspection. Many of the blanks in these papers have not been filled out. There was no record of revolver practice. The State Property was not arranged in the manner set forth in G. O. No. 1, c. s., A. G. O., and it was difficult to enumerate it.

The condition of Battery B was very good, but Battery C shows a lack of instruction in the rudiments of military training. It needs a school for the officers and primary instruction for the enlisted men.

Respectfully,

SHELDON POTTER,
Colonel and Chief of Ordnance.

General Orders,
No. 32.

Herewith is published for the information of all concerned the report of the Inspector General of Pennsylvania, giving the results of the Annual Inspection of the National Guard of Pennsylvania in the respective Brigade Encampments held during July, 1905.

There is also published herewith the reports made to the War Department by the following named officers of the U. S. Army, detailed for duty at the respective Brigade Encampments, in accordance with Section 19, of the Act of Congress, approved January 21, 1903, viz:

To First Brigade, Major Thaddeus W. Jones, Thirteenth U. S. Cavalry.
To Second Brigade, Major George Bell, Jr., First U. S. Infantry.
To Third Brigade, Major Henry H. Benham, Twenty-third U. S. Infantry.

The Commander-in-Chief urges upon all officers a careful reading of the several reports published herewith, and suggests that as far as possible, the enlisted men of the several commands be made acquainted with the criticisms and recommendations contained therein. This can be accomplished by having the reports read on a regular drill night at the close of the drill.

The reports indicate a great advancement along all lines, and should be an encouragement to still greater effort on the part of all, to still further advance the military institution of the State in proficiency and efficiency.

Commissioned officers should apply themselves closely in acquiring that knowledge of the U. S. Army Drill Regulations, and of command and administration generally, that will render them not only competent to command, but by their knowledge and soldierly bearing, secure for them the respect and confidence of their superior officers, as well as of the enlisted men, whose soldierly qualities are developed and manifested by the conduct and ability of those in authority.

Service in the National Guard has become so important, and its importance so fully recognized by the people, that incompetent officers cannot be permitted to remain in the service, or men lacking in the qualities that make a good soldier be permitted to enter the service.

The Commander-in-Chief congratulates the officers and men of the National Guard upon the excellence of the work already done, the high standard of efficiency attained, and urges all to further effort.

By order of SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.
THOMAS J. STEWART,
Adjutant General.

National Guard of Penn'a,
Office of Inspector General,
Chester, Pa., October 18, 1905.

Brig. General Thomas J. Stewart, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.:

Sir: In compliance with General Orders No. 7, Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania, A. G. O., series 1905, the Division National Guard of Pennsylvania was inspected at the encampments of the several Brigades, as follows:

First Brigade at Perkasio, July 13th.

Second Brigade at Erie, July 20th and 21st.

Third Brigade at Mt. Gretna, July 14th.

The time allotted for the Inspector General to be in the field was so limited, as to give but little opportunity for personal observation of the workings of the Guard, beyond the immediate duty in hand, namely: The inspection of arms and clothing, and even this duty was necessarily hurried, giving but little matter for official report based on personal knowledge.

The appearance of the several organizations was very satisfactory. It is highly gratifying to note marked improvement in the bearing of the men in ranks, evidencing increased attention to instruction in the School of the Soldier by both officers and men.

The arms were found in excellent condition. Out of nine thousand rifles, only eight were found in any manner defective, and each of these had but a single part broken or missing—a remarkable record. These parts were reported as having been lost or broken while in Camp, and with no extra equipment at hand, it was impossible to make repairs before inspection.

The requirement, as to drills, at this, as well as at the last Spring inspection, was confined to the Schools of the Soldier and Squad, for the purpose of calling attention of Commanding Officers to the absolute necessity for such training and to allow ample time for practice in same. The Inspector General would suggest that the troops be restricted in their study of the Drill Regulations, to these two subjects (nothing more, excepting Guard Duty, will be required at the Spring Inspection, 1906), until thoroughly grounded in the fundamental principles of the soldier, the maneuvering of larger units could then be conducted with a high order of military efficiency, alike interesting and profitable to men and officers. Owing to lack of time, no drills were exacted of the infantry organizations at this inspection.

This discipline of the various Commands of the Division, with few exceptions, is reported as exceptionally good.

The Inspector General feels compelled again to report little or no improvement in military courtesy. It is either not understood, or not given proper consideration by the instructor, and without it a proper Esprit de Corps is impossible. Quite frequently it was observed that the salute was omitted and in many cases, when given, was slovenly rendered, while men gaped at officers with expressions of surprise or of total indifference. Respect to superiors is indispensable to discipline. One of the first duties of the instructor of recruits is to clearly define what is meant by this respect. The man must be taught that in honoring his officer, he honors his organization and thereby pays respect to himself. To refuse this tribute to his officer is but to discredit himself. It should be remembered that the chevron and shoulder strap stand for something, always higher than those that wear them, and that something is entitled to and should command proper courteous recognition.

The hearing of men out of ranks is another matter that should receive the careful attention of the instructor. The soldier, when in uniform, is always representative, he stands for something other than himself; all eyes are upon him and he should carry himself in the most proper manner; his dress should be at all times neat and his conduct beyond reproach. To be a good soldier is to be a gentleman.

Colonel Edward Morrell, Judge Advocate General, under whose direction this inspection was made, reports as follows:

"A marked improvement was noticeable, where such was possible, in the condition of the books and papers, and an effort made to have on hand all that had been asked for at the previous inspection.

"As there seemed to be still some doubt in the minds of the Commanding Officers of the Organizations as to what books and papers were necessary to be produced, previous to the coming Annual Inspection, I respectfully suggest that a circular be issued, stating exactly what will be required to be presented to the Inspecting Officers.

"I desire to express my thanks and the thanks of the Officers who accompanied me, for the courtesy and attention which was accorded us by the Officers of the different Commands."

According to report of Major William P. Clarke, no material advancement has been made in Guard Duty. The Cavalry organizations were not rated in this duty, for the reason that but one man and a corporal constituted the daily detail for Guard of the Squadron attached to the First Brigade, and the inspector "not seeing his way clear to rate three troops of Cavalry upon the knowledge of two men," did not inspect the troops in the other brigades. The Inspector General cannot understand why the Guard of this Squadron was so limited. This Camp being one for instruction, and training in Guard Duty being of highest importance to the soldier, it would have seemed a most admirable opportunity for instruction in such duty, even though local conditions may not have made it necessary. More practical knowledge can be acquired upon this subject during the week in Camp than during the entire year in the armory.

The reports from the Medical Department upon sanitation are exceedingly gratifying. Colonel Joseph K. Weaver, Surgeon General, comments as follows:

"The general sanitary condition of all the Brigades was noticeably improved from previous years. There was more interest upon the part of Medical Officers, a greater co-operation upon the part of the Commanding Officers with the Medical Department, and more attention given to the duties of personal and Camp Hygiene. The Company streets were well policed; Company quarters well aired and orderly; mess tents clean and used only for mess purposes; kitchens were well placed, clean and neat; cooks neat and cleanly; drainage from spigots was good and the general air of order and neatness in rear of Regimental Camps was better than ever before. Crude oil and lime were used for deodorizing and disinfecting and served an excellent purpose.

"There is reason for great encouragement along sanitary lines. The Medical Officers are greatly interested, familiar with their duties, and anxious to excel in all sanitary matters. Hospital Corps were composed of intelligent, good looking, soldierly men, were well drilled and familiar with their duties."

Decided improvement was noted in the soldierly bearing of the several bands. The Drum Major is a most important factor in securing such results and effort should be made, in every instance, to command the services of one thoroughly competent for such duty. A well handled musical organization adds greatly to the tone and quality of a command. The music, as a rule, is good, in many instances, admirable, being characterized by fine instrumentation, excellent taste and superior execution.

The report of the Brigade Quartermasters upon detraining and entraining, making and breaking camps, general condition of Camps during the tour, and condition of camp grounds after the breaking of camps, show the Guard, in these particulars, to be in a very high state of efficiency. These reports are herewith given in full, in numerical order of Brigades, for the information and encouragement of the Guard.

First Brigade.

In compliance with item 10, par. 1, G. O. No. 17, c. s., A. G.O., I have the honor to make the following report:

"The advance details for the preparation of the camps of the First Brigade arrived at Perkasio on Thursday, July 6th, 8.50 A. M.; and from then until they joined their respective commands, on the arrival of the main body of the troops, their discipline was good in every respect and the duties for which they were detailed performed in a satisfactory and soldierly way.

Detraining, Etc.

"Headquarters and the infantry regiments arrived on the afternoon and night of the 7th and the cavalry squadron on the morning of the 8th.

"The movement was executed in a precise and military manner, leaving little to be desired and the discipline, during movement and departure of the troops for camp, excellent.

Making Camps.

"In general the erection of the canvas, the use of pins, the alignments of canvas and of the field ranges and grates was excellent; for the nature of the ground the interior drainage of the camps amply provided for, the hydrants on the pipe line of the infantry and those at the troughs of the cavalry carefully stoned and the drainage therefrom well ditched to the rear and away from the camps. In detail there were a number of exceptions to the above, the more noticeable of which, being as follows:

"In the First Regiment, the stables were not ditched.

"In the Sixth Regiment, there was an irregularity in the use of the different sized pins as was also the case in the alignments of pins, in some instances quite marked, and the stables were not ditched.

"In the Third Regiment, in many cases, but one line of pins were used in the interval between tents in the column, (the reason given being, that there were not enough pins provided), and a number of the mess tents were somewhat out of line.

"In the Second Regiment, in some instances, the tents in the column were a trifle irregular, affecting the alignments in several of the company streets, and a number of the Company officers' tents were not in their exact positions, (where it was possible to have placed them) and the stables were not ditched.

"In Troop "A," the stables were not ditched nor ditching carried to the rear from the hydrants at trough.

"In the Second Troop, the stables were not ditched nor ditching carried to the rear from the hydrants at trough.

"Besides what has already been noted, there are the following facts worthy of mention:

"In the Third Regiment, there were three dug out incinerating plants for the destruction of cans, bottles and other debris, one located in each battalion and in rear of the pipe line, and which added greatly to the policing facilities of this camp; that throughout the Brigade, shower baths were erected by many of the organizations, and added much to the comfort and health of the troops as well as a help in the instructions of cleanliness; and that in the cavalry there should be installed two hydrants, instead of one, to each troop, one for the general water supply and one for the horse trough, as the spigot at the trough is liable to be broken off by the horses unless so protected, that it makes its use most inconvenient for other purposes. One of these protective devices was noticed in the Second Troop, attention being called to it by the Quartermaster, and by him this recommendation was suggested.

Condition of the Camps During Tour.

"Never in the experience of the writer have the camps of the First Brigade presented so good an appearance for general neatness, cleanliness and order, from the Colonel's line down to the care and alignment of the garbage cans and through the line of sinks. There was a relative difference to be observed between organizations, but as one went through these camps it was impossible not to be struck with the military order and precision that prevailed.

"It is to be noted that a number of the companies of the Sixth Regiment were without kitchen tents, and while there is in this reference no reflection on the conditions as they existed, the general appearance of this rear line would have been improved had these tents been present; and it is here recommended that before the next encampment requisition be made, by these companies, for this necessary equipage.

"In reporting on the condition of the camps it should be noted that there was a decided difference in the sites on which the several organizations were located, and in the obstacles to be overcome, both in making and keeping. The sites on which the respective organizations of the infantry were encamped being relatively superior in the order following, the first named being the inferior.

"The Third and Second Regiments were on a gradual slope; the nature of the ground was quite uneven and broken and its surface extremely stony. In places well up in both camps were a slight growth of trees and at the foot of the slope was a wood, through which ran the line of sinks.

"The Sixth and First Regiments were on a gentle slope; the ground of the Sixth Regiment was a trifle uneven and somewhat stony and a light fringe of trees was in rear of and paralleled a portion of the line of pipe; the First Regiment being on ground comparatively unbroken and in every way superior for camping purposes.

"The cavalry squadron occupied a position somewhat inferior to the First Regiment but superior to that of the rest of the infantry.

Breaking Camp and Entraining.

"The breaking of the camps and departure of the troops was executed in a business like and military manner and throughout showed an excellent discipline; and was made with as much expedition as could possibly be expected considering the impedimenta carried and a wagon service of farmers, difficult to control, as the general movement was carried out within one hour of schedule time.

"In detail there is to be reported the following deficiencies: That there remained on the camp ground of the Sixth Regiment, after its departure, camp equipage as follows: Two hospital ridges, two hospital ridge extensions, six hospital uprights and one wall upright; as was also the case with the Second Regiment leaving behind its sixteen stable wall uprights.

"It is also to be noted that there remained on detail, in the freight yards at Perkaskie Station, after the departure of their respective organizations, one Lieutenant and six enlisted men of the Sixth Regiment; one Sergeant and twelve men of the Third Regiment, and one company of the Second Regiment; but as the freight yards were often in a state of congestion and in many cases the cars only able to be loaded from one side, it is thought advisable that no reductions in the ratings be made on account of these rear parties, as without doubt they were a means in the acceleration of the general movement, and of much advantage to their respective commands; and while it might have been better from a military standpoint (no G. O. having been issued for such details) to have accepted the delay and to have called in all fractions before these regimental movements took place, it nevertheless was a practical proceeding and enabled their main bodies to depart without loss of time and arrive at home stations at a more convenient hour.

"Attention has been called before to the great amount of impedimenta carried during our annual encampments and it is believed that it could be considerably cut down, without materially affecting the comfort or health of the troops; and it is here recommended that in future a definite allowance be made, limiting the amount of equipage and baggage to be carried.

"The Third Regiment this year tried the experiment of using the board floor throughout the command instead of the cot, so universally the custom in the Brigade and with, it is understood, satisfaction to the Regiment, (these board floors being built in adjustable sections at home station); but in lieu of the board floor or the cot, it is suggested that the bed sack might be used and a low grade of straw, hay, excelsior or other material be issued by the Quartermaster for the filling of these sacks on the arrival of the troops in camp, and where it is considered desirable to use the board floor a strip of canvas take its place.

"The elimination of the cot and the board floor when carried and the substitution of the bed sack and strip of canvas would not only save time and labor in the transportation, but an expense to the State in transportation, and whether it be in the column or officers lines, where the board floor is bought from the local merchant, an expense to organizations out of all proportion to the advantages derived, for so short a time and for that season of the year.

"In regard to the above suggestion, the bed sack has been used, for a number of years, by the First Troop, P. C. C., and by them found in every way practical and satisfactory, and the strip of canvas was observed by the writer in use by the Regular Army in one of the maneuver camps at Manassas last year.

"In relation to the above, it is deemed proper to cite that in conversation with the Commanding Officer of one of our Regiments, he stated that 'since the kitchen tent had become an established fact, throughout the Guard, he considered it advisable in our annual encampments, to do away with the company mess tents and to conform in all respects to the messing facilities in use in the U. S. Army; and in future to lay out our camps in strict accordance with Army Regulations; and would recommend that a practical test of his ideas be given by at least one of the several regimental organizations in each Brigade next summer.'

"If such experiment could be made and at the same time include with it the suggestions as to the board floor and cot, and prove successful, it can readily be seen what the result would be on the impedimenta, as well as on the cost of transportation, in a movement of any proportions.

Condition of Camps after Tour.

"After the departure of the troops the ground on which the encampment was held was thoroughly gone over and inspected. The condition of the various sites presented relative difference, but, on the whole, it was neat, scrupulously clean and well policed, with the exception of the following details:

"On the ground of the Sixth Regiment only one sink had been filled in, all of the rest having a few boards laid over them on which was spread a coating of earth, besides which on the various camp fires remained numerous cans and bottles.

"On the ground of the Second Regiment only one sink had been properly filled in, the rest having been only partially so with one sink left completely open, and numerous cans and bottles remained on the camp fires, and paper and other debris unincinerated was found in the woods in rear of and close to the line of sinks.

"On the outskirts of the ground occupied by the First Troop and in about the prolongation of the kitchen line was found a disorderly ring of debris unincinerated and the officers' sink, in rear of their line, only about three-quarters filled in.

"On the ground of Troop "A" and in and about the position occupied by the kitchen was found a small heap of little cans unincinerated.

"In the disposal of cans and bottles there evidently was not a thorough understanding by the various organizations as to the arrangements made, as all cans and bottles were to be included in and carted away with the garbage. However, in general, this debris was well provided for from a sanitary standpoint and heaped in gullies or in other out of the way places, at a sufficient distance from the camp; and in many instances much of its final disposition being made by depositing it in the sinks before filling in, on the breaking of the camps.

"The best disposition of this debris being made by the Third Regiment, by being burned and buried in the dug-out incinerating plants mentioned above.

"In closing this report I desire to pay a well deserved tribute to the several Quartermasters of the Brigade and take pleasure in stating that their many duties were performed in a most satisfactory and efficient manner.

Very respectfully,

THOMAS J. DOLAN,
Major and Quartermaster."

Second Brigade.

"I have the honor to herewith submit report on the efficiency of troops during the encampment at Erie, Pa., from July 15th to 22d, inclusive.

"It is impossible to rate the various organizations fairly on the movement into camp, on account of the terrible condition of the camp site caused by three days' rain just at the arrival of the details. Notwithstanding the many obstacles the camp was in good order by Friday afternoon.

"As usual the wagon transportation caused most of our trouble. The field was a swamp, into which wagons sunk to the hubs. The first day heavy baggage came in, we were compelled to put six horses on most of the wagons. One farmer came to me the day after and wished to put in a bill for a horse that died that evening, he claiming death was caused pulling through the mud. The camp, after the weather settled and mud disappeared, was one of the finest we ever had.

"I will report separately on each organization, as I could not take notes at all points personally, and I am compelled to take some data from the different Quartermaster's reports, which I directed to be sent to me. This caused the delay in submitting this report, as I have not yet received all reports.

"The Sixteenth Regiment detail on arrival at camp, was one minute in detraining. Their railroad coaches were carefully policed and were in excellent condition, in fact better than when received from the railroad. Freight and box cars were also policed. The Quartermaster reports the average time in detraining the companies at home, was one and one-half minutes. Time of detraining regiment on arrival at Erie, was two minutes. Time entraining, leaving Erie, three minutes. Camp grounds were in fine condition throughout tour after mud was tramped down. Canvas was pitched and camp in order when regiment arrived. Breaking camp was done in good order and on schedule time.

"Troop F Camp was at all times in excellent condition. Entrained men and horses at New Castle, July 14th, in forty minutes. Detrained and was in camp in one hour and forty minutes after arrival at Erie. Broke camp at 5:30 A. M., July 22d. First wagon moved 7:30. Troop was aboard at 8:45 ready to leave. This Troop moved in and out in the best of order without delay or accident.

"Sheridan Troop. This Troop did some of the best work in camp. Movement in and out being done quickly and without a hitch. Camp was always in fine condition. Time of detraining fifty-seven horses, which included shifting to get second and third cars in position, was eleven minutes. Started wagons to leave camp at 6.30 A. M., and were entrained and ready to leave at 8:13 A. M.

"The distance from Camp to railroad crossing is one and one-half miles. On arrival home it was raining heavily and time of detraining was not taken.

"Eighteenth Regiment. Condition of camp very good throughout. Part of their ground was very bad and swampy and hard to put in good shape. This Regiment consumed more time than any other two Regiments on account of bringing tent floors, which had to be hauled to and from camp; they brought about two car loads. Discipline in this Regiment was bad. The details sent to unload and load cars refused to work. The last tent floors loaded were handled by the commissioned officers. They left at 8:45 P. M., their schedule was 6 o'clock. Time detraining first section, on arrival at Erie, nine minutes, fifteen seconds. Second section, four minutes, fifty seconds. Time entraining first section, on leaving, fifty-nine seconds; second section, one minute, one second.

"Tenth Regiment. Camp grounds in fine shape throughout tour. Discipline excellent and details in good form and worked well. Were to leave Erie at 8 P. M., July 21st, but encountered the usual trouble with wagons. By threatening and coaxing, we succeeded in keeping enough at work to pull them out at 2 A. M., July 22d. Time detraining, four minutes, twenty seconds. Time entraining, three minutes.

"Battery B. Quartermaster sent in no report to me. Condition of camp ground very good throughout tour. Details were good and disciplined, if they had been properly officered. Movement in was very good, made promptly and in good order. In breaking camp and moving out all the officers except an inexperienced Lieutenant disappeared; he apparently did not know how to load and caused a delay of nearly two hours, which of course, blocked my whole schedule through the day by that much time.

"Fourteenth Regiment. Condition of camp very good, especially so considering the nature of the ground on which they camped. In places was a bad swamp. Discipline was very good. Details worked well but time could have been saved if the Quartermaster had used good judgment. He delayed the schedule one-half hour by holding canvas wagons until all were loaded, the consequence was as there is only one car door, his string of wagons had to wait, one wagon being unloaded at a time. Time detraining four minutes, forty seconds. The Quartermaster did not report time entraining or detraining on arrival at Pittsburg.

"Fifth Regiment. Quartermaster sent me no report. When this regiment moved in the grounds were in a terrible condition. On arrival of the regiment the next day it was decided to move the whole camp which was done. Camp was moved about seven hundred feet east. Discipline was first class; some of the men of detail worked all night in the mud keeping a few wagons going. Camp grounds after removal were in good condition throughout tour. Breaking camp and moving out and in was done in good order and promptly. Time detraining three minutes, forty-five seconds.

"In closing my report, I beg to say I regret very much that it is so incomplete. It was impossible for me to be at all trains to take time and I was compelled to depend on data from Quartermasters. This is the first report of the kind I have made to the Inspector and I hope the Quartermasters of the Brigade and myself will make a better one next camp.

"Trusting my report will be satisfactory to you, I have the honor to remain,

Your obedient servant,

LEWIS A. ANSHUTZ,

Major and Quartermaster, Second Brigade, N. G. P."

Third Brigade.

"I have the honor to report, in compliance with Item 10, of paragraph one, General Orders No. 17, Headquarters, N. G. P., A. G. O., Series 1905, as well as per your request of August 21st, A. D. 1905, that our Brigade encamped at Mount Gretna, Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, July 8th to 15th inclusive, on grounds specially adapted for that purpose, as to soil, drainage, and from a military standpoint in general.

"The camp was laid out under the old regulation, this owing to the formation of the ground, and was ready for occupancy by the troops immediately upon their arrival.

"The Brigade arrived in the following order:

"8th Regiment, 5.10 and 7.13 p. m., July 7, 1905.

"4th Regiment, 7.53 and 8.21 p. m., July 7, 1905.

"12th Regiment, 2.15 a. m., July 8, 1905.

"9th Regiment, 6.11 a. m., July 8, 1905.

"13th Regiment, 7.08 a. m., July 8, 1905.

"The different regiments were quickly detrained and marched to quarters, no regiment requiring a greater length of time than from 5 to 7 minutes for this purpose. I visited the quarters of the different regiments, daily, and always found the grounds thoroughly policed and the camp in good condition generally, with exception of proper disposition of garbage. This matter confronts us every year, and will continue so to do, until a permanent camping ground has been established with crematory, for the disposal of the garbage, erected thereon.

"On July 12th, I arranged for the return movement. I respectfully submit herewith, schedule showing the time set for departure and the actual time at which the different organizations departed:

"Ninth Regiment, scheduled, 9 A. M.; left, 10.09 A. M.; date, July 15.

"Thirteenth Regiment; scheduled, 10 A. M.; left, 11.25 A. M.; date, July 15.

"Twelfth Regiment, scheduled, 11 A. M.; left, 12.15 A. M.; date, July 15.

"Eighth Regiment, scheduled, 12 noon; left, 1.30 and 1.37 P. M.; date, July 15.

"Fourth Regiment, scheduled, 12 noon; left, 1.50, 2 and 2.30 P. M.; date, July 15.

"The difference in the time for leaving and actual departure of trains was not the fault of either the organization moved, or that of the railroad, but to the fact of the canvas being damp and delaying the striking of the tents of the Ninth Regiment fully forty-five minutes and disarranging the entire schedule. The movement was also, in a measure, delayed, by the breaking of an air hose on the train of the Twelfth Regiment. Taken as a whole, the entraining of the entire Brigade showed efficiency, and no time was lost by any command in entraining, after the order had been given so to do. I also wish to state that owing to the scarcity of wagons, credit is due to the entire command, by reason of their carrying lighter baggage to cars, thus greatly facilitating the return movement.

"Regarding the condition of the grounds, after departure, all were fairly well policed, except as to sinks; the entire command, with the exception of the Eighth Regiment, having failed to cover the same.

"All of which is respectfully submitted,

ORLANDO L. NICHOLS,

Major & Q. M., Third Brig., N. G. P."

Lieutenant Colonel John P. Penny states that the Cavalry is in a satisfactory condition and fully up to the standard of efficiency.

Colonel Sheldon Potter, Chief of Ordnance, being unable to visit all the camps owing to pressure of public duties, and deeming it advisable to have a complete rating of the artillery by one inspector, Major Samuel W. Jeffers, Inspector of the Second Brigade, was detailed for this duty; his report shows the two Batteries to be in creditable condition.

Major Charles H. Worman, Inspector of the First Brigade, who was detailed, in orders, to accompany the Third Brigade on its practice march, has made report on the same, and owing to the unusual character of the movement, it being chiefly experimental, I have deemed it expedient to submit it in full.

"In compliance with instructions contained in G. O. No. 17, Circular No. 2, c. s., A. G. O., and verbal instruction from you over the telephone, I reported at Headquarters of the Third Brigade on Saturday, July 8th, 1905, prepared to accompany the brigade upon the march scheduled for Monday morning, July 10th, 1905. Blue print maps of the routes to be traversed by the columns had been prepared by Frederic A. Snyder, Captain and Aide-de-Camp. The objective point was Bellaire, Pa., distant by the North route, 8 miles, and by the South route, 10¼ miles. The north column, so designated under command of Colonel C. B. Dougherty, took up the line of march from Mt. Gretna, Pa., at 8.25 o'clock A. M., July 10th, with a platoon of the Governor's Troop in advance, followed by the Ninth Regiment Infantry—one battalion in advance guard formation, without the necessary flankers, owing to the fact that the column was required to keep to the road and not trespass upon property along the route; 3 sections Battery C; Fourth Regiment Infantry; Thirteenth Regiment Infantry, and wagon train, one battalion of the Thirteenth Regiment Infantry acting as rear guard. The south column, under command of Colonel C. M. Clement, was over an hour late in getting started, owing to the absence of the necessary wagons. This difficulty was finally adjusted and the column took up the line of march with a platoon of the Governor's Troop in advance, followed by the Twelfth Regiment Infantry, with one battalion in advance guard formation, 3 sections Battery C, Eighth Regiment Infantry and wagon train, one battalion of Eighth Regiment acting as rear guard. At about 10.15 A. M., General Gobin and staff took up the line of march, following the south column, overtaking and passing the column, until we struck the Lawn road and followed that road until we reached the road being traveled by the north column. It was not long before we overtook and passed the north column, which was apparently in good condition. I noticed as we passed along the columns that upon a halt being made the men would leave the ranks for the near-by pump, very many filling their stomachs with too much cold water and eventually paying the penalty for the indiscretion. Providentially the number of men unfitted for duty was exceedingly small when we consider the temperature and other conditions prevailing. After a very pleasant and easy ride of about two hours and one-half, General Gobin and Staff arrived at Bellaire, Pa., and headquarters were established in a large meadow, splendidly adapted for a bivouac of a body of troops the size of a brigade, with plenty of good water for drinking and cooking purposes, as well as facilities for watering the horses of the cavalry, artillery and wagon trains. The Conewago creek flowing through the adjoining field afforded facilities for bathing also. At about 2.30 P. M., Colonel Dougherty reported to General Gobin that he had made proper disposition of his troops and awaited the arrival of Colonel Clement, who reported about an hour later, when General Gobin announced the problem solved and ordered the troops into bivouac. As to the number of rests made during the march, I am unable to say whether regulations were complied with or not. Be that as it may, I am satisfied that sufficient rest and at proper intervals of time were had by each column. This view is sustained by the fact that the men entered camp in excellent shape, with little or no straggling both going and returning. Each regiment as it came in was assigned its place in column of companies facing nearly east. After stacking arms the companies proved shelter tent intervals and inside of twenty to thirty minutes the tents were properly aligned and pitched, and before retreat all were under canvas, fires started and suppers cooked. In the meantime officers and men took advantage of the close proximity of the Conewago creek and enjoyed the pleasure of a cold plunge after the hot, dusty march. It was a beautiful sight as the eye roamed over that vast expanse of khaki colored canvas, partaking as it did of real campaigning such as would occur in war time, and I regret very much that a photograph of the bivouac was not provided for. No outpost duty was required through the night. A camp guard was established by each regiment. It was not long after supper before all sought the soft side of their blanket and soon silence reigned supreme. All were astir bright and early on the morning of July 11th. Colonel Dougherty's column left at 7.30 A. M., taking the south route with a platoon of the Governor's Troop in advance; Fourth Regiment Infantry, 3 sections Battery C., Thirteenth Regiment Infantry, wagon train, and Ninth Regiment Infantry. Colonel Clement's column, through the slow movement of Colonel Dougherty's column, was unable to move off at the appointed time. He, after a delay of about one and one-half hours, moved over the north route, with a platoon of the Governor's Troop in advance, Eighth Regiment Infantry, 3 sections Battery C, wagon train, and Twelfth Regiment Infantry. The advance and rear guard formation minus the flankers being maintained by both columns. At about 10 A. M., General Gobin gave the command to mount and pursuing a different route from the columns, after a very pleasant ride of some two hours we arrived at Fountain Head field, where it was intended to bivouac the command for the night, but upon investigation, finding the water supply would not be adequate, General Gobin decided to move back on the rifle range and go into bivouac for the night, knowing that the spring would be adequate to supply all the water necessary for drinking and cooking and the creek running across the range would supply ample water for the horses of the command. After arriving on the rifle range and several of the regiments had erected their shelter tents, General Gobin decided to continue the retrograde by taking the Brigade back to Mt. Gretna camp that night, and return in the morning to the rifle range for battle manoeuvres; this was carried out, arriving back in camp at 7.30 P. M. in good shape, very much pleased and satisfied with the march.

"The feasibility of a march across country for future use in the Guard does not impress me very favorably, from the fact that unless a command could have undisputed right of way over the country traversed, nothing of a practical character is learned. Where the column or columns would be debarred from exercising properly and fully in the advance and rear guard, extended order and outpost duty, together with other field manoeuvres, nothing of an instructive character would be learned by any one. A mere march across country would simply resolve itself into a test of physical endurance, teaching the participants little, if anything, relative to the real duty of the soldier. Those deriving any knowledge from a march would possibly be the Quartermaster, Commissaries and Medico's. They would probably meet with varied propositions such as parking wagon train, issue of rations, etc. In the first place the men are not given the opportunity to exemplify the advance and rear guard duty imposed and required of troops passing through an enemy's country, or that portion occupied by an enemy, extended order, in which the men could and would receive practical instruction, conforming to drill regulations, if they were unrestricted as to territory—and so without post duty. Therefore, when the requirements of the drill regulations could be exemplified over unrestricted territory then, and only then, will the march be of any practical value.

"If in the course of events a mobilization of our troops should be required, in these modern days the railroad and steamship lines would play an important part, and march in column would, in all probability, take place with a real enemy in front, and all the requirements for the safety and protection of the troops would be adhered to. Our annual camps are established for the purpose of developing in a practical way, the theory of the drill taught the men at their home stations, and in grounding our troops in the fundamental principles of the drill regulations, they will be thoroughly competent to do all the marching in column, exemplifying their knowledge whenever the exigencies should arise.

"I desire to convey to the officers of the Third Brigade my sincere thanks for the many courtesies received.

Respectfully,

CHARLES H. WORMAN,
Major and Inspector."

The tactical demands of the movement do not appear to have been fully met, because the troops were confined to the public roads, thereby preventing the proper disposition of the forces when in an enemy's country. In the judgment of the Inspector General, the "practice march" is deserving of serious consideration at the hands of the authorities of the State, as it gives opportunity for some development beyond the experience offered in a fixed camp, but he is of the opinion that the highest results in the training of National Guardsmen will be attained only when the State controls a camp site of sufficient area to admit of field operations of extended character. Then, too, an addition of but two or three days to the present camp period would increase the efficiency of the Guard to a surprising degree, for the reason that the men at large require four or five days to get "into harness," so to speak, and when about ready for field work in tactical problems, tents are struck and troops entrained for home.

In the selection of a permanent camp site the Inspector General thinks that either a large body of pure fresh water, or a running water course of generous proportions, would be of great advantage in way of personal enjoyment, as well as of physical benefit to the guardsman.

In closing the report, the Inspector General would invite special attention to the suggestions and recommendations of the various officers, all of which are worthy of careful consideration. He also desires to thank you, Sir, also the Officers of the Division, for the generous and courteous treatment of the Officers of this Department at all times.

Very respectfully,

FRANK G. SWEENEY,
Inspector General.

War Department,
The Military Secretary's Office,
Washington, September 12, 1905.

The Adjutant General, State of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg:

Sir: By direction of the Acting Secretary of War, I have the honor to hand you herewith a copy of the report rendered by Major Thaddeus W. Jones, Thirteenth United States Cavalry, of his tour of duty with the First Brigade of the organized militia of Pennsylvania, during the annual encampment held at Perkasio, Bucks county, Pennsylvania, from July 8 to 15, 1905.

Very respectfully,

W. P. HALL,
Military Secretary.

1 inclosure.

Fort Myer, Va.,
August 25, 1905.

The Military Secretary, Washington, D. C.:

(Through the Commanding General, Atlantic Division.)

Sir: I have the honor to state that in compliance with Special Orders No. 73, Headquarters Atlantic Division, June 22, 1905, I attended the encampment of the First Brigade, organized militia of the State of Pennsylvania, from July 8 to July 15, 1905, and in compliance with the requirements of the Act of Congress cited in the order, I submit the following report:

As directed in my orders I first proceeded to Harrisburg, where I reported in person to the Governor and was by him referred to the Adjutant General of the State for consultation. The latter informed me that the encampment this year being by brigades the details of instructions were left to the brigade commanders, but that the site selected for the encampment of the First Brigade being in a thickly settled agricultural country, extended field exercises would be impossible without giving rise to claims for damages which could not be met.

From Harrisburg I proceeded to Perkasio and to the camp, about one-half mile from the railroad station, arriving there about three o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, July 7, and finding the Brigade Commander and his staff already in camp. I also found a provost guard on duty in the town, a company of infantry having been ordered in advance of the other troops for the purpose.

The troops composing the brigade, except the company just referred to, arrived at various times Friday night and Saturday morning, all the infantry being in a few minutes after twelve o'clock Friday night, and the cavalry arriving between nine and eleven o'clock Saturday morning.

1. The Brigade, commanded by Brigadier General John W. Schall, is composed of the First Infantry, Colonel Wendell P. Bowman, the Second Infantry, Colonel Robert C. H. Brock, the Third Infantry, Colonel William G. Price, the Sixth Infantry, Colonel James B. Coryell, and the squadron of three troops of Cavalry, commanded by Captain John C. Groome; First Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, the force aggregating 222 officers and 3,049 enlisted men. A return of the troops is appended and marked "A."

2. The command was transferred entirely by railroad from stations to camp, and (with the exception of one company referred to hereinafter) returning from camp to stations. The movement was under control of the Brigade Commander, who designated only the time at which the troops would be required in camp, leaving the details of the movement to regimental commanders. All organizations of the brigade, except two battalions of the Sixth Infantry, are stationed in Philadelphia. Organizations were assembled at rendezvous for the purpose of proceeding to camp. The First Infantry at Broad and Callowhill streets, the Second Infantry at Broad and Diamond streets, the Third Infantry at Broad and Wharton streets, the Sixth Infantry headquarters and Philadelphia battalion at Twentieth street and Montgomery avenue. One battalion of the Sixth Infantry stationed south of Philadelphia, companies B and C at Chester, I at West Chester, and H at Media, concentrated at Philadelphia, and proceeded with headquarters and Philadelphia battalion, B and C moving by P. and R. R. direct to Broad and Huntington streets, and I and H, by Pa. R. R. to Philadelphia, thence by P. and R. R. from Reading Terminal to Broad and Huntington streets, where their cars were attached to train with the other companies of the battalion. The companies of the remaining battalion of the Sixth Infantry are stationed north of Philadelphia. A at Pottstown, D at Phoenixville, F at Norristown and G at Doylestown. A was detailed as provost guard and proceeded in advance to Perkaskie. A train for the regimental band and the other companies of the battalion started from Royersford with the band, stopped at Phoenixville for Company D, at Norristown for F and at Lansdale for G, (which had arrived by Doylestown Branch P. and R. R.), thence to Perkaskie. The three troops of cavalry proceeded separately from Philadelphia to Perkaskie. Each regiment of infantry moved in two sections. The average time per section from Philadelphia to Perkaskie was about one and three-fourths hours. The first section with infantry left Philadelphia about nine o'clock p. m., on the 7th, and the last section arrived at Perkaskie about 12.08 a. m., on the 8th. The first troop of cavalry left Philadelphia about 6.30 a. m., on the 8th, and the last troop arrived at Perkaskie about 10.50 a. m., same date. Men were detrained from the infantry sections in from two minutes for the quickest to six minutes for the slowest. The men of the cavalry troops in from one and one-half minutes to three and one-half minutes. The horses were unloaded from one stationery chute in twenty-three minutes for the quickest troop and in thirty-seven and one-half for the slowest, counting from the time the men were detrained and making no allowance for preparation or moving cars.

3. The encampment was by brigade and for a period of eight days. It was located near Perkaskie, Bucks county, Pa., on a branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, thirty-six miles by rail from Philadelphia. The site of the encampment may be reached by steam and electric railways and by turnpike. The tract of private land on which the encampment was located consists of about 225 acres, but about 25 acres were not available for encampment purposes this year on account of cultivation. No permanent buildings have been erected in connection with the encampment. The ground is sufficient for the encampment of a brigade, for ceremonies and drills in close order and for drill of a regiment and smaller bodies in extended order, but extended field manoeuvres from a summer encampment here are out of the question, as the surrounding country is thickly settled and cultivated. No body of troops larger than a brigade could be accommodated on this tract without infringing on ground necessary for drills and ceremonies. The camp was made by advance details from each company. A major of the line was detailed in charge of these details. These details, the Brigade Quartermaster and Brigade Commissary, the former to supervise the construction of the camp and both to make arrangements for the delivery of supplies, preceded the troops to camp several days. The tents were well pitched and their alignment was excellent. The conformation of the ground lends itself to an encampment of this size, and every advantage was taken of the conformation. All of the ground is sufficiently rolling to drain well. That most suitable for drills and ceremonies was left open for those purposes, and the regimental camps were so located that there was in every case a continuous and nearly uniform slope from the headquarters tents down to the line of sinks. The drainage in the cavalry camp was not quite so good as in the others. Camp was broken by regiments successively, (see G. O. No. 7, Headquarters, First Brigade, 1905, appended and marked B). No regular troops attended the encampment.

4. There was a good and sufficient supply of water, which was piped into camp by the town of Perkasié. Such of the garbage as could conveniently be disposed of in that way was burned at the kitchen fires. The remainder was placed in covered metallic garbage cans and removed from the camp by contract. There was no sewer system. Sinks were prepared before the arrival of troops in camp. They consisted of pits about 16 feet long, 8 feet deep and 4 feet wide, with broad seats and urinals, covered and, for privacy, surrounded by a light muslin screen on uprights. The pits were not darkened and the seats were without covers. The sinks were on the same flank as the kitchens, but were on lower ground and some 25 or 30 yards distant. Sinks and garbage cans were disinfected by the use of crude petroleum and quick lime. The former floats on any other liquid that may be present and seems to perfectly exclude flies, as none were observed at any time in the vicinity of the sinks. Drinking water was not boiled.

5. Each man took to camp his arms and belt, blanket-bag, suit of fibre-dyed duck and extra pair trousers, change of underclothing, leggings, campaign hat, shoes, overcoat, blanket, mess kit, tin cup and canteen.

6. The troops were subsisted by the State. The articles of the army ration were purchased by contract and issued, (see G. O. No. 4, Headquarters First Brigade, 1905, appended and marked C). The issues and purchases were made by the Brigade Commissary. Each company had a separate mess. The food was well prepared by men enlisted as cooks.

7. It is impossible to give even approximately the number of drills. The day, except two hours at noon, was put in on drills of various kinds. The Brigade Commander fixed the hours for their commencement mornings and afternoons. Previous to Thursday, the 13th, most attention was given, in the infantry, to the school of the soldier and the school of the squad in preparation for the inspection of the Brigade by the Inspector General, (see G. O. No. 17, Headquarters, National Guard of Penna., 1905, appended and marked D). After Thursday some practice was had in advance guard duty. Extended field exercises were impracticable for reasons herein before given. The ceremonies were daily guard mounting in each regiment, brigade parade on Sunday and Friday, brigade review on Thursday for the Division Commander, separate regimental parades every day except Sunday, Thursday and Friday, when they were replaced by the brigade parades and review noted above, and inspections lasting through the entire day on Thursday. There was also Escort of the Color in one regiment. In the inspections the Inspector General inspected every company of the four regiments of infantry on company parade grounds, as well as the field staff, non-commissioned staff, band and hospital corps of each regiment. The inspections commenced about seven o'clock in the morning and were completed about seven o'clock in the evening, with a short intermission for dinner and another for brigade review. The inspector was accompanied throughout this inspection by the Division Commander and such of his staff as were not occupied in other duties. The Governor and the Adjutant General of the State were also present at this inspection and at the review for the Division Commander. The cavalry was inspected by the Division Inspector. An inspection of books and papers by the Judge Advocate General, and another by the Inspector of the Third Brigade to determine efficiency in the performance of guard duty, were being made at the same time. (See G. O. No. 17, Headquarters, National Guard of Penna., 1905, appended and marked D). Inspections as above are made throughout the division by the same inspectors and the results are included in making a comparative rating as to the efficiency of the different organizations and the result published from the Headquarters, National Guard of the State. (As an example see G. O., No. 20, Headquarters, National Guard of Penna., 1905, appended and marked E, giving the results of the spring inspections). No practice marches were made except that of Company G, Second Infantry (commanded by Captain John T. Hughes, a veteran of the Civil war) which left camp at 8.10 p. m., on Friday, the 14th, with three officers and fifty enlisted men and arrived at the regimental armory in Philadelphia at 1.03 p. m., July 15th, having marched a distance of forty-two miles. The entire command of three officers and fifty men completed the march.

The different organizations of the Brigade showed fair proficiency in all the drills I witnessed. At the beginning of the encampment some men showed lack of confidence and hesitancy in their movements. The Brigade Commander estimates that nearly one-third of the enlisted men are new at the beginning of each annual encampment. This comes about by reason of a prescribed minimum strength of companies at encampment and the fact that enlistments are generally put off to the last moment to comply with this requirement. This drawback has been alleviated by an order prohibiting first enlistments within the month immediately preceding encampment, but there probably still appear in camp a great many men who have had at best but four or five evening drills and who are put in ranks from the beginning of the encampment. By the end of the encampment the movements of the men were steady and the steps confident. In the ceremonies the improvement was very marked. Those in the latter part of the encampment would have been excellent except for the errors of a few individuals. Some officers and guides showed inaccurate judgment of intervals. In the march past in review some guides did not follow accurately in trace. Several companies would march past in excellent shape and then would follow one in which an officer held his saber pointing almost directly to the right in making the salute; or, an officer would be seen while at the "present" with his saber hand on the hip, assuming a very awkward position, instead of having the arm extended; or, a mounted officer would execute the "present" holding his saber hand in front of the thigh instead of behind it; or some of the men in the rear rank of a company would fail to turn their heads distinctly to the right at the command "Eyes Right;" or, a company commander would give the command "Eyes Right" long before getting within six paces of a point directly in front of the reviewing officer; or, would pass much more than six paces beyond before giving the command "Front." Guard mountings were very good.

I did not see as much of the cavalry as I would have liked to. I saw something of the squadron every day either at drills or ceremonies, sometimes at both. Nearly all the horses were gaited and seemed to be accustomed to ranks. In the beginning a few did not stand straight and a few did not march straight in ranks. Near the end of the encampment I saw the squadron pass the reviewing officer at the trot, with good alignments, uniform touch of stirrup, every horse straight in ranks, at the regulation eight mile gait and with but three horses in the squadron at the gallop.

8. The commissioned personnel of the brigade is of the very best material. It is composed generally of men of high intelligence and education, of nearly all professions and lines of business in civil life. The most punctilious courtesy was observed among the officers. The Brigade Commander is a veteran of the Civil War, in which he held the rank of Colonel and commanded a brigade. He held the same rank and exercised the same command in the troops organized for the Spanish-American War. He has balance, quick and accurate judgment, and commands smoothly and well. His staff was evidently chosen among other things for capacity for and willingness to work. One of his aides has had regular service. There are several other veterans of the Civil War in the organized militia of the State, some of them high in rank, and to them and repeated tours of field service, I believe is due the somewhat distinctive air of business, in contradiction to show, observable in the military force. The conduct of the enlisted men was good. There were numerous lapses in military courtesy among them, but I think principally among the men new to the camp and to the service. The careful and correct observance by most of the enlisted men of the forms of courtesy showed that instruction in the matter had been given. Nearly all the enlisted men are young, and, judging only from their appearance and the test of endurance given them in camp, they are physically qualified for service. The minimum age limit authorized for enlistment is eighteen years.

9. Guard duty was generally well and correctly performed. I judge from this that officers, non-commissioned officers and sentinels were well instructed. Occasional instances were observed of sentinels not walking their posts in a military manner, but all seemed to be constantly on the alert. I saw no instruction in outpost duty.

10. No target practice was held in camp. The system of instruction and classification in the division is thorough. (See G. O. No. 5, Headquarters, National Guard of Penna., 1905, appended and marked F). The State awards medals for excellence. The record book of the Sixth Infantry, the only one examined by me, which was kept by Major E. C. Goddard, Ordnance Officer of the Brigade, formerly Inspector of Rifle Practice of the Sixth Infantry, is a model of system and neatness. There was no range at camp. The range for the brigade is near Philadelphia and easily accessible for all organizations. Any man of the brigade failing to practice is subject to discharge.

11. Each company took to camp:

Company Roll Book.	} Combined under one cover and called the Company Record Book.
Record of Drills, etc.
Property Book.
Record of Rifle Practice.
Order Book.
Enlistment and Descriptive Book.
Retained Quarterly Returns.
Morning Report Book.
Sick Report Book.
Files of orders.

Each regiment had all the books required by regulations, except the Regiment Fund Book, and the brigade all the books necessary for keeping complete records. As far as my observation extended, officers had a correct idea of correspondence, and officers and enlisted men charged with keeping records had a correct knowledge of methods of keeping them.

12. Not having been called upon to do so, I gave no practical instruction. I gave information whenever called upon, and the Brigade Commander requested me to point out mistakes and irregularities whenever observed. This I did of course, except in a few instances, when calling his attention would have been inopportune. I found however that few mistakes made in his presence escaped his observation. The officers generally are supplied with text books and study them intelligently. They are more in need of practice than instruction.

13. The troops of the State are formed into one division of three brigades. The cavalry and artillery are attached to brigades, three troops of cavalry being attached to the First Brigade.

The camp was thoroughly policed in the beginning and was kept in a clean and sanitary condition throughout. With the attention given by the troops and the system of inspections maintained by the medical department there is no reason why the camp could not have been kept in a healthy condition indefinitely. There was a regimental hospital for each regiment with a staff of competent surgeons under the direction of the Chief Surgeon of the Brigade. Twelve men in each regiment were enlisted as hospital corps. Each hospital was provided with an ambulance and necessary litters, cots, medicines and dressings and instruments. The provisions for dieting the sick and messing the hospital corps men varied greatly in the different regiments, depending apparently almost entirely upon the efforts in this direction of the surgeon in charge. These arrangements in the Sixth Infantry, Major Herbert A. Arnold, in charge, were exceptionally good and complete. There was no sickness in camp worthy of note.

In the Second Regiment there was a signal class of two lieutenants and twenty enlisted men under Captain Francis. Instruction was given in sending and receiving by flag, heliograph, telegraph and telephone, and in the construction of telegraph and telephone lines.

Quartermaster supplies for the camp were furnished by contractors under bond, the contracts being let by the brigade quartermaster. Ice was delivered at railroad siding and brought to camp by regimental and squadron wagons. Hay was delivered in the same way. Grain was delivered in camp by the contractor. Wood was delivered at kitchens cut in convenient lengths for stoves. For wagon transportation in and about the camp, civilian teams were contracted for.

The organization, instruction and discipline of the troops, their equipment, the system of furnishing supplies, and the papers, books and records conform as nearly as conditions admit to methods prescribed for troops in the service of the United States. In the uniform, which is manufactured by the State, the coat and trousers of the field uniform for the enlisted men are of a drab colored duck, stiffer than need be and not the best color. The Adjutant General of the State informed me that a change is contemplated.

During my visit at the camp, after announcing my mission to give, when requested, instruction and information to the best of my ability, I tried carefully to avoid any semblance of making inspections except when invited. I was invited to make more inspections than I had time for, and if there was anything in connection with the encampment I was not invited to inspect or witness, I am sure the omission arose from a desire not to overburden or annoy me.

On my arrival I was assigned to a tent adjoining that of the Brigade Commander, made a guest at his headquarters and in every way, directly and indirectly, throughout the encampment, made to feel my welcome.

I wish to close this report with an expression of my thanks to all the officers with whom I came in contact for their courtesy and a most grateful acknowledgement to the Brigade Commander and his staff not only for their delightful entertainment, but also for their thoughtful kindness shown in many ways.

Very Respectfully,

T. W. JONES,
Major, 13th Cavalry.

War Department,
The Military Secretary's Office,
Washington, August 24, 1905.

The Adjutant General, State of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg:

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 22d instant, with reference to your being furnished with copies of the reports of the United States Army officers detailed for duty at the brigade encampments of the organized militia of Pennsylvania, and to inclose a copy of the report rendered by Major George Bell, Jr., First Infantry, in relation to the encampment of the Second Brigade, and a copy of the report rendered by Major Henry H. Benham, of the Twenty-third Infantry, in relation to the encampment of the Third Brigade. Major Jones has not yet rendered his report of the First Brigade encampment.

These reports are furnished for the information of the military authorities of Pennsylvania, and such use may be made of them as is considered proper.

Very respectfully,

Fort Porter, N. Y., August 3, 1905.

The Military Secretary, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.:

(Through Headquarters Atlantic Division.)

Sir: I have the honor to report that pursuant to Par. 2, Special Orders, No. 74, c. s., Headquarters Atlantic Division, I left my station on the evening of July 11th, 1905, and proceeded to Harrisburg, Pa., to carry out the provisions of that order but as both the Governor of Pennsylvania and the Adjutant General were absent from the city, received at the office of the latter an idea of the work expected and was notified that troops of Second Brigade would reach Erie, Pa., on 14th, so reported there to Brigadier General J. A. Wiley, Commanding Second Brigade and "Camp C. S. W. Jones" about 4 P. M., on that date to find all troops had arrived, except one troop of Cavalry, which reached camp about 7 P. M. I reported in person at the camp on July 20th to the Governor, finding that his desires were also those of General Wiley.

Until July 21st, the only instructions received by me from the War Department were those contained in my orders, but upon that date a copy of "Instructions for officers detailed under section 19, Act of January 21, 1903," was received.

1. A return of troops attending the camp, with names of Commanding Officers, is attached and marked "A."

2. The command reached camp and left it by rail but marched to station at either end of journey. The movement to camp was under control of Regimental Staff. Fifth and Tenth regiments were each assembled by rail and brought to camp as a regiment. The Sixteenth, composed of companies from adjacent towns, assembled at camp but left station for home in two sections, which were further divided by railroad at proper time. Other organizations, including Fourteenth and Eighteenth regiments, both from Pittsburg, were from one place, so did not need a rendezvous. The entraining of troops, except the Eighteenth Regiment, was watched and was exceedingly well done, except in case of Battery B, which was very badly handled, as both the Captain and senior First Lieutenant were absent at the time when their services were greatly needed. This command was scheduled to leave at 8 A. M., with Troop F, and although the troop was ready at 8.30, delay being caused by wagons not reporting as early as ordered, the battery was not on board until shortly before train pulled out at 10.45 A. M. Absence of experienced officers when most needed caused unnecessary delay of at least an hour and a half, and delayed all other organizations leaving that day. The general return movement was under the direction of Major Anshutz, Brigade Quartermaster, who impressed me as an excellent Quartermaster. He had some difficulty in getting his teamsters, who were all hired in the vicinity, to report when ordered and was also badly hampered in the variety of wagons obtainable, as some could only carry a very small load. Much better results would be obtained if State owned its wagons and hired teams. Arrangements at station made it extremely difficult and in most cases impossible for one person to time entrainment, but entire Tenth Regiment entrained at night in the dark in less than three minutes, the Sixteenth Regiment in the afternoon entrained one section in about one and one-half minutes and other in about two minutes and fifty seconds. The Sheridan Troop from Tyrone, Pa., reported a detraining of sixty-two horses in ten minutes, and entrainment in fourteen. This troop was well handled and loaded and unloaded two cars (all the platform permitted) at a time. Troop F, a new organization, entrained fifty-five horses in thirty minutes, loading but one car at a time.

3. Encampment was by brigade from July 14th to 22nd, except in case of Fifth Regiment, which left at about 6 P. M. on the 21st. The Tenth also broke camp the same evening. Camp, however, was not officially opened until 8 A. M. of July 15th, 1905. It was located about four miles east of Erie, Pa., on the Electric Road from Erie about one mile from the spur of the railroad, which enabled trains to be handled by Pennsylvania or Lake Shore or their connections. It had an area of about fifty acres but about one hundred were available for camp and drill grounds. There were no permanent buildings as ground was rented and furnished to State for this encampment only by citizens of Erie. It was available only for maneuvers of simplest description but was plenty large enough for drill purposes for all the troops present. The camp was pitched by advance detachments before my arrival, but was taken down by the troops before they left. The enlisted men occupied "A" wall tents with flies and many of the tents, especially where ground was bad, were floored. Many, but not all, of the organizations had cots and it would only be following the example of the U. S. Government towards its troops in the Islands, if the State furnished canvas cots for all its men and stored them with its tentage at Harrisburg as it is not always possible to find lumber for floors even where expense to individuals is not considered. The system of storing all the tentage in the State Arsenal at Harrisburg, works exceedingly well, and it is a great saving to the State for all canvas before being stored away is repaired, examined and dried if necessary. Only the company mess tents are left with the companies, but these are large enough for entire company if necessary, and can be easily carried in same car with troops. Every piece of canvas and every pole is carefully marked with name of organization and letters showing what it is. It is not necessary to overhaul and open canvas to find, for instance, a wall fly or a hospital fly, etc. All tentage belonging to an organization is stored by itself and there is not the slightest trouble to procure it at once if necessary.

No regular troops participated.

4. The water supply was that of the City of Erie, as the mains were tapped and water conveyed all over camp by pipes upon the surface of the ground, with a plentiful supply of hydrants. The garbage in some of the regiments was burned and in others hauled off and buried. There was no sewer system, but sinks were used. These were on same side of camp with cook houses, but none nearer than about thirty yards, some much further. Sinks and garbage receptacles were disinfected by a liberal use of crude oil, while lime was freely used upon surface of ground when necessary. All the officers of the Medical Department, under charge of the Brigade Surgeon, were most particular in their inspections, and nothing was omitted from a sanitary point of view, as great care was exercised in calling attention to carelessness of cooks and others. The police of camp was very good. I do not believe water was boiled.

5. Troops wore the French gray canvas clothing issued by the State and some also had a suit of the regular army dress uniform. The ordinary field equipment and mess kits were used. Overcoats, blankets and ponchos were carried on the packs. The company mess outfit was quite complete and is very similar to that used by the army. The State canvas uniform, I was told by the Adjutant General, will hereafter be used for fatigue purposes, and next year the khaki uniform as worn in the regular service will be issued. The uniforms are manufactured in the State Arsenal in Harrisburg, as is also all the tentage.

6. The troops were subsisted by company and band messes, using army rations issued direct to each by the Brigade Commissary. The food was prepared in each company by regularly enlisted men, on field ranges of army pattern. The system of issue, while not exactly like that in use in regular service, is near enough, most practical, and for new troops well adapted for use as it prevents troops suffering through ignorance of company officers of proper paper work.

The ration was not exactly like that used in the regular army, but practically so. The following is extract of an order issued from Adjutant General's Office, and explains itself:

"IX. Brigade Commissaries will, under the direction of the respective Brigade Commanders, make contracts for subsistence, adhering to the ration table of the U. S. Army, with such minor changes as the season and condition warrant or permit.

"The issue of rations must be full and adequate, and no expenditure of money from the Annual Allowance Account for additional subsistence stores, except in case of advance details, will be approved.

"Contracts for subsistence stores, after proper competitive bids have been received, will be made in duplicate and both copies forwarded to the Commissary General for action thereon, and if approved, one copy will be returned and one copy forwarded to the Adjutant General's office. Contracts will provide that subsistence stores be delivered, freight prepaid at location of encampment."

Troops were issued rations for eight days. Fresh beef was issued five days, ham two days, and fresh fish and eggs (three-quarters of a pound of fish and four eggs per man) one day. Beans six days, and cheese (twelve pounds per one hundred rations) two days. Potatoes and onions as per army ration, also half pound of cabbage to each man for one day and tomatoes (six gallons per one hundred rations) three days. Soft bread (excellent quality, loaves eighteen ounces each) eight days. Each organization was given twenty-five pounds of flour and also twenty gallons of pickles, part sweet and part sour. Prunes were issued three days and evaporated peaches two (both at rate twelve pounds per one hundred rations). Other components were those prescribed in army rations. The quality of this ration issued was excellent, its cost less than twenty-two cents per day per capita and quantity ample. The Brigade Commissary, Major W. S. McLain, a very capable officer of much experience, contracted for rations for 2,900 troops before arrival of troops and actually needed or issued for 2,878. Ice was issued by the Q. M. Department.

7. It is hardly possible to give number of drills and ceremonies, but General Order No. 5, Headquarters Second Brigade, of which paragraph IX shows the routine followed, is attached and marked "B." An effort was made to see as much as possible of the drills, but to watch a Brigade is a difficult task, and at best, must be very superficial, although I was most fortunate in having the assistance of First Lieutenant Edgar S. Stayer, Adjutant First Battalion, Twenty-Third U. S. Infantry, a former officer of the brigade, and one who is very much interested in the work. The Brigade Commander, General J. A. Wiley, a veteran of two wars and a practical soldier, requested me to call attention to any errors observed and as far as possible I did so, and endeavored, with Lieutenant Stayer's assistance, to correct them. In every instance, from Colonel to private, our suggestions were received in a manner that made it a pleasure to give assistance, but the lack of proper armories or drill sheds, and limited time at disposal at home cannot be overcome in eight days by the patriotism, intelligence or desire to excel of the individual so that the set up and snap is not all that it might be if more time could be obtained; for just as camp breaks up, the men commence to show the effects of hard work, and if fourteen days were allowed, instead of eight, results would be increased a hundred fold. In the mornings many of the drills were by squads and there was a marked difference, of course, in proficiency, some doing remarkably well, and others not understanding the difference between "fours right" and "Squads right" for while the last command was given the first was executed. Regiments in which the squads know how to turn, must, of necessity, excel those in which company commanders have neglected the foundations of training. This work should be done before coming to camp by Company Commanders. Ceremonies of Brigade Review, Regimental Parade and Guard-mounting, were very well executed by the time camp ended. No practice marches or field exercises were held, and very little drill was had in extended order or in combat formation for infantry, other than by company. Regimental, Battalion and Company close order drills were good. There were a few drills in advance guard of which the principles seemed fairly well understood. To sum up, the Brigade worked hard, showed a marked improvement in drill at close of encampment and composed as it is of patriotic, intelligent men with a love of military life, needs only a short time for instruction to give an excellent account of itself against a foreign foe, as it has already done on numerous occasions at home on strike duty.

8. The personnel has already been partly treated, but the Brigade has an able Commander and a very efficient Brigade Staff, so that it could to-day take the field and be well taken care of, although the men do not pass as severe a physical examination as in the regular service, for a great many are examined in a very short time, attention being principally directed toward rejecting those with heart disease, tuberculosis and venereal trouble. In my opinion the greatest amount of good would come from an encampment, with troops from other states, and a brigade of regulars where each contingent could maneuver by itself, under its own officers, but where officers and men could make comparisons for themselves, for to excel it is necessary to know what others are doing. The officers of the guard as a whole are a patriotic, hard working body of enthusiastic men who give their time, and some much money to make this organization a success; for it is only in the past year that the State has allowed them anything whatever for uniforms, etc., and while thirty dollars to dismounted and forty dollars to mounted officers is better than nothing, men who give all their spare time and energy, should receive what is actually necessary. The system of electing officers for five years is not productive of the best results, as the most worthy is by no means selected or re-elected, but if it were possible to have all candidates take examination and voting then be confined to those who have passed, better material would be obtained in many cases. It is partly due to this system of electing that saluting is neglected, for it seems to eradicate the idea it is necessary for discipline to preserve distinction in ranks between the enlisted man and officer. If a man will consider when in uniform, it is not his companion he is saluting, but Captain—and if the Captain will remember that he is not being saluted, but his rank is, there will not be slights of officers and men drinking together, etc. The private may not only be of equal but of much better social status than his Captain, but in uniform or on duty courtesy among military men is indispensable to discipline. Saluting must be taught by Company Commanders, and was not what it ought to be, being good in some organizations and very poor in others. Every Company Commander should see that his company is thoroughly instructed in Par. 37, and from Par. 589 to Par. 602, both inclusive Drill Regulations. The behavior and esprit de corps of the Brigade during the encampment was excellent, although the Brigade Commander took no chances and had provost guards in the city and wherever he thought there might be a disturbance. There was not I believe a single serious case of misbehavior, and women were treated with great courtesy. Personally, I saw but one drunken man, and except that he showed it when spoken to, would not have noticed him. Upon the street cars upon several occasions, I heard privates speaking among themselves with pride of the good behaviour of the men and condemning those they thought might bring disgrace upon them. The camp was orderly and quiet.

9. Guard duty was not as it should be, for in spite of strict orders to the contrary, recruits were put on post without proper instruction. This, which is the most important of all a soldier's duties, should be taught at home station, in the company, as before a man is brought to camp he should know, theoretically at least, what a sentinel should do on post. There is no reason for carelessness in the matter of sentinel's saluting, in not challenging properly and not carrying piece as it should be. A well instructed, smart, soldierly guard shows quicker than anything else the field efficiency of a command. The officers and non-commissioned officers in many cases were uncertain what to do, and guards did not turn out and form as quickly as they should. There was no outpost duty, but sentinels should be instructed. Every effort was made by one Colonel, at least, by means of extra guard-mountings and by use of his adjutants to instruct his guard in all their duties, theoretically and practically, but time was too short for him to accomplish what his Company Commanders had neglected at home.

10. No target practice was held in camp except by Battery "B" with 3.2 inch guns. It fired thirty rounds of shrapnel at a floating target 5 inch by 9 inch at 1,300 yards. Hit six times but had no range finder and while other shots were in line they were not the proper distance. Companies are not exercised in position and aiming drill nor in gallery practice, but all have ranges at home stations.

G. O. No. 5, Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania, hereto attached and marked "C," gives qualifications necessary in classification and allowances made by the State.

11. At Brigade Headquarters were kept:
Consolidated Morning Report Book.
Endorsement Book.
Order Books (G. O.—S. O. and Order Files).

Roster.

Guard Report of Brigade Guard.

At Regimental Headquarters:

Consolidated Morning Report.

Endorsement Book.

Roster.

G. O. Book, S. O. Book, Order Files.

Guard Report of Regimental Guard.

In the Company:

Enlistment Papers, Rifle Target Record.

The Hutter Book, which embraces the following subjects:

Roll and Attendance.

General Orders, Division Headquarters.

Special Orders, Division Headquarters.

General Orders, Brigade Headquarters.

Special Orders, Brigade Headquarters.

General Orders, Regimental Headquarters.

Special Orders, Regimental Headquarters.

Descriptive List.

Financial Accounts.

These books and papers meet all the requirements of the State, and officers and men seem to have a correct knowledge of correspondence and record keeping.

12. The instruction given by the instructor was as stated to point out errors and as far as possible answer questions.

13. The officers of the Medical Department from the Brigade Surgeon, Major B. K. Van Naten, an enthusiastic and energetic officer, down, are most anxious to have their department as nearly as possible like that of the regular establishment. The department is not supplied with field desks, proper number of orderly pouches (there should be one for each surgeon) with field ranges, mess chests, buckets, candle-sticks, hatchets or basins, and the surgical instruments are not what they should be. Battery "B" had no medical supplies, cots or bedding, and neither of the Cavalry troops had cots or bedding, nor proper medical supplies. The Guard has a good hospital corps, twelve privates, one hospital steward and two acting hospital stewards to a three battalion regiment, but all should be instructed in cooking, and should run hospital messes as well as prepare food for the sick instead of messing with organizations as at present. The Corps has excellent Surgeons, and should be equipped up to date as that of the regular army with the following chests, etc., as shown in manual of U. S. Medical Department for 1902:

1. Medical and Surgical chest for detached service, par. 305, p. 163.
2. Regimental Medical and Surgical Outfit, par. 304, p. 160.
3. Mess Chest, par. 313, p. 166.
4. Miscellaneous Chest, par. 320, p. 168.
5. Field Desk, par. 294, p. 156.
6. Field Range, par. 324, p. 170.
7. Food Chests, par. 292, p. 154.

There was no Signal Corps, but Brigade contains finest material for one if necessary at any time, having a number of expert telegraphers and electricians among its members.

The Brigade was inspected on July 20th and 21st by the Inspector General, Colonel F. G. Sweeney, accompanied by the Governor and Major General Charles Miller, Division Commander, during the entire inspection. The inspection was by company, the Field, Staff and Non-Commissioned Staff Officers, Hospital Corps, Band and Field Music of each regiment being inspected in front of its Regimental Headquarters, prior to the inspection of the regiments and was most creditable. The Governor reviewed the Brigade on the afternoon of July 20th.

The interest displayed by the thousands who visited the encampment, shows that the National Guard holds a very high place in the estimation of many of the voters of the Keystone State and that many appreciate the sacrifices the citizen soldier has to make in fulfilling his patriotic duty to his State and Nation by fitting himself to serve them in the hour of need.

Pennsylvania has cause to be proud of work already done by the Second Brigade when the law was powerless without the help of the National Guardsman, and to-day it is in excellent condition to respond to any call for help to enforce law and order, but the Brigade is badly in need of armories; the Hospital Corps should have a modern and complete equipment, and officers should receive their uniforms and equipments from the State.

It is also believed by many that if the State paid to the enlisted men something for attendance at drills while at home it would enable many worthy men to join who cannot now spare the time and would enable a man also the say to others he was paid for his work.

This report was delayed in an effort to attach hereto a summary of time consumed by each organization in movements both ways, with that taken for entrainment and detrainment by Quartermasters, but as yet the data have not been received.

Very respectfully,

GEO. BELL, JR.,
Major, 1st U. S. Infantry.

Madison Barracks,
Sacketts Harbor, N. Y.,
August 9, 1905.

The Military Secretary, U. S. Army (Through Commanding General, Division Atlantic):

Sir: In compliance with par. 2, S. O. 75, Headquarters Atlantic Division, June 26, 1905, I reported by letter and subsequently in person on July 6th to the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, to the Governor on July 6th, and to the Commanding General of the Third Brigade at noon on July 7th.

In the absence of any special instructions which only reached me here July 21, and have therefore somewhat delayed the forwarding of this report, as it was necessary for me to obtain the return of Troops required and some data in regard to the Railroads, etc.

Brief Summary of Work at the Camp.

On the evening of July 7th the troops began to arrive the discipline and promptness in detraining of troops impressed me most favorably; they marched into camp in a soldierly manner. At 9 A. M., July 8th, the National Flag was raised, salute fired and the camp was formally opened in the presence of the command. After this ceremony the camp was settled and some drills were held by companies and battalions.

July 9th, Sunday, I accompanied General Gobin in his inspection of the Brigade Camp. Three thousand three hundred and forty-four officers and men present. The Regimental, Troop and Battery camps were in excellent condition, as also the kitchens, mess tents, and mess outfits. The personnel of the officers was excellent. Appearance of the men excellent in most of the companies, good in others. A somewhat closer prohibition of the wearing of different colored neckties and handkerchiefs around the neck and requirement of a soldierly hair cut would vastly improve the appearance of certain companies. In the afternoon the Ninth Regiment mounted Guard. It was well done. At 5.30 there was Brigade review, excellent, except that some officers do not conform to the manual of the saber as prescribed and are inclined to make an exaggerated salute.

July 10th. A practice march was begun at 9 A. M., to Bellaire, a town some seven miles to the westward, in two columns, by different roads, with instructions to converge upon Bellaire and go into position to hold the town against a strong force of the enemy marching on Bellaire from the west along the lines of the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad.

The troops marched with full kits, blanket roll and shelter half.

The knapsacks were discarded for this practical work as in my opinion they should be for all soldier's work and for all time.

The North Column, Colonel Dougherty, Ninth Infantry Regiment, moved out at 9 A. M., in excellent shape, except that cooks and others were allowed to start in Regimental ambulances. This was shortly corrected by the acting Brigade Surgeon. The South Column, Colonel Clement, Twelfth Infantry Regiment, marched at 9.30 A. M. Both columns had properly disposed advance and rear guards, and these important duties were well performed at all times. One regiment of South Column had some companies with shelter half outside and some with poncho outside of blanket roll. With this exception, the troops showed great care and exactness in uniform and equipments.

Inspected South Column on the march between 10 and 11 A. M. The wagons were not properly loaded, enormous boxes used instead of medium sized chests. The men marched well.

Inspected North Column between 11 and 12 M. Wagons well loaded, but same fault of too large boxes. Men marched well, especially the Fourth Infantry Regiment. Reached Bivouac ground at 12 M. and observed the occupation of position for defense.

The North Column came in sight at 12.20 P. M., and went into position on ridge. Cavalry on left flank and section of Artillery with one (1) company infantry three-fourths of a mile in direct front section of Artillery. The South Column, came in on road in front, and took position.

The Cavalry of the North Column was disposed in a wood. It is thought that the North Column should have seized the advance position with the Ridge in rear for retreat in case of necessity, knowing that the South Column was near at hand in support, the disposition of Cavalry in the woods close on left flank, would have been improved by using this arm as a cavalry screen a mile or two to the west, the detachment of a portion of the Battery to the front with a company of infantry to the distance of some three-fourths of a mile would have rendered the capture of the Artillery and Infantry inevitable by an enemy approaching on line of Railroad and from the nature of the ground the fire of Artillery would have been masked when the enemy appeared. Had the North Column been engaged at the time of the approach of the South Column the South Column would have been exposed to fire from the North Column as well as the enemy.

Bivouaced 1.30 P. M. Excellent camp, good ground and good water. July 11th. Starting at 9 A. M., a return march was made, the North and South Columns exchanging routes to the Rifle Range one mile from Camp Roney, arriving there 12.20 and going into camp. Tents were pitched and the Brigade remained until 7 P. M. when camp was broken and troops returned to Mt. Gretna.

On July 11th inspected the Camp with the Brigade Surgeon. The result is noted in answer to question below.

July 12th. At 9 A. M. the Brigade left camp, marching to the Rifle Range. Position on crest of hill, some one-third of a mile in rear of the Rifle Range firing point was occupied by the Ninth and Twelfth Regiments, and one section artillery, facing east, Colonel Dougherty commanding, with orders to repel an attack from the east. The Infantry and Artillery were well placed. The Fourth, Eighth and Thirteenth Infantry, and one troop of cavalry, under command of Colonel Stillwell, Thirteenth Regiment of Infantry, composed the attacking force, which made a spirited and well conducted infantry attack on the hill. No use made of the Cavalry.

After the troops recrossed the maneuver ground, by regiment, troop, and battery, forming for attack. The movement was well performed, except by one regiment, which advanced to within 200 yards of the objective with battalions in line.

The Artillery and Cavalry handled their untrained horses with great credit. The Artillery, theoretically a Gatling Battery, has guns of three different calibers, .30, .45 and 3.2 inch, necessitating the care of three different kinds of ammunition. It would be better in my opinion that .30 caliber guns only should be used. The guns and equipments of the artillery were kept in excellent condition.

The equipment of the cavalry in excellent condition except sabers, which had not been cleaned apparently for a long time. This was rectified after a day or two in camp.

July 13. Inspected kitchens at 6.30 A. M. Meals generally excellent. At 10.30 A. M. Regimental drills and at 5.30 P. M. Brigade Review, which was remarkably well done by all the troops. Witnessed a Hospital Corps drill, which was well done.

July 14. Review for the Commander-in-Chief, excellent. The Governor spent the entire day going through the camp, accompanied by the Adjutant General and members of his staff.

July 15. Troops returned to their home stations.

I was particularly impressed by the exemplary conduct of the Brigade and the seriousness with which all officers and men took hold of the work before them, particularly on the practice march and maneuvers. They were proud of their General and themselves, and they had a right to be. I did not see one man of the Brigade coming into camp, or during the week there, under the influence of liquor or conducting himself in an unsoldierly manner. The only case of confinement was of a camp follower.

Transportation. Infantry reached camp and returned to home stations by rail. The movement was directly under the control of Regimental Staff, supervised by Brigade Staff. Organizations were sent direct to camp from home stations, although by means of converging railroads. All were assembled at Headquarters, except Eighth Regiment and part of the Fourth Regiment; in the former, battalions were organized, one at Harrisburg and the other at Pottsville and came into camp as such. In the latter, Companies K, C, H and G, being quite near the ground, came into camp by company.

The time consumed was dependent upon the distance, the longest distance, from Scranton, being 120 miles, time five hours. The battery marched from Phoenixville to camp, distance 60 miles. The troop from Harrisburg, 26 miles, and returned in same way. The detraining and entraining of troops was excellent.

Encampment. By Brigade. Duration eight days. The camp is located between the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads, both trunk lines, with a branch line (Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad) connecting these trunk lines with camp. Area of camp for use (including Rifle Range, owned by State) 3,000 acres, with as much more available ground for maneuvers as could be required. No permanent buildings. Ground excellent for maneuvers. Good level drill ground surrounded by rolling hills. Three thousand five hundred men can be accommodated, or using drill grounds for camping purposes, double that number. Camp was made before troops arrived, broken after they left. No regular troops participated.

Sewage System. Water supply excellent, drawn from side of mountain and delivered through pipes. Hydrant in rear of each company kitchen.

Garbage. There appeared to be no proper provision for the disposal of garbage. I inspected the camp July 11th and found many of the company garbage cans had not been emptied since the camp opened, July 8th. This was supposed to be carted off and buried by details with Q. M. wagons. All the wagons available being required by the command on practice marches, it had not been attended to except in one company, E, Eighth Regiment Infantry. At several inspections I made I did not see a sign of garbage left at this company. The cook burned it all promptly. The system of making details of enlisted men who only have a week in camp a year for the purpose of removing and burying garbage is not thought to be a good one. The men have so short a time in camp that commanders should have all their men for strictly military exercises and the men not put to such work, or the disinfecting of sinks. It would seem that some provision should be made to engage a sufficient number of men who are not of the command to attend to these matters, and that a crematory should be built near at hand for the immediate destruction of deleterious matter.

Sewer System. None. The character of the soil (red sandy) and the lay of the land makes a most desirable place for camp, drying in an hour after a fairly heavy rain.

Sinks. Too near the cook houses, some 30 yards, light frame work covered with cotton sheeting. Economical and neat looking, but any sort of a wind storm would, it seemed, have carried them away. The position of the sinks was too near cook houses and up to July 11, no attempt appeared to have been made to disinfect them, or cover with earth. The Brigade Surgeon immediately purchased Creoline and had a 4 per cent. solution in flower watering cans, which worked extremely well, considering that the sinks had not been dug and covered to keep out rain water. The sinks and care of them were not a good object lesson. Boiled water was not used for drinking purposes. Not considered necessary under circumstances stated above.

The surgeons were interested, active and efficient and the Hospitals were well supplied. The Camp is not a model camp in a sanitary way, because everybody realizes that it is only for a week. I think this a mistake. The lesson of the eye must be to put sinks too close and pay too little attention to the immediate destruction of germ breeders and carriers.

Clothing and Equipment. The men brought into camp their entire kit, blankets, rubber ponchos, blue uniform and the uniform worn in Pennsylvania similar to khaki in color, but made of a fibre dyed duck, such as was issued in Porto Rico in 1898. It is stronger but not as good for general wear as khaki, as it is unyielding and does not dry as quickly.

The suits were thoroughly well made.

Subsisted. Company messes. Army ration was used with same leeway and variation as U. S. Troops, keeping within cost allowed.

Drills and Ceremonies. Regimental, Battalion and Company drills were held whenever practicable. The two days' practice march and one day of maneuvers cut up the drill days of the week so that no regular record was kept. They were generally very creditable and commanding officers careful to have movements correctly performed.

Field exercises were good. Record of practice march and field exercises above, fairly well drilled in attack formations, and well drilled in Advance and Rear Guard formations.

Personnel and Discipline. Personnel of the officers extremely good throughout. The discipline of the men, excellent, courtesy, personal courtesy universal except in the matter of saluting, standing to attention, etc. The men of the Brigade improved in these matters while in camp, but a strict compliance was not of their habit of life.

The officers, however, were very punctilious with each other.

Many of the men struck me as hardly old enough for hard field service and lacking in set up and carriage. Passing along the column of one Regiment on the march, I heard the caution of "Heads up" passed on to the front with marked effect.

Guard Duty. Performed conscientiously but sentinels not well instructed. Out posts more on the alert than main guards but all should have a great deal more practice before their performance can be considered good work.

The practice of sentinels calling the hour between Retreat and Reveille and adding "Alls Well" does not appear to be a good object lesson for camp, although authorized by the Guard Manual, when ordered.

Target Practice. None held in camp. State competition opens the second week of August on Rifle Range, 1 mile from camp. Excellent range. Stationary firing point. Butts for short, mid, and long range firing, well constructed and stone faced. I did not go into details of instruction, as, at the time, I had no instructions, and, as I was not to be present, did not then consider it important to look into.

Record Keeping. The Hutter book is used for records in each company and Regimental Headquarters, in which is recorded Company rolls, Returns, Drills and Parades, State Property, Rifle Practice, General and Special Orders of the A. G. O., Division, Brigade and Regimental Headquarters, Enlistment and Ledger, i. e., Descriptive Book. In view of the fact that present laws put the organized militia on the basis of a first reserve for U. S. Troops, it is thought the records kept should be the same in form and matter.

In the absence of any request for technical instruction from me, I simply acted as an officer of observation making such suggestions as occurred to me to be appropriate. I found the officers somewhat reticent about asking for information and herewith repeat a recommendation made by me in 1891, when on similar duty with the National Guard of Iowa, that a sufficient number of experienced non-commissioned officers be detailed to attend these encampments, be quartered with the men and give them in their company camps the benefit of their own experience in camp life, marches, and all the details they would otherwise have to learn by going through similar scenes.

This recommendation was approved by the Inspector General of the Army and the following year was tried in the camps of the Iowa troops with marked success and appreciation, as I learned later from the Adjutant General of the State. The friendly rivalry of the men of different organizations and the sergeants increased the amount of work done, over and above previous years.

General Orders,
No. 35.

I. The several organizations of the National Guard and Naval Force of Pennsylvania will be inspected in their respective Armories, beginning January 15, 1906. General Headquarters, Division and Brigade Headquarters, will also be inspected; the officers attached to each Headquarters will be advised by their immediate Commanding Officer when and where to present themselves for inspection. The inspection will be under the supervision of the Inspector General, who is hereby directed to make such detail of officers of the Inspector General's Department, and arrange such dates for said inspections, as will best advance the interests of the service. The annual inspection required by Section 14 of the Act of Congress approved January 21, 1903 (G. O. No. 5, A. G. O., series 1903), will be made at the same time by an officer of the U. S. Army detailed by the War Department for that duty.

II. A statement of State property will be furnished direct from the Adjutant General's office, previous to inspection—one copy to the inspecting officer and one copy to the accounting officer. The inspecting officer will verify the statement and return same through the Inspector General's Department to the Adjutant General's office with necessary notations and observations written thereon, and will make like notations and observations on the copy to be retained by the accounting officer.

III. Blank forms (Inspection Roll) will be transmitted direct to Commanding Officers from the office of the Adjutant General. Inspection Rolls will be prepared in duplicate, one copy to be retained and one copy to be delivered to the inspecting officer on date of inspection. The inspecting officer or the commanding officer will call the roll of the command. The inspecting officer will mark those present and absent, and in case of absentees will note in column of remarks the cause of absence.

In preparing the rolls care must be taken to have them correct, names must be properly spelled, the date of enlistment in which the soldier is now serving must be given, and in the column of remarks must be noted previous enlistments served, giving date and in what organization.

All changes in membership since last inspection at Encampment, July, 1905, must be carefully noted. Where the term of enlistment of a soldier expires, and he re-enlists, he will be accounted for under the heading "Casualties, etc., as a loss, and should he re-enlist, that fact, together with the date of re-enlistment, will be noted in column of remarks.

IV. Where companies of a regiment are stationed at different points, commanding officers of regiments are authorized to furnish transportation to not more than two field officers of such regiment to attend a company inspection. An effort should be made to have at least one field officer present during the inspection of a Company.

V. Field and staff officers, non-commissioned staff officers and the members of the Hospital Corps of regiments, occupying regimental armories, will appear for inspection on such date as the commanding officer of the regiment may designate, the date to be the same as that fixed for a company inspection. Where companies of a regiment are located at different points, and the Field, Staff, Non-Commissioned Staff and members of Hospital Corps, are located at different points within the regimental territory, the commanding officer will direct them to present themselves for inspection on the date of inspection of the company in or nearest the town in which they reside.

Regimental bands will be paraded for inspection on the same date as that fixed for the inspection of a company of the regiment to which the band is attached, except where a regimental band is located in a town where there is no company, in which case a separate date will be named for the inspection of the band.

Regimental commanders will prepare the Inspection Roll for Field and Staff, Non-Commissioned Staff, Hospital Corps and Regimental Band, and will comply strictly with the instructions contained in paragraph III of this General Order.

VI. In cases where officers or enlisted men are absent from their commands in other portions of the State, transportation will not be allowed them to return to their commands for inspection.

VII. Organizations found upon inspection to be in an inefficient condition will be made the subject of a special report and recommendation by the Inspector, the same to be forwarded immediately through the Inspector General's Department to the Adjutant General, for the consideration of the Commander-in-Chief.

VIII. A commutation of $1.50 will be allowed inspectors for each company, troop, battery, or Division Naval Force of Pennsylvania, inspected, for the purpose of paying services of a non-commissioned officer or private detailed to assist the inspector in inspection of State property. No transportation or subsistence will be furnished to enlisted men so detailed. In cases where a regiment or regiments, or a number of companies are located at the same point, details need not be made from each company; the inspecting officer can arrange for detail to assist him at all inspections in that locality. Where inspectors make payment of the commutation allowed, they will take receipts for the same and file them with their claim for reimbursement. Claims for reimbursement, or for pay to be made direct to enlisted men, will be made upon blank form State Military Board voucher.

IX. Inspecting officers will ascertain and report on statement of State property, the quantity and kind of ammunition on hand in the respective organizations.

X. When in the judgment of the inspecting officer it is deemed necessary, officers and non-commissioned officers will be examined by the Inspector as to their general efficiency, and knowledge of their respective duties, and where found deficient, incompetent, inattentive, or negligent in the performance of their duties, a special report as to commissioned officers will be forwarded without delay through the Inspector General's Department, in order that where the circumstances warrant it, such officers may be discharged from the service. Non-commissioned officers found to be inefficient will be reported by the Inspector to the Commanding Officer of the organization for his action.

XI. The Hutter Book must be fully written up and presented for inspection. It must contain a full and complete record of all State moneys received during the year beginning June 1, 1905, and expenditures made therefrom during same period. Commanding officers will be required to present to the Inspector for his information, the communication from the Adjutant General's office, stating result of the audit of financial reports for year ending May 31, 1905. This communication will show balance on hand, if any, May 31, 1905, to be accounted for on next report. The inspecting officer will be furnished a statement by the Adjutant General showing what amount of State money each captain is responsible for.

XII. The Rifle Practice Record Book must be written up and contain the record of marksmanship in the command for the preceding Rifle Practice season.

XIII. The attention of Commanding Officers is called to the provision of law requiring the original enlistment paper or re-enlistment paper to be forwarded promptly to the Adjutant General's office. Duplicate enlistment papers must be kept on file, and exhibited to the inspecting officer for each enlisted man accounted for on the Inspection Roll.

XIV. Each company is required to have arms, uniforms and equipment for at least fifty-five men, and when it is necessary to make requisition for stores it should be attended to promptly in order to insure receipt of stores prior to inspection.

By order of SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

General Orders No. 6, last of series 1904.

Headquarters of the Division,
National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Franklin, August 5, 1905.

General Orders,
No. 2.

I. A Court of Inquiry was ordered April 3, 1905, by Special Orders No. 1 from Division Headquarters, to "investigate the facts and circumstances in connection with the election for Captain, Company D, Fourteenth Regiment Infantry, on or about the 20th day of February, 1905, and to give its opinion thereon." The record is before me and the finding is that the election was without fraud, and it discovered no irregularity. We have carefully gone over the testimony and disagree entirely with its conclusion.

The Court seems to have regarded the matter as "a case" between certain enlisted men of Company D and the Colonel of the Regiment and Captain of Company A, and treated it as such, regardless of the interests of the National Guard and the enforcement of the law regulating elections in companies. The evidence does not justify the finding of the court, but on the contrary reveals the fact that there was a premeditated and studied arrangement to violate the spirit and intent of the law governing enlistments, discharges and company elections.

No law or custom could permit the discharge of men from one company and their enlistment in another under such circumstances and for such a purpose. The use of those men in the election of officers of the second company and their discharge immediately thereafter was a direct and palpable violation of the law. It was simply a temporary transfer of men from one company to another, in order to control an election of a captain. No officer can be excused, much less justified in participating in such proceedings, but must feel that his conduct is censurable in the highest degree as affecting the integrity of the entire National Guard system. The finding of the Court is disapproved as being in violation of law and contrary to the uncontradicted evidence.

It may be observed that certain portions of the subject matter of the inquiry, to-wit:

The condition of the Hutter Book of Companies A and D, the question whether men enlisted on the night of the election were ever entered upon the Hutter Book of Company D, or their names had been removed from the book of Company A prior to their enlistment in Company D, seems to have been entirely ignored by the Court. The Brigadier General commanding most emphatically expresses his disapprobation of the entire proceeding in this election as disclosed by the testimony.

II. The Court of Inquiry convened by S. O. No. 1, c. s., Headquarters Division, N. G. P., is hereby dissolved.

III. The Court of Inquiry convened by S. O. No. 2, c. s., Headquarters Division, N. G. P., is hereby dissolved.

By command BRIGADIER GENERAL GOBIN,
W. J. ELLIOTT,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Headquarters of the Division,
National Guard of Pennsylvania,
Franklin, Pa., September 30, 1905.

General Orders,

No. 3.

I. The following appointment on the Division Staff is hereby announced:
Louis A. Watres, Colonel Retired List, to be Judge Advocate with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

By command MAJOR GENERAL MILLER.
